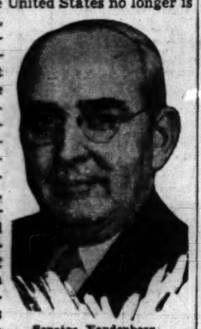
Norway Stops War; Germans Claim Sea Victory

ARM SPEEDILY, SHUN WAR, PLEA OF VANDENBERG

Senator Outlines Six Defense Steps.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—Asserting that the United States no longer is a neutral, but has become a nonbelligerent to help the allies defeat Germany, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] tonight called for a reorientation of our foreign and domestic policies to keep us out of actual participation in the war and arm us impregnably at home.



Senator Vandenberg.

In a notable radio address to the nation which may influence profoundly the framing of the Republican platform at Philadelphia a fortnight hence and affect no less profoundly his chances of achieving the Republican nomination for President, Senator Vandenberg proclaimed himself not an isolationist, but an insulationist.

The Michigan senator proposed building "an impregnable national defense."

"Not for war in Europe!" he added. "But against war if it ever comes to our homeland or any of its essential outposts."

Six Points on Program.

The outstanding features of the Vandenberg program follows:

1. Conclude a new commercial and political treaty with Japan, which would pacify the Pacific region and enable us to transfer our battle fleet to the Atlantic coast.

2. Aid the allies to the utmost that is legal, with the proviso that "we shall not under any circumstances actually enter this war abroad and shall not impair the nucleus of our own present meager defenses for the sake of arming others."

3. Create a civilian procurement administrator with unlimited power to mobilize the vast mass production of aircraft, arms, and other war equipment essential to the combined purposes of adequately arming the allies and the United States.

4. Safeguard the public credit by increasing taxes sufficiently to pay the cost of national defense and by a 10 per cent reduction of all other costs of government.

5. Purge the government of communists and deny a place on the ballot to the communist party, which proposes to overthrow our government by force and violence.

6. Keep congress in session to deal with the problems of this emergency, particularly to attack "unpreparedness on the fiscal as well as the military front."

Decries War Hysteria.

Senator Vandenberg deplored the war hysteria promoted by Mr. Roosevelt. America, he said, "is not automatically lost if the allies lose." If the preservation of our country were dependent upon allied victory, he went on, "we ought to go to war tomorrow with everything we possess."

"We want and we intend," said the senator, "that America shall survive no matter who wins in Europe. We intend to survive in the postwar world whatever it may be. I am frank to express my own view that an exhausted Nazi conquerer is not calculated soon to ask for more war when once he lapses into armistice. But I do not suggest that we rely upon this thesis."

Particularly arresting and significant were the senator's utterances on the topic of the necessity of financial preparedness. He pointed out that the Roosevelt tax bill would yield only enough to pay one-fifth of the annual deficit, exclusive of defense expenditures—only a "mustard plaster on a cancer."

"A crisis is obvious," he said. "We are at the end of the road of deficit spending. We are at the bottom of the barrel."

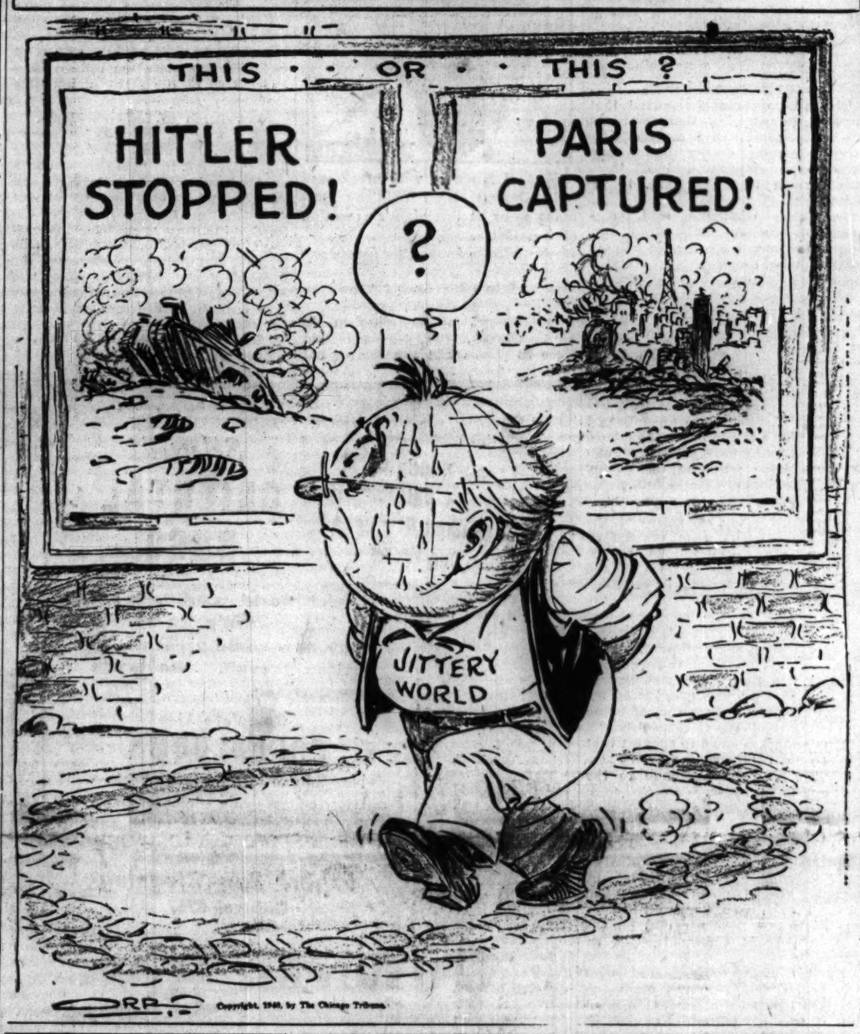
THIS WEEK'S WAR BULLETINS?



Townfolk Fire Sect's Meeting House; 2 Shot

Kennebunk, Me., June 9 [Special].—Two men were shot and a meeting house was sacked and burned today in a series of mob outbreaks here and in neighboring towns against the pacifist sect known as Jehovah's Witnesses. The house burned was the sect's headquarters. Indignation still smoldered tonight.

The core of the disturbances appeared to be the sect's teachings not to salute the flag. Members of the group, more formally known as the Watch Tower Bible and Tract society, have frequently clashed with the authorities for refusing to permit their children to salute the American flag.

Refuse to Salute Flag.

The trouble started in nearby Sanford last night when Frederick Whitzel of Decatur, Ala., and Lloyd B. Stull of Cole, W. Va., organizers for the society, were roughed up by a crowd of several hundred men for refusing to salute the flag. Police held them in protective custody overnight.

The incident inflamed the entire area, most of whose people trace their ancestry to pre-revolutionary times. During the night sect members warned one another to be on guard.

However, nothing more might have occurred, police said, except for a more or less innocent happening. Before noon today an automobile with five men stopped in front of Kingdom hall, headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses here, and home of Edward Robb, Kennebunk sect leader.

Blast of Shotgun Fire.

Robb and five other men were inside the hall, which had been carefully barricaded. Suddenly a blast of shotgun fire came from the house, and struck the automobile. Two of its occupants, Dwight Robinson, 24 years old, and Fred McDonald, 33, were wounded, the former so seriously it may be necessary to amputate his legs.

Police responded immediately. The two wounded men and their friends protested they had stopped unwittingly before Robb's home, and without intention of harming him. Robb was seized. So were Benjamin Graves, of Kennebunk; Richard Trask and Fayette Snowdale, both of Biddeford, and Carroll S. Madsen and

MAGINOT LINE GUNS BLAST NAZI TROOPS IN BLACK FOREST AREA

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Map on page 5.)

BASEL, Switzerland, June 10 [Monday].—Sharply at 2 o'clock this morning [7 p. m. Sunday Chicago time] the batteries of the French Maginot line opened their first major bombardment. Buildings in Basel quivered from the reverberations as inhabitants in night clothes rushed to roofs of houses and into streets.

The French fire apparently was intended to break up German preparations behind their lines. An estimated 20 German divisions were said to be at the edge of the Black forest.

The sky was alight from shellbursts and balloon flares released by both the French and Germans and from large fires started directly behind Istein, a small German town northwest of Basel.

After 15 minutes of continuous roar the guns ceased as suddenly as they began, but the firing was resumed by both sides 15 minutes later. The Germans scored a hit on a gas tank three miles west of Basel.

RAIL SCOUT CAR REPORTED NEW HITLER WEAPON

LONDON, June 9 (AP).—Adolf Hitler is about to introduce another secret weapon, an armored rail car, to harry the French from their own railway tracks, said the Rome radio announcer in a broadcast heard here tonight. He stated the cars are so small and light that they can be carried across obstructions to undamaged tracks. They carry two men and are to be used mainly for scouting. Slightly larger cars, said the announcer, carry 12 shock troopers.

Americans in Berlin Still Get 1939 Christmas Cards

BERLIN, June 9.—Christmas is almost six months behind warring Europe, but for Americans residing here there is no escaping the Yuletide spirit awakened by greetings from friends at home. The reason is that Christmas cards continue to arrive here. Some which arrived this morning were mailed as early as Dec. 11. The advice for 1940 for those who have friends abroad is "mail early for Christmas."

Propose Firing Un-Americans from U. S. Jobs

Washington, D. C., June 9 [Special].—A demand that President Roosevelt start the drive against any fifth column by ousting 563 persons in government service listed by the Dies committee to investigate un-American activities as members of the League for Peace and Democracy, was made today by Representative James E. Van Zandt [R., Pa.].

Terming the League for Peace and Democracy a communist front organization, Van Zandt said the Dies committee published the names of its members in government service seven months ago and that no action has been taken.

"When this membership list was published by the Dies committee," Van Zandt said, "the action was denounced vigorously by President Roosevelt. Since that time congress has been waiting hopefully for some action in the executive branch to check such communist-front activities in Washington. More than seven months have passed without action."

"Synonymous with New Deal."

In a radio speech tonight Representative J. Parnell Thomas [R., N. J.], a member of the Dies committee, charged that the fifth column has flourished in the United States under the New Deal. He demanded, as did Van Zandt, that all communist or Nazi employés of the government should be discharged.

"The fifth column in the United States," he said, "is in some respects synonymous to the New Deal. So the surest way to removing the fifth column from our shores is to remove the New Deal from the seat of government.

Warns Against Enemy Within.

"To be secure, we must not only prepare to defend ourselves from without, but we must also guard against enemies from within. We must drive the un-American groups into the open, incorporate and license them, find or print the membership, and deport the deportables."

Edwin S. Smith, national labor board member, charged today that a drive to identify American labor with a fifth column had been started by persons in and out of government who have vigorously opposed all forms of progressive legislation for the protection of labor.

HITLER'S TANKS DRIVE TO SEINE RIVER; FRENCH COUNTERATTACK ON AISNE LINE

Force British Plane Carrier Ashore Near Narvik.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Picture on back page.)

BERLIN, June 9.—Two German battleships supposedly sunk or damaged early in the Norwegian campaign have scored a resounding victory over the British navy in waters off Narvik, the German high command said today.

The victorious German warships were the 26,000 ton Scharnhorst and Gneisenau. Their victims, announced as shelled and driven ashore yesterday, were the British aircraft carrier Glorious, of 22,500 tons, and an unnamed allied destroyer.

Claim Other Successes.

Another unit of the German fleet, operating in the same waters, was claimed to have destroyed the 21,000 ton transport Orama, the British naval tanker Oil Pioneer, 9,100 tons, and a modern submarine chaser. Several hundred prisoners were taken in this action, the Germans said.

The sudden appearance of such powerful German naval units in arctic waters was interpreted here as a challenge to the British grand fleet. Their mission, as the high command put it, was "to alleviate German troops fighting in the Narvik sector." The high command's communique was issued prior to the Norwegian announcement that fighting in Norway had been ordered halted.

A Veteran Commander.

The Scharnhorst and Gneisenau unit was under the command of Admiral Marschall, who for a time commanded the German squadron operating in Spanish waters during the civil war. The presence of these two battleships in such fighting would indicate that the damage—if any—they received while the Germans were taking Norway was of a minor nature.

The fact that the Scharnhorst and Gneisenau were exposed to conflict with the British gave rise to speculation as to whether the Germans have completed one or even both of their 35,000 ton battleships, the Bismarck and the Tirpitz.

British Admit Clash.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 9.—British and German forces in the North sea clashed yesterday in a naval battle, the admiralty disclosed tonight.

The admiralty announced that it had received information which "appears to indicate that there was contact on June 8 between British and German naval forces in northern waters."

The communique added that no further statement would be made until a full report was received. It made no comment on the German claims of success in the battle. The aircraft carrier Glorious, which the Nazis said had been driven ashore, was one of the oldest such ships in the British navy.. It was launched in 1916 and converted into a carrier after the last war. Her equipment included 48 planes. A sister ship, the Courageous, was torpedoed and sunk last Sept. 17.

KING AND CABINET FLEE TO BRITAIN; VOW NEW EFFORT

STOCKHOLM, June 10, Monday (AP).—The Norwegian government news agency early today disclosed that King Haakon had ordered capitulation of all Norway to Germany, but that his government would continue to fight with the British and French allies on the western front.

King Haakon.

A declaration attributed to the king, crown prince, and the government asserted that the western front fighting had forced the allies to withdraw forces from Norway and that the Norwegians "cannot go on fighting in north Norway against the German power."

Flee to England.

The king and his government have fled to England, but the announcement indicated they would continue to support the allies even tho Norwegian resistance to the Germans was ordered to stop at midnight June 9. The method or extent of Norwegian help for the allies on the western front was not made clear.

"Necessity of the war forced the allies to gather all their forces on other fronts where all soldiers and all materials are necessary," the announcement said.

"Norwegian soldiers who during two months of war fought bravely now do not have ammunition and fighting planes enough and cannot go on fighting against the German power."

Two Months of War.

The peace agreement was reported from Tromsoe, in the far north of Norway. Saturday the allies were reported to have driven the Germans to the next to last railway tunnel on their retreat from Narvik to the Swedish frontier.

The Norwegian peace was announced just two months to the day after the Germans moved in a surprise dawn attack on the Norwegian capital and coastal points. Germans, smuggled into Narvik under the decks of freighters, took that port despite supposed British naval control of the North sea.

Subsequently a British and French force was landed north and south of Trondheim, on the west coast in an effort to take that point in a pincers movement. But German armored divisions established contact thru Dombas, and forced the British to withdraw on May 2 and 3.

Tenuous Grip on City.

With the Germans in control of all Norway except the far north, where they held a tenuous grip on Narvik, the allies transferred their chief operations to that Arctic port, and captured it May 28.

Well informed Norwegians professed no knowledge of an earlier report by the correspondent of the Swedish newspaper Dagens Nyheter that the allied commanders also had participated in the peace and that the Germans had agreed not to press their offensive beyond a certain point which would leave the Norwegians in possession of Narvik and the rest of the North.

Germans Hear King Flees.

BERLIN, June 10, Monday (AP).—The reported cessation of hostilities in Norway was unannounced in Berlin up to 3:15 a. m. today but the official news agency brought dispatches from Stockholm concerning the flight of King Haakon from the country. These dispatches said the "remnants" of French and British expeditionary forces were leaving Norway and that King Haakon had departed, presumably for Britain.

"It seems the Norwegian phase of the war is drawing to a close," said informed quarters, who added that the "report is of such importance that an official German statement must be awaited before comment can be made."

Parachutists Drop Behind Defense Line: Encircled.

PARIS, June 10, Monday, [AP].—The Germans struck with at least 1,800,000 men—100 infantry divisions and additional mechanized divisions—in a tightening semicircle about Paris which today had reached within 35 miles of the capital.

Planes added their stings to the attack. Antiaircraft fire was heard in Paris this morning with accompanying thuds, tho no air raid alarm was given. The suburbs, but not the capital itself, were bombed several times yesterday.

German bombers raided communications in the Paris region, and in the rear of the French front armies. These attacks were especially violent in the region of Pontoise, 20 miles north of Paris.

Parachutists Surrounded.

In addition, the Germans launched a "massive" parachute attack on the open Champagne country to the northeast of Paris yesterday, but French troops were reported to have surrounded the parachutists promptly in the region north of Vouziers.

The parachutists were intended to join the overland divisions smashing southward in what Generalissimo Maxime Weygand proclaimed was "the last quarter hour" of the battle. He exhorted French troops to "hold tight" to the soil of France.

Launch Counterattacks.

The French made counterattacks on the Aisne river and in the Argonne forest.

German panzer (armored) divisions, pushing along the Andelle valley, reached the outskirts of Rouen and penetrated into Pont de L'Arche, both on the Seine. Rouen lies about 65 miles northwest of Paris and about 45 miles east of the port of La Havre. Pont de L'Arche is eight miles southeast of Rouen.

Cabinet Meets Hastily.

Other German armored units penetrated to the Lepte valley town of Gisors, 35 miles northwest of Paris. Nazi units driving from Montdidier were believed to have pushed east of Beauvais, 40 miles airline north of Paris.

In these climactic circumstances, the cabinet of Premier Paul Reynaud met in emergency session with President Lebrun last night and discussed the situation for an hour and a half, but issued no word of any decisions taken.

The Germans apparently were using all they had available in troops and mechanized units in an attempt to crack the stubborn defenses of France.

Gen. Weygand, in his order of the day, also alluded to the possibility of development of the battle all the way from the English channel to the Maginot line and "as far as Switzerland." This stirred apprehension that the Germans might launch an attack thru Switzerland today.

The Germans' push in the center of the front, north of Paris, was reported to have slackened yesterday from severe setbacks and losses, but later the Germans in the Soissons area gathered fresh strength and threw themselves forward into a battle toward Chateau Thierry and Belleau Wood where Americans fought in the world war.

Check Nazis in Argonne.

Farther to the east the Germans threw 600,000 fresh troops and 3,500 more tanks into the battle of Argonne forest. The high command reported that the Germans were checked there.

When "scouting detachments" of German armored units on the left wing of the French reached Rouen and Pont de L'Arche on the Seine, the high command said, they "tried vainly to cross the Seine."

The high command told of the push of armored units—previously reported to number 200 tanks—from the region of Forges-les-Eaux and Arguell southward toward the regions of Rouen and Gisors.

Farther east on the 160 mile northern front, from the sea to Montmedy, the French reported successful counterattacks.

The French high command told of German setbacks in that sector of the front north and northeast of Paris between Montdidier, Noyon, and Soissons.

Attack Less Persistent.

". . . Between Montdidier and Noyon," the communique last night said, "the enemy was much less persistent than on Saturday. It appeared, in fact, according to the numerous statements of prisoners, that in this region they suffered Saturday afternoon a serious setback and considerable losses.

"It was the same Sunday morning between the Oise and Noyon and the Aisne at Soissons. There also one of the enemy armies was sorely tried. It was only early this afternoon that they resumed their offensive after throwing south of the Aisne, near Soissons, new divisions supported by new armored units.

"Late this afternoon an attack was also under way in the region of Pontavert."

Counterattack on Aisne.

Still farther east the French were said to have checked the dawn attack in Champagne, between Chateau Porcien and the Argonne.

"The enemy was able to cross the Aisne only at two points where they were counterattacked," it was reported.

Sunday morning's main German attack at 5 a. m. was over a 30 mile long sector westward from Chesne-Populeux to Château Porcien. Chesne-Populeux is 20 miles south of Sedan and 35 miles northwest of the world war battlefield of Verdun.

The communique said, "War reconnaissances effected this morning showed several German columns were sorely tried and left important material on the spot."

Praise for the Poilu.

The high command paid a tribute to the resistance of the bearded, sweating poilus:

"Despite their fatigue, despite their numerical inferiority, our troops are continuing to fight with ardor and heroism."

German penetration south of Montdidier and east of Beauvais would represent attainment of positions within the 30 to 40 mile zone north of Paris.

Farther east of this Paris-pointed thrust, the French were reported in strong counterattacks in the Tardenois sector, between the Aisne and Marne. [About 9½ miles south of the Aisne.]

French lines still farther east, in the Argonne forest, were reported holding and counterattacks were said to have been launched against the Germans.

Fresh French Troops.

The French were throwing tens of thousands of fresh troops into the renewed battle of the Argonne forest in an effort to stop the German advance.

French reports on the battle south of Amiens said that in the opening days of the battle on that part of the Somme river front the Germans had suffered such severe losses that they had to withdraw the remnants of seven full divisions.

The French declared that these divisions—105,000 men at full strength—virtually were cut to pieces.

Determined to force thru nevertheless, they said, Hitler threw 20 new divisions into the area, giving him a total of 40 on that front alone.

The Germans also poured 10 fresh divisions into the Soissons sector where they succeeded yesterday in crossing to the south bank of the Aisne river on both sides of the town.

More Than 1,000 Tanks Hit.

According to an official French estimate, more than a thousand tanks had been blasted into crumpled, sooty hulks of metal in the first four days of the offensive against France.

A war ministry spokesman said it appeared that Adolf Hitler, who is said in some reports to be directing the offensive himself, has thrown "everything he has" into a gigantic effort to reach Paris, a parallel to the imperial German army's world war drive which was brought to a stop almost at the gates of the capital.

The daily military chronicle issued by the foreign ministry commented that American bombers are being used to excellent effort but "not without losses" and "immediate development of deliveries from the United States" is necessary.

The Paris exodus is growing faster. The normal Paris population of 3,000,000 had dropped to 2,000,000 before this offensive began and now it is much less.

Behind the lines, two new decrees were promulgated to strengthen the capital's security.

All foreigners, except Britons, were ordered to hand over all firearms to police within 24 hours.

The public works ministry was empowered to ration electricity if necessary and and the populace was urged voluntarily to conserve power for war industries.

The stay-behinds in Paris who insisted on taking their customary Sunday promenade were sifted thru lines of plainclothes men and police examining their papers.

France Flanked by Danger Spots

This map shows how much of France is in German hands and the "danger spots" along the Swiss and Italian borders which were being watched as Germans pressed closer to Paris. Exchange of fire last night between forts of the Maginot and Siegfried lines along the Rhine river awakened residents of Basel, Switzerland. Italy's entry into the war has been a matter of speculation for days.

STAY ON JOB, FRANCE TELLS WAR FACTORY HEADS AND WORKERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 9.—Factory owners, executives and workers engaged in the production of war materials must remain on the job until they have received written instructions ordering them elsewhere, a government spokesman stated tonight. "The duty of manufacturers and workingmen is the same as that of officers and soldiers at the front: to remain at their post of combat," he declared. Labor unions and manufacturers associations have promised to abide by the ruling. The order does not apply to certain airplane factories being "decentralized" according to a plan drawn up last year.

Britain May Extend Indian Assembly for 1 More Year

SIMLA, India, June 9 (AP).—Lord Linlithgow, viceroy of India, announced tonight he had decided to extend the life of the Indian legislative assembly for one year from next Oct. 1 when the existing extension expires. This will be the fourth prolongation of the life of the present assembly, whose normal term is three years.

Many British Airplanes and Crews Reach Gibraltar

SEVILLE, Spain, June 9 (AP).—Persons arriving from Spanish points near Gibraltar tonight reported the arrival of many planes and crews in recent days. The British rock has assumed a grim aspect, they said, with virtually all civilians removed and many stores closed. Artillery of the fortress engaged in a long practice last night.

2 ITALIAN SHIPS AWAIT PAPERS TO ENTER SUEZ

CAIRO, Egypt, June 9 (AP).—Two Italian ships waited today at Port Said for papers to enter the Suez canal. A third, originally due at Suez tomorrow, was believed to have returned to Massawa.

Stringent precautions were taken yesterday when four Italian ships went thru the canal, one bound for Massawa and three for Italy. They were followed by tugs carrying armed guards. Antisabotage measures also were taken by important oil refineries, whose camouflaged tanks dot the shores of Suez bay.

In the last two months almost every homeward bound Italian steamer has carried dozens of motor trucks, often lashed to the decks. These trucks originally were shipped to East Africa for the Ethiopian campaign of 1935.

WHAT HITLER HAS ACCOMPLISHED IN JUST ONE MONTH

One month ago today Adolf Hitler unleashed his blitzkreig upon the Low Countries and the allies. Since then he has:

1. Crushed Holland and forced her queen, Wilhelmina, to flee.
2. Overrun Belgium and accepted the surrender of her king, Leopold III.
3. Conquered the little Duchy of Luxemburg with little effort and chased the ruler, Grand Duchess Charlotte, into France.
4. Seized the English channel ports from Abbéville north to Holland.
5. Launched the battle of France in a titanic struggle to capture Paris and destroy the French armies.

And just two months ago yesterday Hitler invaded Scandinavia. Denmark offered no resistance, and Norway gave up the fight at midnight last night.

Order Two Italian Ships Home from Jugo-Slavia

DUBROVNIK, Jugo-Slavia, June 9 (AP).—Two Italian freighters, the Penelope and the Carbonia, which were loading lumber, received telegraphic orders today to sail immediately for the nearest Italian port. Jugo-Slav circles were puzzled and frightened by the orders which indicated to some that Italy might have designs on the Dalmatian coast facing Italy across the Adriatic.

THE 'DEATH BLOW' DRIVE IS STARTED, BERLIN BELIEVES

Germans Report Progress on a Wide Front.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 9.—The general attack intended to strike a death blow against the allies has begun, Germans believed today. The battle now rages over a 200 mile front.

German forces are closing in on Paris, motorized German troops are advancing along the English channel, threatening to overthrow the strong Seine river line, and new assault divisions have launched an attack in the Argonne, historic battlefield of the last war. The Germans reported their widespread progress in this line of the daily communique:

"The enemy's attempt to stay the German attack at all costs has failed."

Seize French Supplies.

The high command reported that German infantry, in their drive in the Somme and Oise sectors, "destroyed strong enemy forces and forced other troops, some of them just thrown into the fight, to retreat."

The high command said large quantities of enemy material and supplies were seized when rear defense lines of the French were penetrated "in the direction of the lower Seine."

The announcement that new forces had been thrown into the five day old march against Paris was taken as meaning that the west flank attack had gained sufficient momentum in the drive toward the French port of Le Havre and the Seine river to permit extension of the general offensive. According to unconfirmed rumors, Rouen fell into German hands.

The communique reported German divisions were pursuing the enemy east of the Somme-Oise sectors.

Cross Aisne River.

"On both sides of Soissons, the Aisne [river] has been crossed in fighting," the communique said. "Early today other sections of the German front in France entered the attack."

The attack in the Argonne was launched at 5 a. m. after a short but fierce artillery bombardment. Comment on this phase of the extended fighting was meager, but newspapers did remark, "the new German attack relieves Soissons of its rôle of being the left wing of the German drive."

This remark seemed to suggest that the German offensive may be extended beyond the Argonne to the east and to the south.

Bomb French Airports.

While the tempo of land operations thus increased, the communique said the Nazi air force continued its work of "softening" Paris defenses by bombing airports north and southeast of the French capital and rail lines to the northwest. Another raid on the French port of Cherbourg was reported.

Enemy airplanes appeared over Duesseldort last Thursday night and dropped bombs on a residential quarter, it was announced. Six persons were reported injured and the raid was said to have caused "considerable damage to civilian property."

Total losses for the allies in the air yesterday, the Germans said, were 58 planes and one captive balloon.

Norway Gives Up

TOWNSMEN BURN SECT'S BUILDING AFTER SHOOTING

Refusal to Salute Flag Causes Outbreak.

Joseph Leathers, both of Portland. All were charged with assault with intent to kill.

News of the shooting spread, and soon 500 angry men gathered. They started for the city jail where the six prisoners were held, but were headed off by police. The prisoners were removed to the county jail at Alfred for protection.

Hour by hour the crowd increased until it totaled 2,500. Then the men marched to Robb's home and Kingdom hall. They ransacked it, and seized religious tracts, pamphlets, two shotguns, and, according to police, pictures of Hitler and Stalin and maps of Kennebunk and other coastal cities as well as of the plant of a textile machinery manufacturer.

Put Torch to Leader's Home.

Using torches, the mob set fire to the house. Firemen extinguished the first blaze, but the mob set the house on fire again. Tracts, pamphlets and the like and personal apparel of sect members were burned in the street.

After the fire a segment of the mob went to Biddeford, 10 miles away, stoned a building supposedly the home of a sect member, visited two other homes there, and dragged two men outside. Police rescued them.

WAITING TO FIGHT SATAN.

Militant pacificists, Jehovah's Witnesses hold that all national banners are impious. They believe that the kingdom of God is near at hand and await what they describe in capital letters as the GREAT THEOCRACY, when the Lord God Jehovah will lead them "in the great and terrible day of battle with Satan."

The organization, known formally as the Watch Tower Bible and Tract society, was incorporated in 1884 in Philadelphia by Charles T. Russell, a Congregational clergyman. Its present head is Joseph P. Rutherford, former Missouri judge. The society has headquarters in Brooklyn.

Members of the group frequently have become embroiled with the authorities for their refusal to permit their children to salute the American flag. One of their slogans reads: "Millions living now will never die."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

COL. M'CORMICK URGES NATION REMAIN CALM

Caution Against Hysteria in Radio Address.

BY BRUCE DENNIS.

David Rubinoff, who can make violin music exciting to every one, contributed one kind of tone to the Chicago Tribune Symphonic hour last night. Marion Claire's operatic soprano lent another. The W-G-N orchestra and chorus, directed by Henry Weber, added the harmony of its brasses, strings, and woodwinds.

To all of these Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, brought an overtone of calm counsel to the American people. As the program was broadcast over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting company's national network, Col. McCormick spoke against the spread of war hysteria.

Increase in Army Urged.

He reminded listeners that the United States has no means to wage a war overseas even if the nation should desire to do so. We have, Col. McCormick asserted, the most powerful navy in the world—one that can prevent any invasion of our eastern seaboard. We must, he said, build bombers and raise our army to 280,000 men. Then we can meet any contingency that a German victory may bring.

All this, Col. McCormick emphasized, can be done if we preserve our navy.

"We should not jeopardize our navy in any far eastern adventure, or in any other desperate enterprise," he said. "What we need, then, is CALM—a recognition that our first duty is to our fighting men, not to sacrifice them nor to deprive them of their weapons: Our next to our own citizens, and only last to a foreign war."

Business Group Special Guest.

In the W-G-N main audience studio as special guests were members of the National Small Business Men's association and their president, De Witt M. Emery. Emery, head of an Akron, O., printing specialty concern, founded the association as an instrument for informing legislators of the economic ideas of little business.

Another guest was United States Senator H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, who has been mentioned as a Republican dark horse presidential possibility.

A gale of applause greeted Rubinoff and his famed Stradivarius in his first Chicago appearance since the Chicagoland Music Festival of 1937. Tanned and in sports attire, the Russian violinist plunged at once into one of his own compositions, "The Dance of the Russian Peasants."

Rubinoff Dynamic Showman.

Conductor Weber and the orchestra provided faultless accompaniment. Rubinoff performed the intricate fingering of the composition with the same dynamic sort of showmanship that entranced a throng of 225,000 in Grant park one night three years ago, just prior to his smashing success at the Music festival.

For his second number Rubinoff, without preliminary announcement, played "Give Me a Moment," his theme when from 1930 to 1935 he gained nation-wide fame on the Eddie Cantor radio program. The piece was recognized instantly by the studio audience.

Miss Claire Wins Acclaim.

Miss Claire was in the studio spotlight both as a soloist and as the singing narrator for "The Old Spinning Wheel," a dramatic picture in words and music of the life cycle of a man of the Carolinas and his English bride. In a flowing gown of cobl blue that seemed to accent her blonde charm, the soprano came thru a series of exacting musical tests with an average mark of 100.

Miss Claire sang three songs and joined with the chorus in the Shepherd's Song and Pilgrim's Chorus from Tannhäuser in addition to her work in the Spinning Wheel production. The latter was written and directed by William A. Bacher. John Weigel announced the program and interpreted the numbers.

Text of Address.

The text of Col. McCormick's address follows:

"Tonight I had intended to say a word on economics, but instead I will devote these few moments to counsel calm and self-control in facing the troubled international situation.

"The crash of battle is exciting. The discovery of unexpected danger is unnerving. The stories of combat and casualties, and the new fear that a victorious Germany may mean danger to us, has thrown a sizable proportion of our population into a state of hysteria, which is being whipped up by propagandists who wish to use our fears to denude us of our scanty supply of weapons.

"For the first time in our lives this country may face an actual danger from without.

Must Face the Facts.

"We are beginning to realize that we may reap an unwelcome harvest from the war across the sea, even to the extent of armed invasion. Therefore, it behooves us as never before to weigh our situation dispassionately. We cannot afford recklessness because that might invite REAL calamity. We must face the facts.

"We have no means to wage a war overseas even if we should desire to do so. We haven't enough soldiers or machinery, or officers; and if we had, the issue would be determined before we could get into action.

"Recognizing that a German victory is menacing, let us reserve our sanity, measure the extent of our danger, and take the necessary steps to counteract it.

"Fortunately, we have THE MOST POWERFUL NAVY IN THE WORLD.

Navy Termed Bulwark.

"No matter how imminent or how great a German victory may be, we have a navy which if placed in the Atlantic ocean can prevent any invasion of our eastern seaboard. Our Pacific coast, naturally strong because of its few harbors, is further protected by the extent of the vast Pacific ocean and by the outpost of Hawaii, which, if reinforced as it should be to a strength of two army divisions, will be impregnable.

"If the fleet is brought from the Pacific ocean where it is not needed, thru the Panama canal to the Atlantic ocean, we will have time to bring our army to a strength that can resist any attack from overseas.

"To do this we must, first, instantly build bombers which, Lindbergh informs us, can keep enemy transports from approaching our coast. Second: Carry out the regular army plan to create eight divisions of 15,000 men each, with auxiliary groups to make up an army of 280,000 men—ready to go any where on the North American continent.

Two Years Called Too Long.

"The regular army proposes to raise these divisions, and equip them, to be ready in two years. That's too long! It should be, and can be, speeded up, if the manufacture is turned over to experienced industrialists, and the soldiers allowed to concentrate on training troops and on learning to use the new weapons.

"Behind the regular army are 18 divisions of the National Guard. These, when armed with modern weapons and given six months' training in the field, will be fit for modern warfare.

"Then we will be in position to act to meet any contingency that a German victory in Europe can bring about.

"ALL THIS CAN BE DONE IF WE PRESERVE OUR NAVY!

Calm Held Main Need.

"And I say to you that we should not jeopardize our navy in any far eastern adventure or other desperate enterprise.

"What we need, then, is CALM—a recognition that our first duty is to our fighting men, not to sacrifice them nor to deprive them of their weapons: Our next to our own citizens, and only last to a foreign war.

"Let us not destroy ourselves by submitting to hysteria, but greet a new and very troubled world with calm determination and an unfaltering patriotism."

CAMACHO ADVOCATES ARMED STAND AGAINST FOES OF DEMOCRACY

NOGALES, Sonora, Mexico, June 9 (AP).—Gen. Manuel Avila Camacho, administration-endorsed candidate for the Mexican presidency, at a rally here today advocated "an armed stand against any communistic or Fascist move that threatens the principles of democracy."

He promised that, if elected, he would "work for a better understanding with other nations of the Americas."

Fears of rival local political leaders that there might be a flare of violence over his rally proved groundless.

Almazan for "United Front."

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, Mexico, June 9 (AP).—A united front by Mexico and the United States against Nazi and communist elements was urged here today by Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, independent candidate for the Mexican presidency. Rumors of possible violence caused Gen. Almazan to motor into Juarez between squads of soldiers, and troops searched motorists for weapons. No untoward incident developed.

ROOSEVELT TO SPEAK TONIGHT ON WORLD CRISIS

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—President Roosevelt will deliver "a very important pronouncement" on the international situation in a speech at Charlottesville, Va., tomorrow evening, the White House announced late tonight.

Stephen Early, the President's secretary, said the address will deal with "the world war and the present state of international affairs" and will be rebroadcast internationally in seven languages.

15 NAVY BOMBERS AT MANILA AFTER HOP FROM HAWAII

MANILA, P. I., June 9 (AP).—Fifteen long range navy bombers alighted on Manila bay this afternoon after a mass flight from Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. The bombers, from squadron VP-26, are under command of Lieutenant Commander S. H. Ingersoll. They came here to relieve a squadron that has been on neutrality patrol duty in the Philippines for nine months. On the flight from Pearl Harbor they made stops at Midway, Wake, and Guam Islands.

BLOCK FLAG DAY TALK BY PEPPER, WAR VETS URGE

Cite His Internationalist Views as Menace.

Protests mounted yesterday among world war veterans against the scheduled speech of Senator Claude S. Pepper [D., Fla.] at the Flag day celebration in Grant park Wednesday night. Pepper is the senate's most vociferous advocate of American intervention in the European war.

Capt. William J. Grace, past commander of the Illinois department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Col. Thomas R. Gowenlock, who was assistant chief of staff, G-2, of the First division of the American armies in the world war, began formation of a group to call upon Mayor Kelly today.

Terms Him a '6th Columnist.'

Capt. Grace assailed Pepper as a "6th column internationalist" in a letter to Judge Oscar S. Caplan, chairman of the Flag day celebration committee.

Judge Caplan said his committee plans no action in response to the demand of Capt. Grace. Judge Caplan said he has not received the request. He added that the V. F. W. is one of 60 organizations taking part in the ceremonies.

"Men of the American Legion and the V. F. W. are up in arms about this invitation," Col. Gowenlock declared. "Pepper is one of the most dangerous influences in public office today. What he hysterically advocates might destroy our country if we were fools enough to follow him.

"Bringing Pepper as the principal speaker to a sacred ceremony based upon our flag is an insult to world war veterans and to all real Americans. We will request and then demand that the invitation be withdrawn.

Served in War—Over Here.

"Senator Pepper was in the army for just two months, ending Dec. 12, 1918. He was on this side of the Atlantic. Yet he dares to urge the nation to spill its young blood over there again. And some people dared to invite him to spread his hysteria thru Chicagoland.

"We intend to learn how all this came about. Who is financing this celebration, and who is running it? Who will pay Senator Pepper's expenses?"

Col. Gowenlock, whose war decorations include the Distinguished Service medal, the Legion of Honor, the Croix de Guerre with two palms, and the victory medal with four bars and silver stars, drew attention to Florida's status in such matters as R. O. T. C. training.

3 R. O. T. C. Units in Florida.

"With all of Pepper's anxiety to get our youths over to the battefields, Florida has only three public schools offering R. O. T. C. training," he said. "And in the world war, Florida provided just 31,000 troops, including drafted men, compared with Illinois' 232,000."

Among others who said they were making an effort to halt the Pepper speech were Earl Southard, junior vice commander of the Illinois department, V. F. W.; Homer McGuffey, Cook county commander of the V. F. W., and L. H. Dougherty, commander of the 1st district, V. F. W.

ROME PUTS 100 TROOPS ON GUARD AT U. S. EMBASSY

Fears Demonstrations; None Occurs.

ROME, June 10, Monday (AP).—Pickets of troops were posted around the United States embassy late Sunday night, presumably to guard it against demonstrations, altho none occurred.

Small groups of pickets and blackshirt soldiers in steel helmets and war kits occupied strategic points with reserves in nearby doorways. The troops numbered at least 100.

They remained on duty until past midnight.

First Guard for U. S. Building.

Altho the British and French embassies and consulates have been guarded by troops intermittently for weeks, this was the first time they were posted at the American embassy and consulate, which are in adjacent buildings with the consulate facing Rome's main street, Via Vittoria Veneto.

[The state department said it had no direct word from Rome tonight and was unable to assign a reason for the posting of troops at the embassy.]

Giovanni Ansaldo, editor of Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano's newspaper Il Telegrafo of Leghorn, declared in a broadcast to Italy's army yesterday that a smashing German victory in France would be the signal for Italy's entry into the war.

Start Up to Duce.

The exact time for the Italian legions to march, however, was "still Mussolini's secret," Ansaldo said.

"But we can say," he added, "that in the second period of the war, of which the battle for France is only the introduction, the fight for England will begin when France has been eliminated. Then Italy's action will have capital importance."

[An Italian dispatch to Rome from Madrid, Spain, last night said the Italian liner Vulcania, 24,000 tons, had been halted by a British warship and forced to enter the harbor at Gibraltar. The ship was bringing Italian inhabitants from Tangiers, French Morocco, back to Italy.]

May Strike in Africa.

Ansaldo indicated the first Italian attack might be made in North Africa by the army of the south under its new leader, Marshal Emilio de Bono.

"One fact above all others must rankle in the minds of the French," Ansaldo said. "England abandoned France to her fate. She was quite prepared to see France overrun by Germans rather than let her have one man, one machine gun or one wheel of an armored car for her defence." [British troops and the royal air force are fighting side by side with the French.]

"In view of all these facts," the editor said, "it will therefore be unlikely that France will be able to offer prolonged resistance."

Well informed sources expected the decisive day of Italian entry would be in the coming week. Some thought it would be as early as tomorrow, but the most reliable information was that the order would come on Thursday or Friday.

Celebrate Navy Day.

Navy day will be celebrated tomorrow in Rome, and at Brindisi, crews of all naval units in the southern Adriatic will assemble to lay wreaths on the Italian navy memorial.

Trucks, loaded with fully equipped troops, rumbled frequently across Rome today. Army officers worked thruout the day, requisitioning horses. Travelers reported troops on the move in many parts of Italy.

Italian children continued to return to Italy from various Mediterranean areas likely to become theaters of war. Twelve hundred arrived at Bari from Cyrenaica in western Libya. Others came from Cairo and Istanbul.

The newspapers still published tales of alleged French "persecutions" in Tunisia and Morocco.

LOVESICK, HE KILLS HIMSELF.

John Manion, 27 years old, a bartender, shot and killed himself last night in his room in the Carlos hotel, 3834 Sheffield avenue, after writing a note indicating that he was despondent over a love affair.

GERMANS SEE U. S. IN ROLE OF HEIR TO BRITISH EMPIRE

Say Roosevelt Wants England Weak.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 9.—With all German eyes fastened on what they believe are the decisive blows in the war in Europe, there was much discussion here today on what America may and will do.

Nazis assert that Germany and Italy are the truly new world and that America is "clinging to the old world of English and French democracies."

Mass Leadership 'Solved.'

The Frankfurter Zeitung, which often is the mouthpiece of the German foreign office, asserts that Germany deserves the title of "new world not so much because of Germany's present military fight in behalf of her population but because she has solved the important world problem of leadership for the masses. The new world on the other side of the ocean shows no sign of social creative power. The New Deal was only a combination of business and party politics."

America, the Frankfurter Zeitung believes, is scheduled to become the heir of the important parts of the British empire and does not object to the prospect.

"American interests as President Roosevelt sees them countenance a weakening of England but they do not yet call for the dissolution of the empire," the newspaper says. Heirs must be in a position to hold the heritage.

Fleet Might Please America.

"Roosevelt's rearmament policy and his imperialistic propaganda can be useful in both cases, for the support of England or for inheriting from her. America no longer fears England. But it might be pleased to have the British fleet save the Americans' money and interests on the Atlantic ocean."

All German spokesmen expressed indignation about the international fear of the fifth column.

"Many Americans believe that they should fear a Germany that is victorious in Europe," says the Frankfurter Zeitung, "because of their own territories and safety zones. "This is nonsense."

WORLD PRAYING FOR YOU, BULLITT ASSURES FRENCH

Says U.S. Knows on Which Side Stands Right.

Washington Silent

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—Administration officials made no comment today on the statement of Ambassador William C. Bullitt that every civilized man was praying "for the victory of France." There was no hint whether the White House or state department had advance information on what Bullitt would say in his address in ceremonies at the birthplace of Joan of Arc. A proally speech by James H. R. Cromwell while he was minister to Canada last winter brought a sharp reprimand from Secretary of State Cordell Hull and a warning against repeating such statements while in a diplomatic post."

DOMREMY, France, June 9 (AP).—William C. Bullitt, United States ambassador to France, declared today that "from one end of this earth to the other every civilized man is praying, after his fashion, for the victory of France."

William C. Bullitt.—

Here at the birthplace of Joan of Arc, at the close of a ceremonial presentation of an altar donated by Americans to the village church, the ambassador, in the name of President Roosevelt, placed a white rose at the feet of a statue of the Maid of Orleans. Joan of Arc worshiped at this church in her childhood five centuries ago.

Plane Peril Bars Crowds.

A small group was present at the ceremony, a crowd being barred because of the danger from German planes. Domremy, a Vosges village, is about 90 miles south of the junction of the French, Belgian and Luxemburg borders, now in German hands.

"Americans know on which side stand right, justice and Christian decency, and on which side are wrong, cruelty and bestiality," Bullitt said. "They believe in France." He added:

"This altar is offered to France and to God by young and old Americans of all churches and faiths who revere Joan of Arc and love France.

Faiths Unite in Gift.

"The gifts to build it have come to me from Catholics and Protestants who wish to express to their French brothers their faith that Christians are right and that the spiritual forces of the earth will triumph over the forces of satanism.

"We know that the French blood flowing today is being spent for all the values of 2,000 years of Christian civilization."

Americans believe in France, Bullitt declared, because the flame of Joan of Arc burns in the heart of each Frenchman.

"They are certain that this flame will never be put out," he continued, "and that, whatever may come, it will never be conquered.

"Guard France! In the service of God and man let your spirit lead to Christian victory."

LEGION DEMANDS ARMS TO PROTECT WESTERN WORLD

Idle to Talk of Acting in Europe, Says Kelly.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 9 [Special].—The American Legion today reiterated its stand on national defense, holding that it is the duty of the United States to protect the free peoples of the western hemisphere but "idle to consider intervening" in the European war.

This policy was outlined in an editorial, written by National Commander Raymond J. Kelly, that appears in the June issue of the American Legionnaire, official publication of the organization.

Errors to Be Expected.

"For two decades our national defense lagged," Kelly wrote. "We have been a complacent people. Only last week the first new United States battleship in 19 years was launched. We must appreciate that the hurried building up of defense may not make for the most efficient job possible. . . . With what would we intervene? How would we make our potential strength felt, short of two or three years? Fast moving aggressor nations have no intention of allowing us to select our own time for exerting the might of a rearmed America."

The commander declared that the most menacing factor to the safety of America is disloyalty within its borders, and urged vigorous action to suppress subversive elements.

Demands Summary Action.

"We should face the fact," said Kelly, "that communazi conspirators seeking to undermine our institutions are fanatics. Reasonable treatment has no effect upon them and only serves to encourage their efforts. . . . In my belief the good of the whole nation compels summary action to stamp out in their entirety the activities of these subverters, irrespective of what may happen to their fellow travelers or innocent bystanders. We must pull no punches."

In this program, Kelly asserted, the Legion will coöperate with federal, state, and local officials. He recommended that all Legionnaires work to have the existing police facilities made stronger so that regular home defenses in peace time may be made impregnable, and that state departments of the Legion assist in forming state emergency councils.

Call to Develop Sanity.

"In the 21st year of the American Legion's existence, the nation calls again," said Kelly. "It is not a call to the armed forces of our country wherein once we served. Rather it is a call to develop sanity to supersede hysteria; to remove all doubt about the strength of our defenses; to have each of us individually willing to bear the heavy price of defense which must be paid to assure peace for our people."

The national commander declared that the Legion always had stood for preparedness in all respects; that it had advocated universal military service and taking the profit out of war, as well as adequate protection against subversive influences. He is to speak tonight at 6:45 p. m., central daylight time, over the NBC network.

SPEAKS IN CHICAGO TONIGHT.

Raymond J. Kelly, national commander of the American Legion, will speak tonight on "Subversive Activities" at a dinner in the Union League club sponsored by the Board of Trade post of the Legion. At 8 p. m. he is to speak at a mass meeting of Legionnaires and friends in the Board of Trade auditorium. This meeting will be open to the public.

Old Ship Sabotaged

The 44 year old battleship Oregon, which saboteur attempted to sink yesterday in Portland, Ore.

Portland, Ore., June 9 (AP).—Some one attempted to sink the 44 year old battleship Oregon, veteran of the Spanish-American war, last night. The ship is enshrined in a marine park here.

By the time custodians discovered an open seacock in the port shaft alley today, the ship had taken in 600 tons of water and settled 24 inches by the stern.

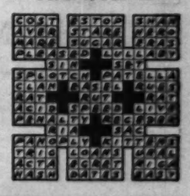
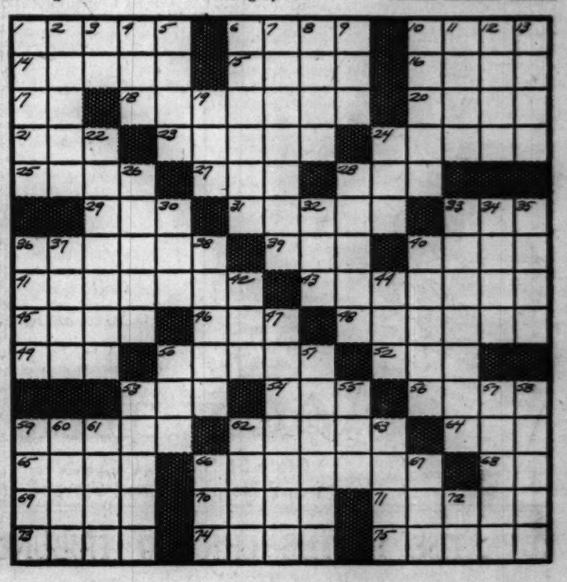
PUZZLE OF SATURDAY, JUNE 8, SOLVED





FRENCH FEARFUL OF ATTACK THRU SWISS TERRITORY

Gen. Weygand Hints Blow Will Come Today.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 9.—Paris was puzzled tonight and deeply apprehensive over the expression "tomorrow the battle will spread down to Switzerland." It was contained in Generalissimo Maxime Weygand's order of the day which also said "we have reached the last quarter hour" in the battle for Paris, "hold tight."

Gen. Maxime Weygand.

In referring to Switzerland, Parisians were asking "what does he mean exactly?" Does he expect a general attack on the Maginot line from Montmedy all the way south along the Rhine as far as Basel?

Move at Belfort Gap.

Or does he expect the long awaited German attempt to turn the Maginot line from the south with a German invasion of Switzerland which would move thru the "Belfort Gap, thus repeating a movement of the Franco-Prussian war when the Germans pushed toward Lyons?

A movement thru Switzerland would be taken by the French as absolute proof—if any more were needed—of Hitler's determination to destroy France completely and wipe its name from the list of nations.

Some Frenchmen remarked that Gen. Weygand's order in speaking of "the last quarter hour" was using an expression common in French. The time for paying in a tavern among good fellows is called "a quart d'heure de Rabelais"—that is, Rabelais' quarter of an hour, when a man is uneasy or melancholy.

Order of the Day.

Gen. Weygand's order of the day said:

"The German offensive has now been launched on the whole front from the sea to Montmedy.

"It will extend tomorrow as far as Switzerland.

"The order remains that each one fight with no thought of retreat, staying where he has been placed and looking straight ahead.

"The commander in chief is fully aware of the magnificent example of unflinching effort and valor which the armies engaged and the 'air army' have shown.

"He thanks them.

"France calls on them for even more.

"Officers, noncommissioned officers, and soldiers, the welfare of the fatherland demands of you not only your courage, but all the dogged resistance, initiative, and fighting spirit of which you are capable.

"The enemy has suffered heavy losses.

"Soon he will come to the end of his effort. We have reached the last quarter of an hour.

"Hold tight."

Chief Calm as Ever.

A man who saw Weygand today said he was as calm as ever. He works at a modest little table in the French general headquarters between lightning visits to the fighting front, and to Paris to confer with the government leaders.

He is the kind of a man who can still, in the eighth decade of his life, defer sleep, and then sleep soundly when he does sleep. He can put off eating and later eat heartily. He gets up at 7 a. m., works until late at night, even tho he is 73 years old.

"In that man," say the people on all sides, "is vested the hope of France."

Fear Nazi Drive Thru Switzerland

(Stories on page 1 and in adjoining column.)

[Associated Press Map.]

Arrow on map above indicates a route by which Germans could flank the south end of the Maginot line by driving thru Switzerland. It is known as the Belfort gap. Swiss fears of such a movement were expressed in Berne last night while in Paris Generalissimo Maxime Weygand predicted that the German offensive "will extend tomorrow as far as Switzerland."

Paris Holds Fast to Its Way of Life Tho War Nears Gates

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 9.—Paris today has been superb. Col. Gen. Walther von Brauchitsch's armored German monsters are not more than 35 miles or so away. The antiaircraft guns have been barking this afternoon, spotting the pale sky with smoke patches. Fast fighter planes have been speeding across the dome of the sky.

Yet, the thinned and diminished life of the city has proceeded as on any other hot June Sunday.

From a café terrace here you wouldn't get an idea of the fierce and determined struggle going on a few miles to the north in obedience to Gen. Maxime Weygand's orders this morning to "hold on."

The French are holding on. Tenaciously the French people, by majority and nature close to the soil, are hanging on to their land inch by inch.

Lunch Quietly in Open Air.

How it will come out eventually is difficult to predict at this moment, but the impression left tonight was that it will take a lot of maneuvering to force the French peasantry to give in. A high personality said the Germans were going from victory to victory to final defeat.

The spirit of the people was something to see. Altho you could almost imagine you heard the sound of the gunfire along the Somme and the Aisne rivers, Paris people—those who have remained behind — lunched quietly in open air restaurants, strolled in the Bois de Boulogne, listened to radios and quietly perused the latest editions of the newspapers.

Newspaper kiosks along the boulevards did a roaring trade as café terrace loungers slipped off to get new reading matter every time a new batch of papers arrived.

It was a bright, sunshiny, hot day which gave Paris its most delightful setting. People drank cooling drinks in the cafés and hardly talked about the war, even tho every one undoubtedly was thinking about it.

Refugees Come into Paris.

In some of the parks and squares children played about. Taxis were scarcer, but you still could find them parked here and there. Auto buses ran as usual.

In the Luxemburg garden a puppet show was given in the open air for the children of the poorer quarters. Churches this morning were heavily attended.

The guns were roaring, however, along a hundred mile front an hour's train ride away, and amid all the summery setting thousands of people here were wondering whether another letter ever would be received from a soldier brother, husband or son.

Down the long avenues leading from the north to the Place de le Toile, taxis and autos dashed along at top speed with bedding tied to the tops and the interiors packed with baggage, for a great many people again are coming down from the regions to the north before the advancing Germans.

Many Parisians also decided to leave town today. Everybody reads the communiques, consults his maps and decides for himself whether the time has come for him to move south.

SPEED NAZI PLAN TO TAKE ENGLAND BY CHUTE, U-BOAT

100 Subs Ready, Swiss Sources Assert.

BASEL, Switzerland, June 9 (AP)—Intensive German preparations for an attack upon England with parachute and submarine troops are being completed swiftly despite the demands of the great Nazi offensive against France, informed foreign sources declared tonight.

With English channel ports in the hands of the Germans, their parachutists are resting from the Lowlands campaign and new chute reservists are in training, said these sources, which include both neutral and belligerent persons. The Germans may be ready to strike even before the "battle of France" is ended, it was asserted.

Germany now has about 100 submarines, it was said, almost all of which have been transformed into undersea transports for ferrying troops across the English channel. The German plan of attack against England involves moving about 175,000 troops across the channel in two nights and one day, reports reaching here said.

Parachutists to Go First.

The first wave would be veteran parachutists with experience in the Netherlands and with special equipment for landing on the channel beaches. Their tasks would be to seize control of small ports and coves along the English coast.

These veterans, it was said, would be followed by a second wave of chutists, many of whom are under training on Lake Constance, where their maneuvers have been observed from the Swiss frontier.

All the chutists would be equipped with waterproof covers for arms and munitions, informed persons said, and many rubber boats made for the Netherlands campaign would be dropped from transport planes to facilitate the work of the parachutists.

Subs to Provide Supplies.

The parachute troops would receive reënforcements and supplies from submarines pending the attempt of larger craft to reach England with armored equipment, it was reported.

Recent reports present a new picture of Germany's submarine strength. Striking a balance between allied and German claims, it is estimated here that the Nazis had about 70 submarines when the war began and had a building capacity of about five per month. Since then Germany has lost about 30 undersea craft, observers calculate, but has stepped up its building program until it probably has reached a top figure of 12 a month.

For the last few months Nazi submarines seldom have appeared in action, and it is believed here that they are being held in their home ports for "the day" of attack upon England.

Based on these figures, the German undersea fleet now numbers about 100 craft—40 pre-war vessels and 60 ships recently constructed. The submarines built since the war started, however, are reported designed primarily as undersea transports, with a range of several hundred miles instead of the thousand mile range possessed by standard classes.

The latter normally carry a crew of 150 men. On the new submarines armament has been sacrificed to enable them to carry 400 fully armed men and some motorcycles, it is said. Older submarines are believed being refitted on similar lines.

Boats Delivered by Rail.

Experts agree that a fleet of such undersea craft engaged in transport work against a strong naval force needs protection from destroyers or other craft. The Germans are said to have solved this problem by ordering scores of Italian made "pocket subs" 36 feet long which carry one torpedo tube and a crew of seven.

Swiss sources said Italian manufacturers have been shipping these swift craft thru the Brenner pass by rail into Germany since last October. The vessels are knocked down for transportation.

The German plan was believed to call for the extensive use of bombing planes to aid the so-called "pocket subs" in the task of guarding undersea transport operations.

U. S. ARMY SCANS RECORD OF ALIEN CANAL WORKERS

Danger to New Defenses Spurs Inquiry.

BY PETER BRENNAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Panama, June 9.—The United States army is investigating the background and credentials of European born aliens now employed on the army's $60,000,000 defense projects in the Canal Zone.

Most of the workers under investigation entered Panama during the last two years as refugees. Many of them were reported to have gained entrance illegally on forged passports and thru other evasions of Panama's immigration laws.

As the army's building program progressed, workers now under suspicion were hired by the construction quartermaster, who accepted every available man. Now the work is at a point at which it is considered dangerous to have foreign labor with questionable credentials connected with vital canal defenses.

A Formidable Bloc.

The army's investigation is not directed against any group, it is understood, but workers who originally came from the totalitarian countries constitute a formidable bloc of approximately 2,500 men.

Should there be wholesale discharges, new problems would arise. There are the questions of United States neutrality and the ultimate destination of the refugees.

The army, which is working in close coöperation with Panama on this situation, cannot dump such labor into the lap of the little republic. A thousand refugees from Europe already are being harbored here. These refugees cannot return to their homelands, and as a neutral the United States hardly can intern them.

May Be the Answer.

The answer may have been given by Leopoldo Arosemena, Panama's secretary of justice, who said:

"We are working with the Canal Zone authorities. Thus far few persons have been deported. All aliens are under careful observation. Once identified as having entered the country illegally or having overstayed their permits, they will be given two weeks in which to leave or become liable to two years' interment on Coiba Island penal colony."

Bits About Trip to West Front

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 9.—Many shops in towns in northern France occupied by the Germans are "open for business," even tho their fronts or walls have been blown away by bombs or artillery fire.

Proprietors have boarded up the gaping holes in side walls and nailed chicken wire across the fronts to replace the plate glass windows. Customers walk around fallen masonry too large to move and do their shopping as best they can. Streets are being cleared of debris and homes repaired by the inhabitants, many of whom returned after the German avalanche swept over their towns.

Here are some sidelights on THE TRIBUNE correspondent's seven day tour of the western front:

With telephone systems destroyed in most parts of Holland and Belgium, German army engineers are erecting hundreds of miles of field telephone lines connecting the front with the German border. In the villages and towns, the wires are draped by the dozens across the fronts of houses, dangling from balconies and window ledges.

In the rural districts the wires are carried on poles about 12 feet high. Unlike the permanent system which follows the roads, they cut across farms and lawns in the most direct route to field headquarters at the front.

* *

Around the pill box guarding a bridge over the Albert canal just inside the Belgian border I saw half a dozen shallow graves from which the bodies had been removed. They had contained the remains of German parachutists who had landed behind the pillbox and attempted to seize it.

After the Germans took the bridge the bodies were exhumed and returned to Germany.

Near this same pillbox was a German machine gun which had been turned over to Belgium under the terms of the treaty of Versailles.

* *

At Liege, Brussels, and many other towns and villages buildings in the vicinity of bridges which were blown up have been heavily damaged. The Belgian demolition work was very thoro.

In many cases bridges for the entire length were a tangled heap of wreckage in the water.

In Brussels crowds wait in line to cross narrow foot bridges and in Liege the crossing is made in small ferryboats. The Belgians are already busily repairing their bridges and the telephone and light cables.

* *

In most French towns where there has been fighting the churches have been wrecked by shell fire. Where the main part of the church still stands the steeples have been knocked down. The explanation offered for this is that it was necessary to dislodge artillery observers from the steeples.

* *

At Charlerol I met a German soldier who had lived in America for 13 years and had returned to Germany two years ago. He was thoroly imbued with the Nazi philosophy.

In the main streets of Charlerol there were three burned 30 ton French tanks as big as one car garages. There were several versions as to how they had been destroyed, but an aged Frenchman who remained in the town said the French had blown them up as they moved too slowly to get away. On the edge of town were two more of the huge tanks.

* *

We entered Maubeuge thru an arch built to commemorate the defense of the town in 1814 during the Napoleonic wars. Only a few walls and corners of buildings in the business section still stand. Blocks were reduced to rubbish by repeated Stuka [dive bomber] raids.

Outside the town five German soldiers were buried in the garden of a villa, their helmets hanging from the crosses on their graves. Two French women said they had slept in the woods during the raids but finally fled, returning eight days later because they could find no food.

* *

Outside Arras we passed a sign nailed to a tree which read in English: "Speed limit for all B. E. F. vehicles 20 miles per hour."

We noticed that German motorized units frequently moved at more than twice that speed. Our own drivers drove at 100 kilometers per hour [62 miles] wherever possible, and often at 120 kilometers [75 miles] per hour.

* *

Most of the returning refugees had difficulty finding enough to eat. In Artois, women stood in long lines waiting to receive German army bread. We saw some in line at 6 a. m. when the bread was not to be distributed until 10 a. m.

They were afraid there would not be enough to go around. In St. Pol, a colleague and I gave two French women our last two cans of liverwurst. That evening we wished we had it back.

The cars of the press caravan bore signs in German reading: "Foreign press." As we passed columns of troops the cry of "Jews!" was frequently hurled at us by the soldiers. This was the result of the Nazi charge that the world is against them because the international press is controled by Jews. Other soldiers cried: "Write the truth!"

U. S. LINER QUITS FRANCE BEARING 1,000 AMERICANS

BORDEAUX, France, June 9 (AP).—The United States liner Washington, carrying 1,000 Americans fleeing the perils of the European war, sailed from Verdon yesterday. It will call at Lisbon, Portugal, and later in Ireland. The ship's lights were ablaze as it sailed for Portugal. The American flag was painted plainly on its sides, and all belligerents have been notified that it carries only Americans.

NATIONAL GUARD DEMONSTRATES A MECHANIZED WAR

Planes, Cars Perform at Springfield.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

(Pictures on back page.)

Springfield, Ill., June 9 [Special].—Residents of Springfield saw a sample of modern warfare today when three units of the Illinois National Guard performed for newsreel and press photographers in an advertising stunt for the I. N. G. military show June 29-30 in Chicago.

Several thousand persons saw members of Company C, 130th infantry attacked by dive bombers, their flank rolled up by careening mechanized cavalry, the heavily armed mobile units of the type used by Germany in the current war.

19 Armored Cars Used.

Nineteen armored cars, part of the 23d motorized cavalry, poured heavy machine gun fire [blanks] into the infantry's flank.

The planes used in the demonstration included three light bombers and one combat plane of the 108th squadron of Chicago. In another demonstration, the planes suddenly attacked both infantry and scout cars as they proceeded in battle formation across the field north of Springfield. Foot soldiers and scout car crews immediately fought a defensive action.

Demonstrate Troop Attack.

Perhaps the most effective attack, however, was that in which the planes bombed and strafed marching infantry in a surprise attack. As the silver ships rocketed down out of the sky, the infantrymen broke ranks and spread over the terrain, some falling as if wounded or dead.

In another demonstration the motorized units were pictured fighting off an air attack while moving at high speed. A demonstration of the motorized equipment working on rough ground, climbing in and out of ditches, also was given.

MOSCOW, TOKIO END MANCHUKUO BORDER DISPUTE

Italian and Allied Envoys Hurrying to Russia.

MOSCOW, June 9 (AP).—Soviet Russia, suddenly the center of renewed diplomatic attentions from three European nations, patched up its far eastern fences tonight by an agreement with Japan on the Manchukuo-Outer Mongolia boundary dispute which has produced two battles and several years of intermittent fighting.

An official announcement at midnight said that Russia and Japan had agreed on the exact frontiers in the area where fighting between their armies took place last year—presumably Nomonhan on the Outer Mongolian-Manchukuo border.

Italian Envoy Returning.

Meanwhile, it was announced officially that Nicolai Gorelchin, soviet ambassador who left Rome last December without even presenting his credentials, would resume his post as ambassador to Italy. It was announced simultaneously that Dr. Augusto Rosso, Italian ambassador to Russia, would return to Moscow.

Dr. Rosso was said to be en route from Rome and Gorelchin is about to leave Moscow for Rome. The Russian envoy was recalled suddenly when Italians demonstrated in Rome against Russia at the outbreak of the Russian-Finnish war. Dr. Rosso was called back to Italy early in January, presumably because of the Russian recall of Gorelchin.

Also en route to Moscow are two newly-named ambassadors from the allies—Sir Stafford Cripps of Great Britain and Eric Labonne of France.

Jap Envoy Is Negotiator.

The Russian-Japanese boundary agreement was reached by Premier-Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov of Russia and Shigenori Togo, Japanese ambassador to Russia. A statement said that the problem had not been solved by a mixed border commission and therefore had served as an obstacle toward regulation of mutual relations between Russia, Japan and Outer Mongolia.

Outer Mongolia, a soviet Russian dependency, long has disputed its 1,000 mile boundary with Japanese-dominated Manchukuo.

Japanese and Russian troops clashed in a battle at Changkufeng hill, at the junction of the Siberian, Manchukuan and Corean borders, in 1938. Last August came the engagement at Nomonhan, which was followed in September by a truce.

Several weeks later the border commission was named. The Japanese announced on Jan. 31 that the commission had disbanded in utter disagreement.

Rome Agrees on Balkans.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

BERLIN, June 9.—Messages from Moscow and Rome today indicate that, after months of careful negotiations, the Italians have agreed to respect the status quo in the Balkans. This follows a warning by the Russians that they would consider any action in the Balkans as a casus belli.

The return of the Italian ambassador to his post in Moscow, and of the Russian ambassador to his post in Rome is viewed as an indication that differences between the two countries have been settled.

Diplomats understand that no conflicts are to be expected in southeastern Europe in the near future. They expect Italy to concentrate its efforts on participation in the western European war, which it is expected to enter very soon. Rumors persisted in the Italian capital that Italy and Germany have been negotiating with Japan, informing the Japanese of the plans of their allies in the anti-communist pact.

Germans claim these negotiations do not mean necessarily that Japan will join the war simultaneously with Italy when Premier Mussolini finally gives the order to march.

Settle Border Rift

(Story in adjoining column.)

Russia and Japan last night agreed upon definite border between Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia, settling rift which caused fighting last year at Nomonhan. Troops of two nations also clashed in 1938 at Changkufeng hill.

YANK AMBULANCE DRIVER CAPTURED BY NAZI PATROL

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, June 9.—Phil Coniglio of Lincoln, Neb., an American volunteer ambulance driver, encountered a German patrol and was taken prisoner this morning as he was driving to Paris from a sector in the west. Recounting his adventure here tonight Coniglio said:

"They were not as brutal as I had been told they would be. I was submitted to a lengthy examination during which the lieutenant repeatedly attempted to trap me into admitting I was British. I continued to insist on my American nationality and pointed out I was on hospital duty.

After two and a half hours of grilling, Coniglio said, the commandant told him he could continue on his way by another route, but warned: "Don't you look back when you've gone." The commandant told him: "We're not after hospitals, and we're not after the French nation. It is the British we are out to get."

Coniglio received several cuts around his face when a hand grenade was thrown at him before he halted. A German physician treated his wounds before he was questioned.

CONDEMN EFFORT TO PUT INDIGENTS ON ARMY'S ROLLS

Chicago Relief Chief Calls Proposal Unjust.

Purge in Pennsylvania

Harrisburg, Pa., June 9 (AP).—Pennsylvania, supporting more than a half million unemployed, is about to undertake a major purge of single, able-bodied men from the relief rolls, Howard L. Russell, secretary of assistance, disclosed tonight.

The action is being taken in view of the accelerating employment opportunities now existing and increasing, Russell said.

Service in the army and navy under the expanded national defense program can be considered a phase of the increased opportunities, the secretary said, and added, however, he would not issue a specific recommendation that the order be enforced against those who decline enlistment.

Illinois and Chicago relief officials yesterday condemned the action of the New Jersey state director of relief in issuing an order directed toward forcing single men on relief into military service.

Arthur Mudd, the New Jersey official, on Saturday instructed his subordinates to make a state-wide survey of possible recruits for the army and navy and refuse relief to those eligible for enlistment. He said that this was in accordance with the rule generally in affect thruout the country that relief need not be given if indigents refuse to accept work.

Scents a Publicity Stunt.

Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief administrator, said that Mudd's order "rather smacks of a publicity stunt."

"Destitution should not force a man into military forces, from the standpoint of justice," Lyons declared.

Neil H. Jacoby, chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, said:

"That was an act of east coast war hysteria. The denying of relief on such grounds is not a decision to be made by a relief commission or administrator but by the President and governors."

Possibly 15,000 Eligible.

Jacoby said that Illinois relief rolls of about 167,000 cases may include, at the most, 15,000 single men who could pass army physical tests.

Melvin L. Straus, another member of the IERC, said he would not agree with the New Jersey action unless this country were at war. "And I haven't heard that this country is engaged in war," Straus remarked.

Charles E. Miner, state WPA administrator, branded the order "foolish." Unmarried men who are able bodied and young seldom get on relief or WPA rolls, he said.

PARIS ORDERS ALIENS, EXCEPT BRITISH, TO SURRENDER FIREARMS

PARIS, June 9 (AP). — Two new decrees to bolster the defense of Paris were published today. One ordered all foreigners except British to turn in to police within 24 hours any arms in their possession. The other authorized the ministry of public works to ration electricity. It urged the populace to reduce their consumption of power voluntarily to save it for war industries.

BRITISH BOMBERS FIRE OIL TANKS OF NAZIS IN BELGIUM

Claim Airmen Destroyed Ammunition Dumps.

BULLETIN.

BASEL, Switzerland, June 10, Monday (AP).—Three big fires blazed today in the German towns of Haltingen, within a mile of the Swiss border, Istein, near a huge rock fortress and in the mouth of the Tulingen railroad tunnel, following French artillery fire. Apparently hits were scored on three oil and gasoline storage tanks. German shells in turn apparently fired a building in the French Alsace village of Burgfelden.

LONDON, June 9 (AP).—British bombers blew up hidden German ammunition dumps in the Ardennes mountains, set fire to German oil tanks in Belgium, and bombed and machine-gunned Nazi troops behind the front, the air ministry reported tonight.

The operations, which were carried out yesterday and last night, spread destruction and chaos behind the German lines, the ministry reported.

Seventeen German aircraft were shot down by their fighters, the British said, and six British aircraft are missing.

Eight Planes Fight 30.

In one fight eight royal air force Hurricane fighters were reported to have tackled 20 Heinkel 111 bombers and their 10 Messerschmitt escorts and to have shot down six bombers and one fighter plane. Two Hurricanes were missing.

In a raid on Nazi oil stores at Ghent, Belgium, the air ministry said, scores of heavy bombs were dropped on tanks, which were set afire. The flames revealed five railroad lines, two filled with cars. The pilot bombed the cars, the ministry said, and there was a succession of great explosions as they blew up.

Some of the bombers were said to have penetrated as far into western Germany as Rhenish Prussia and the Ruhr valley.

Enemy's Transport Scattered.

Of the raids on communication lines, the ministry said:

"Enemy transport columns were scattered and flung into confusion. Lines of tanks were heavily bombed and armored cars and lorries [trucks] were reduced to twisted wreckage from direct hits.

"Troops on the march were machine-gunned, antiaircraft guns were attacked and silenced, and a gasoline dump hidden in a wood was blown up."

Bombers were said to have spread destruction behind the German line in the region of the Bresle and Somme rivers.

The ministry told of a direct hit on a column of German automobiles and troops between Amiens and Aumale, where "one of the aircraft took advantage of the ensuing confusion to bring its machine gun into play against a mass of vehicles."

Column of Trucks Hit.

Another hit on a column of trucks a few miles north of Poix, in the Aumale region, was reported, along with the bombing of a road and a railway crossing southeast of the town.

"As the raiders swept down to attack, they machine-gunned the German troops, who scattered precipitately," the ministry said.

A line of 20 tanks was reported bombed near Hallivillers.

A long column of tanks, vehicles, and troops was reported damaged and broken up at a crossroads near Quevauvillers. At Namps au Val another column was "scattered in complete confusion by bursting bombs."

Troops and vehicles in one village were heavily attacked, with "bombs falling right in among them."

South of Namps au Val, the report said, German cavalry "stampeded at the approach of British aircraft and men and horses ran in all directions."

100 Bombs Blast Oil Tanks.

Gasoline storage tanks in the woods north of Abbeville were attacked with nearly 100 incendiary bombs. They blew up with "a tremendous roar."

Abbeville was raided twice by heavy bombers, which were credited with a direct hit on the main railway bridge and apparent hits on an ammunition store.

In an attack on St. Valery, eight miles west of Abbeville, it was stated, a railway and road bridge over the Somme estuary was repeatedly hit and the northern span collapsed.

German airdromes at Abbeville and at Eindhoven, the Netherlands, were raided during the night.

In Germany, switching yards near Essen, Duren, and Euskirchen were raided and fires were reported started on several targets.

Bomb Troops by Flare Light.

Supply columns were located by parachute flares and woods where troops sought cover were bombed.

"At Valenciennes an oil storage plant, bombed by the light of a parachute flare, exploded in a vast sheet of flame which shot up to a height of 500 feet and was visible 50 miles away," it was said. "Within a few minutes the area was covered by a vast mushroom shaped pall of black smoke which towered 7,000 feet into the air."

The center span of a railway bridge at Vise, 15 miles west of Aachen [Aix-la-Chapelle] was reported demolished.

WEATHER TIES UP BOMBERS TURNED BACK FOR ALLIES

3 Forced Down on Way to Canadian Border.

Burlington, Vt., June 9 (AP).—Three planes—United States navy bombers—en route from Buffalo to Houlton, Me., where they will be hauled across the Canadian border for delivery to the allies, halted tonight at Fort Ethan Allen because of a low ceiling. A military guard was posted.

The ships were three of six that left Buffalo today with plans to land at Boston for refueling before continuing north.

Three other planes proceeded to Hartford, Conn., where they landed for the night.

The three which landed here were forced down earlier by a low ceiling at Rutland. Later they flew to Burlington airport, but a crowd gathered quickly, and the three pilots decided to take the craft to the fort.

Armed with French Guns.

Since their sudden concentration at Buffalo airport Thursday night, to be turned back to the Curtiss Aeroplane division of Curtiss Wright, the ships have been camouflaged and their United States navy armament replaced by French machine guns of similar caliber.

The planes each carried one 50 mm. gun and one 30 mm. gun.

The two seater land type biplanes, from one to three years old, are considered "surplus" by the navy, which announced they will be replaced by new bombers "of a superior type, equipped with leakproof tanks and armor."

At Buffalo, on the takeoff, one of the bombers failed to gain altitude and was forced down near the administration building of the Buffalo airport.

Collision Narrowly Averted.

The pilot of a loaded American Airlines transport plane, preparing to take off, swerved his ship from the concrete runway and narrowly avoided a collision with the bomber.

It later was explained that the pilot inadvertently opened his aileron flaps, which acted as a brake, preventing the ship gaining altitude.

Another of the bombers became bogged in a soft place in the field caused by last night's heavy rain and had to be hauled out by a truck before taking to the air.

Otherwise the departure of the planes, first of 50 turned back by the navy department to the manufacturer for release to the allies, proceeded according to schedule.

The ships were flown here by naval reserve pilots. An officer of the naval reserve said he hoped to complete the movement by Wednesday.

BRITISH NAME STORRS LIAISON OFFICER FOR BALKAN PROPAGANDA

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, June 9.—Sir Ronald Storrs has been appointed liaison officer for the British ministry of information in the Balkans. The move follows a promise made by Alfred Duff Cooper after he took office as information minister, that British propaganda in the Balkans would be reorganized. Sir Ronald, it was stated today, will act as the link between press attachés in the various Balkan capitals and Duff Cooper.

BRITAIN ORDERS 120,000 CHILDREN TO LEAVE LONDON

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 9.—Apparently fearing intensified German air raids on England, the British government announced tonight that 120,000 school children registered under the new evacuation scheme will be transferred from the greater London area to safety zones in Cornwall, Devonshire, Somerset, and Wales.

Beginning Thursday, they will be moved at the rate of 20,000 daily over a period of six days. At the time of registering, the children and their parents were told that the government would not give the order to evacuate unless the position became dangerous.

Tonight's announcement stated: "In view of recent developments in the war and the commencement of enemy bombing of England the government did not feel that the movement should be delayed any longer." It is estimated that half a million children still are in the British capital.

Barricades Block Highways.

In the last three weeks, 5,000 children have been transferred from east coast areas to less vulnerable regions.

On the eve of a secret session of the house of commons to review preparations to combat a German attempt to invade England defensive precautions have been accelerated greatly, and this week-end motorists found it impossible to travel unmolested. Barricades and barbed wire entanglements guarded by armed troops have sprung up on all main highways.

Rigid precautions caused congestion in several areas. Long lines of cars filtered slowly thru barriers while police and troops inspected the identity cards of drivers and passengers.

Bullets fly easily in Britain nowadays, and several occupants of automobiles have been shot because they failed to halt when challenged. The latest victim was Elizabeth Smith, 19 years old, who was killed this weekend when members of the local volunteer corps peppered shots into the back of the automobile in which she was riding.

Fires on Army Officers.

Two army officers in a car also were fired upon by a sentry last night when they ignored his challenge. One of the officers was wounded and sent to a hospital.

The war office today advised more than 10 million cyclists in Britain to lock their bicycles when these are not in use, thus insuring that the vehicles do not fall into the hands of enemy parachutists. Automobile owners, already ordered to put their cars out of action at night by removing spark plugs, have been warned that failure to comply with the order would render the vehicles liable to seizure.

The search for aliens also is being intensified, and police are hunting in hospitals, factories, and telephone exchanges for possible fifth column suspects.

U. S. LINER DOCKS WITH REFUGEES FROM WAR ZONE

New York, June 9 [Special].—The United States liner President Roosevelt tonight completed its emergency voyage to bring Americans from Europe. The ship docked at the Hudson river pier with 723 passengers, almost twice the normal capacity. The passengers boarded the vessel at Galway, Ireland.

Aside from the overcrowding and the extraordinary circumstances of the voyage itself, the crossing was described as uneventful. Since most of the passengers came from the British Isles, they had not been exposed to many of the horrors of the European war.

Capt. James E. Roberts, who commanded the vessel, dismissed the voyage lightly. "I've got no story," he said. "It's been a normal voyage. A bit overcrowded, that's all."

Many Babies Aboard.

Passengers slept in the public rooms, companionways, baggage room and on two floors of one of the large cargo holds.

There were about 150 children on board, many of them babies in arms. Women passengers outnumbered the men by about two to one. Virtually all of the passengers are American citizens, or the wives and husbands of citizens.

During the first wave of the American exodus from Europe the President Roosevelt made three repatriation voyages, bringing a total of 1,613 passengers. The biggest load on those voyages was 541.

Stewards Work Overtime.

On this voyage stewards worked almost continuously. About half of the waiters had to serve four sittings a day. One waiter calculated that he served 96 meals a day. The ship brought 10 tons of baggage.

Lady Ribblesdale, mother of Vincent Astor; Mrs. Robert Montgomery, wife of the motion picture actor, and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, whose husband is with the British forces in Norway, were among the passengers.

President, Institute of Life Insurance

NO MATTER why it happens, a man hates to drop his life insurance. And your insurance company doesn't like it, either.

The company, when it takes in a new policyholder who doesn't stick, is in much the same position as a landlord who makes improvements for his tenants—only to have them move out soon afterwards.

On the other hand, some tenants have good reasons for moving. And so do some policyholders have good reasons for dropping their life insurance.

• • •

For instance, a man may buy insurance to protect his aged mother. If the mother dies, he may want to drop the policy. In most cases, however, he would be much better off if he kept it—refitting it to meet his present or prospective needs.

Or, a man may take out a policy because he is taking financial risks in his business. But if he stops taking these risks he may no longer want that protection. So he allows the policy to lapse.

Many lapses are caused by unavoidable misfortune such as losing a job or a temporary financial setback. And some occur because the policyholder was not entirely convinced in the first place.

After 20 years of experience in dealing with people, however, I am of the opinion that one of the causes of lapse goes right back to human nature. We start lots of things—from correspondence courses to savings-bank accounts—and then fail to keep them up.

HERE are some suggestions that may help you avoid lapse. It's a good idea to review, once in a while, what your insurance program will do, so as to remind you that it's worth fighting for. And your agent or your company should always be notified well in advance if you can foresee a possible lapse.

You'll find that your company, like all others, has several different means of helping to tide over the man who has a run of hard luck and good agents do not spare themselves in trying to keep even the smallest policy from lapsing.

NOTE: In this regular Monday column, paid for at advertising rates, the Institute of Life Insurance has asked its president to discuss questions of interest to life insurance policyholders. Inquiries may be addressed to 60 East 42nd Street, New York City.

SPEED WINS IN THE WATER, BUT IT'S SLOW BURNING THAT WINS WITH ME IN A CIGARETTE. CAMELS BURN SLOWER AND GIVE ME EXTRA MILDNESS AND EXTRA COOLNESS AND EXTRA SMOKING PER PACK

CRAWL is the word for the stroke, but it's no crawling pace when Peter Fick (foreground at right) is breaking records in the sprint swims. He's several times a champion...has broken an impressive list of national and world records. His favorite distances in races are the shortest...fastest. His favorite cigarette is the slower-burning brand...Camel. "Camels are milder and cooler, for one thing," he explains. "And they have a flavor that doesn't wear out its welcome."

SPEED won him the title "world's fastest swimmer"— slow burning won him to Camel cigarettes

"I WANT all the mildness and flavor I can get in my smoking," says Pete Fick (on diving-board). "Camels burn slower and give me what I want—Camels even give me extra smoking."

Yes, Camel's matchless blend of costlier tobaccos and slower way of burning mean several important extras. Science knows slow burning preserves the delicate elements of flavor and fragrance...means freedom from the irritating qualities of excess heat. Camels give you extra mildness, extra coolness, and extra flavor. The longer you are a Camel smoker, the more you'll appreciate these extras in pleasure. And if you measure puff by puff, you'll find slow-burning Camels also give extra smoking (see right).

DEWEY IS AHEAD IN INDIANA POLL WITH 58 PER CT.

Roosevelt Maintains His Democrat Margin.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Twenty-five Indiana cities and towns are represented in the second day's results of The Tribune's preconvention presidential straw vote now being taken in Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, and Minnesota. Today's tabulation of 9,742 straws includes canvasses made in Indianapolis, the metropolis, and in rural communities. It runs the total Indiana straws to date up to 21,054.

Thomas E. Dewey [top] and Wendell L. Willkie.

Sole purpose of the poll is to get an expression from Republican and Democratic voters on "Who is your choice for President?"

Dewey Still Far in Front.

In the Republican straws, Thomas E. Dewey, New York candidate for the Republican nomination for President at the Philadelphia convention June 24, remains far out in front. In today's batch of straws, Dewey's percentage fell off a few points, due to a large vote polled by Wendell L. Willkie, a native Hoosier, in Indianapolis and in Elwood, his birthplace. Of the Republican straws so far gathered, Dewey has almost 58 per cent. Willkie runs second, with 17.67 per cent; Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, is in third place, with almost 14 per cent, while Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan comes next, with some 8½ per cent. Four other candidates are far in the rear.

President Roosevelt has a little more than 80 per cent of the Democratic straws—almost the same portion as yesterday—while Paul V. McNutt, ex-governor, is around the 10 per cent mark. Secretary of State Hull has 4.6 per cent of the total Democratic straws. Other candidates are straggling behind in the field.

Three Areas Included.

The territory in which the cities in today's table lie includes the central part of the state around Indianapolis, a large part of southern Indiana, and about one-third of the northern border. The tally of Indiana straws to date stands:

REPUBLICAN.
Dewey	5,630	57.99 %
Willkie	1,715	17.67 %
Taft	1,338	13.78%
Vandenberg	841	8.66 %
Bricker	105	1.08 %
Martin	19	.20 %
Bridges	13	.13%
MacNider	9	.09 %
Scattering	38	.40 %
Total	9,708
DEMOCRAT.
McNutt	1,132	9.98%
Roosevelt	9,118	80.36 %
Hull	523	4.61%
Garner	284	2.50 %
Farley	147	1.30%
Smith	57	.51 %
Wheeler	55	.48 %
Clark	30	.26 %
Total	11,346

Considerable variation in the vote given leading candidates in both parties is shown by the straws so far.

Dewey Gets Farm Support.

Dewey gets a larger portion of the Republican straws in many of the rural communities than he does in the industrial counties.

Roosevelt has a larger share of the Democratic straws in the industrial areas than in the more rural regions.

In the 1st congressional district, for instance, composed of Lake county, the Gary industrial region, Dewey has 52 per cent of the Republican straws. In the 2d district, with smaller towns and a large rural population, Dewey has about 63 per cent of the Republican straws.

Vandenberg has a larger vote in northern Indiana than in some other regions, getting 17 per cent in the industrial 1st and 12 per cent in the rural 2d district. Willkie has 19 per cent in the 1st district and 9 per cent of the Republican straws in the 2d. The 2d is the banner Republican congressional district in Indiana.

In the 11th and 12th districts, which include Indianapolis and nearby territory, Dewey has 49 per cent, while Willkie, a native son, has 31 per cent.

Roosevelt Vote Varies.

President Roosevelt has 87½ per cent of the Democratic straws in the Gary district, and 84 per cent in the Indianapolis area, both of which are industrial centers. In the 9th district in southern Indiana, rural and Democratic, he has 74 per cent. McNutt has less than 5 per cent of the straws in the Gary mill district, and 14 per cent in the rural 9th.

In Willkie's native town, Elwood, which is slightly Democratic, he got 107 of 138 Republican straws gathered and rolled up more votes than did Roosevelt on the Democratic side. In four canvasses in Indianapolis, Willkie got twice as many straws as did Taft, whose managers have been active in the state, the straws giving Willkie 511 to Taft's 233. Dewey had 394. In the Indianapolis Democratic straws, Roosevelt had 1,571; McNutt, 167, and Hull, 61. In the four Indianapolis canvasses, the total Republican straws and Democratic straws cast were almost evenly divided: 1,806 Republican and 1,841 Democratic. The city is the seat of the powerful Democratic statehouse machine.

ANTI-U. S. PLOT LAID TO COLOMBIA 'PRO-NAZI' RANKS

Reds and Japs Lend Aid, Panama Hears.

[Copyright: 1940: By the New York Times.]

PANAMA CITY, Panama, June 9.—The Conservative press denies the existence of Nazi fifth column activities in Colombia regardless of apparently authentic stories printed in the Liberal newspapers and tacit admission of the government.

El Siglo, Bogota's leading Conservative newspaper, and El Relator of Cali, the chief organ of the Liberals, carry contradictory reports, which are published in Tiempo and El Liberal.

Brands Conservatives Pro-Nazi.

El Liberal charges the Conservatives and their leaders are pro-German. In an editorial referring to the pro-Nazi attitude of the Conservative leader, Laureano Gomez, the paper says, "A Conservative party managed in Hitlerian manner is a temptation most provocative for Señor Gomez."

El Liberal charges that a combination of communists, Conservative Catholics, Nazis, and Japanese agreed on a doctrine of disrupting relations between the United States and Latin American countries. Its editorial says the differences are only in form and that, while communist press says, "Watch the colussus of the north," the directors of Siglo write, "The United States is a menace to South American independence."

Warns of Red Peril.

While the communists write the "Octupus of Wall street will take the hide off Colombia," El Liberal charges, the Conservative leaders say, "Gold of the United States is trying to buy the consciences of Latin America in the open market."

The editorial reminds readers that communism is an ally and an accomplice of the totalitarian plan to destroy democracy.

ARM SPEEDILY, SHUN WAR, PLEA OF VANDENBERG

Senator Outlines 6 Point Program for Defense.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 9.—The text of Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg's address urging a program to keep America out of war, is as follows:

"Fellow Americans:

"We are all prayerfully thinking these days about our foreign policies and our national defense: about peace and war. In respect to these things we confront a condition, not a theory, in the presence of volcanic European events. We must deal with it frankly and realistically for the sake of every human and material value we hold dear. That is what I here propose to do:

"We are no longer 'neutrals.' We are now described as 'nonbelligerents.' A 'nonbelligerent is a nonfighting sympathizer and ally. By overwhelming national sentiment and by administration policy, we are 'nonbelligerents' on the side of France and England and Norway and Denmark and Finland and Poland and Czecho-Slovakia.

Rushes Ahead on Impulse.

"The transition began with the repeal of the arms embargo. It rushed ahead on the impulse of our deep sense of outrage and horror when one innocent continental nation after another succumbed to the ruthless blood-lust of Nazi and communistic conquest. It has matured in every ghastly bulletin from the shambles of Europe and in every program which the administration has serially developed.

"It has both sound and unsound stimulations. It is sometimes fed by an often unreasoning anxiety that America herself is in imminent danger of extermination if the allies lose. On the other hand, it more solidly flows from the clear conception that America is safer if the allies win; and it has real substance in the necessities which might confront us, under the Monroe Doctrine, if the allies do lose.

No Longer Neutrals.

"There is no use in longer arguing the merits of this transition, even if one were so disposed. It is here. We are no longer 'neutrals.' We are 'nonbelligerents' on the allied side. The rational thing for all Americans to do is to face these unavoidable facts—clearly and cool-headedly—on the basis of these irretraceable developments. The only practical question today is: Where now, and what next?

"The problems of a 'nonbelligerent'—which still hopefully says it has no intention of taking the final step and becoming a 'belligerent'—are far more delicate and dangerous than the problems of a 'neutral,' because it is a difficult and perilous rôle to be half in and half out of this war.

"Therefore, there is greater need than ever for care and prudence in charting our course lest inflammatory exhortation, on the one hand, and impulsive emotions, on the other, shall force us unwittingly to the final step which makes a full-fledged belligerent out of us, despite the universal assurance and demand that we shall stop short of this final plunge.

Calls Isolation Nonexistent.

"Let us try, then, to examine a few considerations.

"FIRST—It is true that there is no such thing as literal 'isolation' left for us in this foreshortened world. It always was a relative term. Recent events have been no more destructive of 'isolation' than of many another preblitzkrieg conception which has gone by the board.

"The simple fact is that we face a new set of world facts. We may still be 'nationalists' as distinguished from 'internationalists.' We may still be 'noninterventionists.' We may still be 'insulationists.' I am personally all of these things. But we cannot be 'isolationists.'

Defends Monroe Doctrine.

"SECOND—It is true that the problems of the United States are simplified if the allies win. One very practical example will suffice. All of the allies have American possessions. Their disposition, in the event of allied defeat, may become an immediate challenge to our Monroe Doctrine. If this war should come to the western hemisphere in challenge of the Monroe Doctrine [which, for this purpose, includes Canada] we shall become belligerents overnight.

"I have voted within the week—with a unanimous senate foreign relations committee—that no possessions in this new world may be transferred to a non-American power. It is straight notice that we consider it our business to stop conquest in the western hemisphere. It is our business. There is but one belligerent to whom I could ultimately apply. At this point we fight!

Examines Other Considerations.

"Now these two paragraphs described tangible reasons—entirely aside from our abhorrence of Mr. Hitler's demonstration during the last six months of contempt for international good faith, and for the humanities we cherish, and for the democracy we love. These two paragraphs describe tangible reasons why the United States has a definite and specific stake in allied victory.

"But before we measure the extent of this stake and what we should do about it, let's examine a few other basic considerations for the sake of ultimately arriving as nearly as possible at the right answer for America.

Not Lost if Allies Lose.

"FIRST—America is not automatically lost if the allies lose. Our interests are not that inseverable. If they are inseverable we ought to go to war tomorrow with everything we possess and any other course would be cowardly suicide. But 99 per cent of our most earnest interventionists insist they would stop short of actual war participation.

"Therefore, it must be that we generally agree allied fate and ours are not necessarily one and the same. We want and we intend that America shall survive no matter who wins in Europe. We intend to survive in the postwar world whatever it may be. I am frank to express my own view that an exhausted Nazi conqueror is not calculated soon to ask for more war when once he lapses into armistice. But I do not suggest that we rely upon this thesis. I suggest simply that our prospectus must contemplate our ability to survive regardless of who wins in Europe.

Insulation Still Remains.

"SECOND—Tho 'isolation' is out, 'insulation' still remains. The two oceans are still, relatively, our great and priceless friends despite alarming time-tables which fabulously magnify our hazards. But the oceans alone are not enough. We must arm against all probable eventualities. As swiftly as possible we must build an impregnable national defense. Not for war in Europe—God forbid! But against war if it ever comes to our own homeland or any of its essential outposts.

"We can allow nothing to interfere with this objective, and we dare not subordinate this objective to any other consideration, no matter how nobly meditated or persuasively urged. We must prepare conclusively to defend ourselves and new world democracy under the Monroe Doctrine. That is our responsibility. It also is our greatest promise of final influence in behalf of those nations with which we sympathize when the ultimate world readjustments come.

Would Respect Treaties.

"Now, when we lay this second set of fundamentals alongside of the first set of fundamentals, our proper course—as 'nonbelligerents'—begins to take clear pattern. Two conclusions seem clear. Since our foreign policy has traded 'neutrality' for 'help-the-allies-nonbelligerence' we should render this help to the utmost of our capabilities without violating our obligations under treaties and international law—but always limited by two additional restrictions.

"These limitations, always insistently proclaimed by the authors of our new policy themselves, are that we shall not under any circumstances actually enter this war abroad, and we shall not impair the essential nucleus of our own present meager defenses for the sake of arming others.

Points to Limitations.

"Our paramount requirement is that we shall constantly remember the limitations as well as the premise. If anything, the limitations are the more important because the more easily forgotten. It is too tragically easy for the transition from neutrality to nonbelligerence to maintain a frenzied tempo which races on and over the precipice, despite sincerest motives to the contrary. A parachutist has some difficulty in deciding not to be a parachutist after the parachute starts to descend.

"So, I repeat, this new rôle of nonbelligerent—a sort of twilight zone between war and peace—puts the duty of a greatly intensified vigilance upon us to see to it that while we help the allies, we do not hurt America while assuming that we help America.

"Now, let's examine a few more fundamentals in the light of these conclusions.

Threat to Liberties.

"FIRST—If we go to war—or if we drift into war—we shall substantially lose all of our own liberties overnight in a regimentation of all and everything which will curse us with all the plagues of dictatorship against which we should presumably mobilize; and, even in our ultimate victory, we should sit amid the ashes of our own bankruptcy and disintegration. I have seen the case stated no better than in an editorial sentence in the Detroit News:

"'We do not believe anything to be gained for America and American democracy by helping the allies can compare with what would be lost by involvement in this war.'

"Here let me add one statement of fact—not argumentatively, but to make the record complete. If, as a result of what may be construed, under international law, as direct intervention by our government, Germany should declare war on us, we should be at war regardless of our own intentions to the contrary. Let that sentence never be forgotten as we determine our own latitudes of action.

Cites Hague Convention.

"We cannot tear up our international obligations even tho others do. Article 6 of the Hague convention on this subject binds us to the following doctrine:

"'The supply, in any manner, directly or indirectly, by a neutral power to a belligerent power, of warships, ammunition or war materials of any kind whatever is forbidden.'

"This does not apply to commercial trade. It does apply to governments—our own included. I do not characterize the President's recent order respecting army and navy supplies. The case is not entirely clear. I simply state the facts. Personally, I shall not vote to go to war indirectly any more than I should vote to go to war directly, unless the war comes to our own homeland or its essential outposts.

Not Prepared for War.

"SECOND—We are not prepared to go to war, even if we would; and—tho we help the allies to the utmost best we can within the law—we dare not hamper or impair the new beginnings of a real hemispherical defense of our own United States on any theory that we can in some safe fashion defend ourselves by proxy on alien battlefields. There is no final substitute for the self-contained American defense of America. Let's pursue this latter theme a little farther.

"The President gave us this advice a few days ago: 'Let us not be calamity howlers and discount our own strength.' Well and good. But here is parallel advice: 'Let us not be wishful thinkers and pretend to a strength we do not possess.'

"This latter folly ought to require no emphasis in the light of current European history. Indeed the President himself has not hesitated to strip our unpreparedness naked to the world. We should fool none but ourselves if we pursued any other course. I repeat: We confront a condition not a theory.

Points to One-Ocean Navy.

"Aside from an excellent one-ocean navy [which is now distantly concentrated in the Pacific ocean] we are unprepared—in any real sense—to go to war or to approach it. Just a few typical examples.

"Assistant Secretary of War Johnson said this week that full delivery of the new Garand rifles to the National Guard will not be completed until June, 1941, and that tanks and field pieces for an army of 1,000,000 men will not be in hand until January 1, 1942. Our new battleship program will not be completed until 1944. We do not have 50 planes competent for equal combat in the technique disclosed by contemporary war. So it goes.

"We are not only unprepared for war but we are unprepared to do much more, beyond what is already being done, to 'help the allies'—until our own production is vastly multiplied—if we cling faithfully to the limitations heretofore set down.

Credits for Two Years.

"They do not need credits for perhaps another two years. They are already getting practically everything, within these limitations, which is available and for which transportation is available. Until we step up our own production, there is little more we could contribute except the very things which we need ourselves in the development of our own defense against our own eventualities.

"In this latter field we could only expect to divide and dissipate our own strength in return for having made an indecisive contribution to those with whom we sympathize. We cannot afford to dissipate our own strength if there is any such contingent menace ahead as we are constantly warned by the sponsors of our new status. We cannot have a chip on each shoulder and both arms in a sling.

Defense Paramount Duty.

"So this brings us to another fundamental. Our paramount duty—regardless of any other consideration—is the swiftest possible development of a completely adequate defense for our own homeland and its essential outposts; and our chance to substantially expand our 'help the allies' program is largely contingent upon what we do to put our great industrial facilities into defense production on an effective scale to serve both objectives. Once more we confront a condition and not a theory.

"Altho we have spent many billions on the army and the navy in the last six years—and always with the assurance that each appropriation would produce adequate preparedness—the truth of the matter obviously is that we have not remotely obtained anything like adequate preparedness. This does not intend undue criticism—because the whole technique of war has changed in the last six months beyond reasonable anticipation.

"But this new technique is about 95 per cent a matter of industrial mass production. The army and the navy and particularly the treasury department cannot cope with it. They are no more trained to cope with it than they are to step into a great motor plant and run it. The old procurement methods won't do. They are too much a failure. We have paid penalty enough for them. We confront a condition, not a theory.

"This is a job for a civilian procurement administrator — the best mass production expert available in the land. The President recognizes this need by setting up a civilian advisory board. It contains the best mass production expert in America. We do not yet know to what extent he will be given freedom of action and authority. I express the hope that it may be complete.

Urges New Methods.

"In whatever degree we cling to the old methods and procedures we shall cling to the old wastes and disappointments. Nothing short of supreme efficiency and expedition will do. I well wish we might see last October's report of the President's own war resources committee which undoubtedly canvassed this problem in realistic fashion and undoubtedly pointed the way to essential reform.

"I still fail to understand why this key report should have been hermetically sealed against inspection by any member of the congress. That is an unhappy mystery which I cannot fathom. But this we know. The task of preparedness is not too difficult if private industry—at long last—gets the right of way.

"As a 'neutral' we could afford the luxury of a little dalliance. But as a nonbelligerent we can afford nothing short of swift and certain results to produce a defense fully equal to the responsibilities for which we propose to prepare. Making appropriations is not enough. We tried that before. The important thing is how efficiently these appropriations are expended. And thus we see our own necessities take clear form—and our chance to 'help the allies' is in this same mold.

Urges Treaty with Japan.

"Now let's pass on briefly to some other phases of the grim problem which we confront.

"In facing our new vicissitudes, we could serve our preparations no more realistically than to write a new commercial and political treaty with Japan—if reasonably possible—which would stabilize our relations in the far east, where we most emphatically confront a condition and not a theory. A pacified Pacific could be almost equivalent to half a navy in our scheme of defense.

"The abrogation of the old Japanese-American treaty of 1911 has cleared the track for a new agreement unless statesmanship is bankrupt at one end of the line or the other. That was the purpose of the abrogation—as expressly stated in the preamble of my resolution on this score and in my constantly reiterated subsequent appeals.

"There is another phase—right here at home—which can no longer be smugly ignored—and which has a direct bearing upon any decisions which may take us closer to the theater of war. Financially, we are as unprepared as we are in the physical field.

Sees Financial Crisis.

"Next March we shall have reached our 45 billion dollar debt limit. Yet our tenth annual and consecutive operating deficit for this next year will be in excess of 3 billion dollars—without taking any account of these latest gigantic defense expenditures. The new taxes thus far proposed, tho heavy and burdensome, will only pay 20 per cent of next year's operating deficit—with no account of these latest defense proposals.

"A crisis is obvious. There is no use blinking it. We are at the end of the road of deficit spending. We are at the bottom of the barrel. We confront a condition, not a theory.

"A sound public credit is the first line of national defense. There is but one way we can fortify that line. It is the cruel, hard way of paying and paying and paying. There is no such thing as inexpensive war or inexpensive preparation for war. Even without war, our problem is utterly serious. With war, it would be appalling.

Wants Congress on Job.

"The 'neutral' has become a 'nonbelligerent'; but the 'nonbelligerent' must frankly weigh all of these considerations before needlessly hastening by a single hour that ghastly moment when we go to the war or when the war comes to us.

"This congress should not adjourn until it realistically attacks unpreparedness on the fiscal as well as the military front. As a matter of fact, it should not adjourn at all so long as there is any emergency which calls for its coöperation—because no delegation of its constitutional powers and responsibilities to the executive can adequately substitute for its own constitutional voice. We are still a people's democracy.

"Congress should horizontally reduce every other appropriation, except for fixed charges, by at least 10 per cent for the next fiscal year. It should reduce all federal salaries above $3,000 by 10 per cent. It should assess new taxes to pay our new bills. We cannot eat our cake and keep it too. So let's confront this condition honestly and courageously, no matter how disagreeable the task. The administration's initially proposed little tax bill is not much more than a mustard plaster on a cancer.

Hits at Fifth Column.

"There is still another phase at home—the treachery of the 'Trojan horse'—the technique of the 'fifth column.' We are perhaps more susceptible to it than any other land because of our zeals for civil liberties. These zeals must be kept courageously alive. On the other hand, there is nothing in the bill of rights which requires Columbia to nurse a viper in her bosom.

"Those who are not for us are against us; and the quicker we draw this line, the safer we shall be. No party which advocates the overthrow of our government by force has a right upon our ballots; and no subversive activities—aimed at our destruction from within—have a right to survive when we are closing ranks to protect the republic. Here, again, we confront a condition, not a theory. And, unfortunately, we confront it within the very ranks of government itself.

Would Keep Out of War.

"Now let me recapitulate. We want a national defense which will meet every emergency—and congress, without regard to party, is voting almost unanimously for all the President asks in this respect. We want a foreign policy which, while frankly and helpfully recognizing our obvious allied interest under present conditions, does not needlessly intensify this emergency nor create new ones.

"The American people, myself emphatically included, want the allies to win. Most of us are ready wholeheartedly to help—but it is vital that this help stay within the essential limitations I have described. But, above all else, the American people insistently demand that we keep out of war itself abroad.

"And they are eternally right in this demand. We have ceased to be 'neutrals.' That is water over the dam. We are 'nonbelligerents'—and we must not drop the 'non' unless the war comes to our homeland or its essential outposts. We must not critically impair our own essential defenses to make indecisive contribution to the defense of others. We must prepare to survive in the postwar world, whatever it may be.

Demands Adequate Defense.

"We want complete and adequate defense. We want effective expenditure of our prodigal defense appropriations. We want to get what we are paying for. Then, for the sake of our own indispensable solvency, we must prepare to meet the bills.

"There is no need for hysteria. Hysteria defeats reason. We can do no better than to recall the sturdy words of President Roosevelt when, in 1933, he was in the midst of an earlier crisis. 'The only thing we have to fear is fear itself—nameless, unreasoning, unjustified terror which paralyzes' our judgments. It was good advice then. It is good advice now.

"We are entitled to deepest apprehensions and we are justified in preparing for a maximum emergency; but America can survive in tomorrow's world—whatever that world may be—if we think things thru and if we consult American necessity at every turn of the hard road.

"There is need for cool, deliberate judgments. There is need for unity of action after full, free, and untrammeled discussion. There is need to protect our democracy against attack from ambush and against its own disintegration.

"There is no need for us to go overseas and join this war abroad; and there is no justification for any policies which would threaten this calamity. The place for us finally to 'save democracy' is right here at home."

PALESTINE RUSHES AIR RAID SHELTERS; MOST ITALIANS LEAVE

JERUSALEM, Palestine, June 9 (AP).—Palestine rushed air raid shelters to completion today and geared herself for a possible spread of the war to the near east.

Italian institutions and businesses liquidated their assets and most Italians have gone home. The offices of Ala Littoria, Italian commercial airline, were closed. Italian ships bound for the Holy Land and diverted at the last minute included the steamer Rodi, carrying 125 immigrants.

The Palestine government has called up all supernumerary classes of constables to protect public buildings, pumping stations and power plants. A special unit is being trained to combat parachutists. The blackout begun last week has been made permanent.

But that's only the starting point!

BY THE yardstick of numbers of families, The American Weekly delivers the mightiest circulation in the world—a circulation average shown by the Audit Bureau of Circulations publishers' reports for the six months ended March 31, 1940, to be more than twice as large as any other national weekly magazine, as listed below:

THE AMERICAN WEEKLY	6,826,513
The Saturday Evening Post	3,130,396
Collier's	2,777,479
Life	2,509,905
Liberty	2,502,464
Time	751,979

(A. B. C. circulation figures for all other publications are for six months ended Dec. 31, 1939)

So far, so good. But the question is often asked:

What About Readership?

And Dr. Daniel Starch has the answer to that. Computed from his latest Consumer Magazine Report, the ADULT (over 18 years of age) readership score for these publications, based on a full year's interviews, is:

THE AMERICAN WEEKLY	14,395,894
Magazine A	7,108,999
Magazine B	6,668,727
*Magazine C	6,457,986
Magazine D	6,040,948
Magazine E	1,774,671

("Information regarding "C" is based upon interviews for the four months' period Sept.-Dec., 1939)

Dr. Starch's studies of every issue of The American Weekly indicate there is a reader-traffic through this magazine's pages of nearly 14,400,000 adults.

Even more important—these many millions of adult men and women read The American Weekly with an intensity unequalled in the publication field.

What next? Well, considering that The American Weekly provides a page twice the size of any other magazine, it's a fair question to ask:

What About Cost?

And once more, when we look at the list—bearing in mind that a page in The American Weekly is double the size—figures computed from the same Starch survey line it up like this, on a basis of cost per color page per thousand readers:

THE AMERICAN WEEKLY	$1.25
Magazine C	1.26
Magazine B	1.42
Magazine D	1.47
Magazine A	1.62
Magazine E	2.08

But even that is not all. Any sensible advertiser wants to know:

What About Market Coverage?

That's a big story, but it can be packed into this: The American Weekly pours the major share of its 6,826,513 circulation into those 3,165 urban places where 82% of all retail sales are made—does the job with a concentration twice as great in cities of every size, from over 1,500,000 down to 2,500—and almost double the concentration in communities under 2,500.

"Double Action" More Than a Claim

Look back at these figures, and they speak for themselves:

With double the circulation, double the readership, double the coverage of various income groups—and concentration where the most buying is done—The American Weekly has what it takes to make good advertising produce double results.

Cock-A-Doodle-Doo!

Advertising linage and revenue in The American Weekly for the month of June records the largest volume for any month this year, to date, and the figures for the first six months show a substantial linage and revenue increase over the same period in 1939.

FACING A NEW WORLD.

So far as foreign policy and foreign relations are concerned, America has been living in a fool's paradise for a good many generations. As Lord Lothian said the other day in his commencement address at Columbia, the British navy since the Napoleonic wars has been able to insulate America from attack from Europe or Asia.

In consequence, we in this country have suffered relatively little damage from intrusting our diplomatic relations to socially ambitious nincompoops who had plenty of money. Happily for us, the British navy is still intact, but for the first time in living memory, as Lord Lothian said, the supremacy of the British fleet has been seriously challenged. German air power is more menacing today than were the submarines of 1916. Events are moving with great rapidity and, as the British ambassador intimated, it is far from certain that at the end of this war Britain's sea power will continue to safeguard us.

In the circumstances we must look to our own strength and our own will to defend us in a troubled world. That calls for a reëxamination of our foreign policy and of our military policy. In common prudence, we must determine what our international interests are and prepare an army, a navy, and an air force to assure that these essentials will be respected by all other nations.

It is unfortunate that at this critical hour the conduct of affairs is in the hands of highly impractical men. Mr. Roosevelt, as President, directs the course of our foreign policy and is commander in chief of the armed forces. He is a man whose head is filled with grandiose and frequently contradictory ideas and he has surrounded himself with men of small capacity. Today he appeals for billions to build up our armaments and tomorrow he proceeds to sell much of our admittedly insufficient equipment. At the same time he assumes responsibilities for the protection of the remotest areas in South America without assurances from the peoples to be protected that they want our help or will welcome it if it is offered. He has already dispatched two cruisers to South America and hints that others will follow, but whether the purpose of this "good-will cruise" is to terrify Hitler or to intimidate and thereby antagonize the South American republics is far from clear.

We have need in Washington of an executive possessed of practical sense, a man who will recognize that, strong as we may become and rich as we are, we still cannot run the whole world. We cannot dominate Europe, Asia, and the Americas as well. We must set limits upon our field of operations and confine ourselves to them.

That means a wholesale housecleaning in the diplomatic service. We can no longer allow it to be used as a ladder for social climbers and rich campaign fund subscribers or as a refuge for lame duck politicians. It means, also, that the formation of policy must be intrusted to men who are indifferent to the flatteries of accomplished foreigners but have a realistic sense of America's needs.

At the same time the management of military matters must be equally practical. The administration obtains billions in appropriations for arms, but is obviously incapable of getting them, as the official figures demonstrate. For many years the burocrats have been talking of modernizing the French 75s left over from the last war and have a program for 1,432 of them, but only 141 have been modernized. The army prefers the 105 millimeter field gun, but has only one and has plans for only 120 of them in all. Even when the present program is completed we shall have only 96 of the 155s. Today we have only one 8 inch gun and have plans for only 48.

At the rate at which guns are being built we are getting nowhere. That is not because of lack of money, because billions have been appropriated, but because of executive incompetence. Mr. Roosevelt hates and distrusts industry and therefore cannot coöperate with it. He insists that many of the most essential items in the rearmament program be built in government arsenals instead of intrusting the work to industrial executives who have proved their competence in the field of production. Naturally costs are staggering and accomplishments are disappointing.

Almost nobody in this country is unwilling to make sacrifices to assure that we shall remain free and independent, but as matters stand we are making the sacrifices without obtaining the assurance. Under our present leadership we are being edged toward wider and wider commitments while the means to make them good are lacking. The danger to which we have been exposed by the threat to British sea power is being aggravated by the wool gatherers in Washington.

INNOVATIONS IN WAR.

Much of the mystery which has surrounded the successful German attacks has been removed in recent dispatches to THE TRIBUNE from two members of its foreign staff: Mr. Murchie on the allied side and Mr. Noderer who is with the Germans.

As is well known, the Germans have numerical superiority in the air and in mechanized equipment on land, but in addition they have perfected a number of tactical devices which have proved of the greatest value to them. Their use of parachute troops to take strongly defended positions, for example, has puzzled military men because it has seemed that the troops dropping from planes would be particularly easy targets, and even when they landed would be numerically weak. Mr. Murchie has explained that the parachuters are employed only after the most careful preparation to render the defensive organization in the vicinity of their landing place ineffective and that they are drilled in cooperation with the other arms to achieve their mission. For his part, Mr. Noderer has explained, among other things, the success of the German mechanized forces in avoiding attack from the air by taking advantage of every opportunity for protective cover.

The dispatches from these two able correspondents, it is to be expected, will be studied with the closest attention by the high command of our army. It is obvious that the Germans have introduced some new and notably effective military ideas which our army must learn to use and to counter. As Mr. Noderer explained, many of the devices of the last war, including shallow dugouts, are no longer adequate. Our army can avoid the errors of omission and commission of the allied forces and can learn the new techniques provided the minds of our officers are receptive to innovation. Otherwise we may have to learn modern warfare the hard and costly way.

THE WAGNER ACT.

The house has voted amendments to the Wagner act which are intended to make it less an engine of industrial persecution. The vote was 258 to 129, or exactly 2 to 1. For more than a year congress has been trying to amend the act, but political pressure from the New Dealers has been exerted to prevent the majority from correcting established abuses. That no doubt comes under the head of devotion to democratic principles.

The struggle will now be transferred to the senate. It is to be hoped that the senators will take the trouble to read the record of the Smith inquiry, exposing as it does the unfairness of the labor board as it now exists.

This session of congress is being devoted largely to strengthening the defensive power of the nation. It should not be forgotten that America's strongest weapon is our industrial plant and organization. As now constituted the labor board can nullify that weapon and is likely to do so. The board can give encouragement to saboteurs and protect fomenters of unrest in plants engaged in war work.

The labor board was proffered to John Lewis in return for the C. I. O.'s half million dollar contribution to the Roosevelt campaign fund in 1936. It is significant that the C. I. O., which opposes any change in the Wagner act, has adhered pretty closely to the Stalin party line thru all its recent changes. If we want to make sure that our industrial resources will be at the service of our country rather than Stalin we should make certain that the Wagner act is not used against our national interest. That is why it is of vital importance that the Wagner act be amended at once.

MORE HOME OWNERS.

Real estate men have long insisted that it is cheaper to own a home than to pay rent. The new income tax bill, if it becomes a law, will strengthen their argument. A large share of the cost of home ownership consists of property taxes and interest on the mortgage. Both may be deducted in their entirety in arriving at net income subject to the federal income tax.

If a home owner can use a large portion of his shelter cost as an income tax deduction and a renter has no corresponding privilege we may expect home ownership to become increasingly popular. This line of reasoning will no doubt have some appeal to the 8 million persons in the lower income groups, who will become taxpayers as a result of the proposed lowering of exemptions. But to thrifty persons in the income group ranging from $4,000 to $50,000 the boost in surtaxes of as much as 50 per cent will make of the well-mortgaged-owned house a well-nigh irresistible attraction.

MAJ. LOHR RETURNS TO CHICAGO.

The news that Maj. Lenox R. Lohr is returning to Chicago to direct the Museum of Science and Industry will be welcomed by all Chicagoans who remember the high degree of executive talent that he exhibited as the operating chief of A Century of Progress Exposition.

At the museum Maj. Lohr should find himself at home because at the close of the fair the museum got its pick of the thousands of technical and scientific exhibits that made the Chicago fair such a notable departure from the earlier vintage of expositions.

The development of the museum in the six years since the fair closed has been slow. It has yet to assume the full stature as a center of technical and scientific instruction that was expected of it. This is a matter that cannot be properly charged to any shortcomings of the present staff. Their principal shortcoming has been cash, and they have spent what funds they had prudently but necessarily slowly.

Maj. Lohr will find the museum well planned on the whole, with thousands of valuable exhibits, some of which financial limitations have made it impossible to show. Chicago can rely on hi vigor and ability as an organizer to make the museum the institution that Julius Rosenwald envisioned when he endowed it.

WHAT THE PEOPLE WANTED.

[Omaha World-Herald.]

Apologists for the administration are saying these days that the preparedness program could not have been started earlier because "the people wouldn't have supported it."

Altho the milk is now spilled and reproaches are useless, the record should be kept straight. Fortunately Dr. George Gallup, thru his Institute of Public Opinion, has been keeping track of the public attitude for the last five years.

In November, 1935, he asked the people this question:

"Do you think the United States should increase the size of its army, navy, and air force?"

And he announced these results: 70 per cent of the people thought the army ought to be bigger, 72 per cent thought the navy ought to be bigger, and 84 per cent thought the air force ought to be bigger.

He asked the same question in 1938, after the Munich agreement, and this time the percentages favoring stronger defenses were, respectively, 82, 86, and 90. After the invasion of Poland they rose to 86, 88, and 91.

Thus it seems plain that if the administration had chosen to use some of its billions for a genuine strengthening of our military forces it would have had overwhelming support. As we said, it's too late to do anything about it now except to try to make up for lost time.

A FEW SECRET WEAPONS.

When Rome, unskilled in naval warfare, challenged the sea power of Carthage, Gaius Duilius, consul and commander of the fleet, invented a scheme for using the Roman land fighting prowess at sea. At the prow of each of his galleys he erected a device called a "corvus" which dropped a heavy iron weight, pointed at the base, aboard the enemy. It was, in effect, a long distance grappling iron. Another gadget in the "corvus" let down a boarding runway. So the Romans swarmed aboard the Carthaginian galleys and settled matters hand to hand. Thus was Rome's first naval victory won off Mylae in Sicily, 260 B. C. Eighty Carthaginian ships were captured and thirteen destroyed.

"Shoot upward, Norman archers," said Duke William, bastard son of Robert the Devil, "that your arrows may fall into their faces." And so the valiant Saxons became bewildered within their palisade; Harold, their king, was blinded by an arrowhead; and England was prostrated before an invader.

* * *

The heavy cavalry of Belisarius, military genius of the eastern Roman empire, carried on the inside of their shields four short, heavy iron darts, feathered like arrows. In a mêlée, when sword or lance could not be used, they plucked out these darts and slammed them into the faces of the enemy. And so, tho always outnumbered, 10 to 1 or more, they protected the imperial purple of Byzantium.

On March 8, 1862, an iron plated barn steamed into the harborage at Newport News to destroy two federal ships of war and rout several others. That was the confederate secret weapon. The next day a revolving iron turret mounted on a raft arrived and fought a draw with the iron barn. That was the Union secret weapon. The two inventions gave birth to the modern battleship.

UNNATURAL HISTORY.

We thought of Holland as a placid cow
In pastures green that grased and chawed her cud;
Only the Germans could imagine how
She threatened them and thirsted for their blood.

And that ferocious Polish guinea pig—
How it did menace with its teeth immense
The German hound, so gentle and so big,
Until the dachshund slew in self-defense!

Norway, the big black sheep, carnivorous
And savage, how the timid Germans feared
Her fangs—tho quite invisible to us—
Until the big black sheep was bombed and sheared.

The cow, the guinea pig, the sheep subdued,
There's still a lion dosing in its lair.
Do the sheep-killing mongrels dare intrude
Upon the British lion waiting there?

Perhaps. But not by valor will the king
Of beasts be conquered, but insidious intrigue,
By creeping monsters, harpies on the wing,
And sudden, overpowering blitzkrieg.

And when, if ever, is the lion slain,
What glory will redound from such a goal?
What shall it profit, after all, to gain
A ruined realm and lose a nation's soul?

Eolus.

In Praise of the Lordly Sandwich.

Now that the gourmets have had their fling at Antoine's in New Orleans [May 23] and at the bishops' banquet in New York [May 28], may I rise in support of the lowly sandwich. We are not all epicures, sir. Some of us, in fact, may be dyspeptic. And I protest that the sandwich is more stimulating to the imagination and more provocative of thought than "Myae arenariae in semiconchis suis," of which the bishops partook. Semiconchis, indeed! That dish, sir, would make one totally unconchis.

Whereas the sandwich! One eats it contemplatively, while the mind is free to roam o'er far horizons. Can this be said of those menus, rich with foods and wines? And at the end would it be said of your friends that their faces "shone with meridian splendor" as do ours as we brush away the crumbs? Rather would not Morpheus be blowing out their candles?

As a disciple of Epicurus you have probably disdained acquaintance with the earl of Sandwich, and may not know the origin of the sandwich. Well, years ago, this earl, gambling for high stakes, felt faint for food but refused to leave the scene of play. So he called for a slice of beef and two of bread, threw them together and continued his play while he consumed this improvised meal. Thus came into being the sandwich.

And when the old earl called for meat and bread, copia verborum—to borrow from the bishops' 10 pound Latin dictionary, with free translation—he said a mouthful. Shandy Gaff.

PORTRAIT OF A BOY FRIEND.

He always says, "Will I?"
When he means
"Shall I?"
And he says, "Shall I?"
When he means "Will I?"
But the worst of it's this—
When he asks for a kiss,
He always says,
"Would I?"
Or even worse,
"Should I?"
When he really means,
"Could I?"

A Rare Old Bit of College Humor.

In 1900 a student at the University of Chicago named Charlton Beck lived, happily, no doubt, at the Delta Upsilon fraternity house. One fine day he received a summons to the office of the dean of women, Miss Marion Talbot, to explain the sinister suggestion of his place of domicile. She thought his first name was Charlotte!

MINOR ANNOYANCES OF PREGNANCY.

WE all differ—and, at the same time, we possess many similarities. A son may be "a chip off the old block" or a daughter the "spit an' image" of her mother. But we vary in traits, temperament, and the way things strike us. What a drab world we would live in if we all looked alike, thought alike, and behaved alike!

In no condition is this contrast more striking than in pregnancy. Some will go thru the period without "skipping a beat." Other than enlargement of the abdomen to accommodate the growing fetus, no discomfort will be felt. There is no nausea, vomiting, indigestion; no change in disposition, no finicky appetite, no drowsiness. This is as it should be.

On the other hand, some may encounter nausea during the entire interval—with a vomiting attack now and then. With others, only slight sensations of squeamishness will appear early in the morning, particularly on arising. Regardless of the character of any manifestation—if it is minor—the patient should lead as normal a life as possible. This means that every disturbance—no matter how trivial—must be reported to the physician. He will have many suggestions at his command.

"Morning sickness" can be aided by taking some simple food before getting up. Lifting the head from the pillow seems to be the inciting factor. Liquids can be sipped thru a drinking tube—the sufferer remaining recumbent for another half hour. The process of dressing should then be deliberate. Breakfast—a rather light meal—may be followed by a brief rest—lying down. Thereafter, the day's routine may be pursued without interruption.

Eating small meals—frequently—has solved what might otherwise be disastrous vomiting episodes. At any rate, no more than three hours should elapse without nourishment. We must recall also that overfatigue and worry may prove upsetting. If the trouble is persistent—and becomes consistently worse—bed care may be essential for the readjustment of some metabolic disturbance.

Not a few will complain of heartburn or that the mouth waters incessantly. This profuse flow of saliva is ascribed to the effect upon the sympathetic [autonomic] nervous system of the enlarging uterus. If mild indigestion is relieved with a soda tablet, well and good. At any rate, the excess saliva should not be swallowed and the diet should be watched to the end that articles known to disagree may be omitted. Items that are difficult to digest in ordinary circumstances should not be included in the menu. A useful device is offered by two or three ounces of cream ingested a half hour before mealtime. The same quantity may be employed after eating. Others are benefited by drinking carbonated water or ginger ale diluted with an equal amount of plain water.

A symptom which is of no special significance is a drop in weight for the first few weeks. This may be accounted for by a poor appetite or by the actual loss of nutriment thru vomiting. Rarely will this persist beyond the second or third month. This emphasizes again that a daily record should be kept, as any rapid increase or decrease in poundage must be called to the doctor's attention. From start to finish the total gain ought not to exceed twenty pounds, altho a normally stout woman will add more than one who is tall and thin. Shortness of breath will seldom occur when the avoirdupois is kept within bounds.

Varicose veins are likely to become worse. Their beginnings are already in existence—altho they may not be visible. Slight burning or tingling may be noted and improvement will come if the feet are elevated routinely when one is sitting or lying down. In stubborn cases a wide flannel bandage starting at the instep may be wound about the limb, covering the area below the knee. Sometimes an elastic stocking will be serviceable.

All in all the experience should be a happy one—if not exactly pleasant. Severe vomiting may require the injection of hormones coupled with hospital management—at least for a time. But such instances are relatively uncommon.

CHIN CONTOUR.

G. K. writes: Does chewing gum tend to give one a double chin because of the exercise?

REPLY.

Gum—employed for chewing [chicle]—is nonnutritious. The sweet taste may be due to saccharin, hence there is little chance that two chins will appear in place of one. Movements of the lower jaw are more likely to bring about normal contours—to use up excess deposits of fat. As a mouth cleanser, gum may be of value.

BONE DISEASE.

Cautious writes: I am a victim of chronic recurring osteomyelitis, caused by the staphylococcus. Is this condition hereditary? Is it contagious? What is the treatment?

REPLY.

It is not hereditary and is contagious only by immediate contact. Relief may be expected thru surgery and building the resistance of the body to a high level with plenty of food, sunlight, and outdoor life.

REFLEX CTION.

B. L. H. writes: What is a reflex action?

REPLY.

Should a finger touch a hot object the arm will be jerked away even before a sense of pain reaches the brain. This is called a reflex action. It is automatic and instinctive. In like manner, one will dodge if he sees a missile approaching. This is one of nature's safeguards against injury.

TODAY IN HISTORY

June 10, 1776

Gen. Howe, driven out of Boston by Washington the previous year, left his base at Halifax and sailed for New York to launch a new British campaign. He encamped at Staten Island the following month. Washington had anticipated the move and had fortified New York, but was unable to hold it with the British dominating the waters around Manhattan Island. By September Howe had occupied the city.

MARK TWAIN AND WAR HYSTERIA.

Gary, Ind., June 5.—The current hysteria over America's intervention in the war calls to mind the observation by Mark Twain on the subject. In his "Mysterious Stranger" Twain spoke thru one of his characters in the following vein:

"The loud little handful—as usual—will shout for the war; the pulpit will, warily and cautiously, object—at first; the great, big, dull bulk of the nation will rub its sleepy eyes and try to make out why there should be a war, and will say, earnestly and indignantly, 'It is unjust and dishonorable, and there is no necessity for it.' Then the handful will shout louder.

"A few fair men on the other side will argue and reason against the war with speech and pen, and at first will have a hearing and be applauded; but it will not last long; those others will outshout them, and presently the antiwar audiences will thin out and lose popularity.

"Before long you will see this curious thing: the speakers stoned from the platform, and free speech strangled by hordes of furious men who in their secret hearts are still at one with the stoned speakers—as earlier—but do not dare to say so. And now the whole nation—pulpit and all—will take up the war cry, and shout itself hoarse, and mob any honest man who ventures to open his mouth; and presently such mouths will cease to open. Next the statesmen will invent cheap lies, putting the blame upon the nation that is attacked, and every man will be glad of these conscience soothing falsities, and will diligently study them, and refuse to examine any refutations of them; and thus he will by and by convince himself that the war is just, and will thank God for the better sleep he enjoys after this process of grotesque self-deception."

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS—JUNE 10.

Wilmette, Ill., June 8.—Please permit me to offer my congratulations upon your 93d birthday, which, I believe, takes place on Monday. I also want to congratulate you upon ninety-three years of good work.

For some 10 years while I was going thru high school and law school I had the honor of delivering THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

I hope you have 93 years more of success. Yours truly. HARRY C. KINNE,
President Village of Wilmette.

THE WEIRD COMMUNISTS.

Chicago, June 3.—The communists in convention assembled declare against any war defense measures in America. Meanwhile their native homeland of the world proletariat is arming and spending most of its income for munitions. The communists have not a word to say against this, tho their homeland means more to them than this country.

As an example of sheeplike human behavior the communists are excellent specimens for the psychologists. E. H.

TO TWO RACING MOTORISTS.

Bensenville, Ill., June 4.—To the drivers of two Fords [late models] who raced down Lawrence avenue, in the country, about half way between Bensenville and Itasca:

Do you know that you killed a puppy that was dearly beloved by my two youngsters and the entire family? And you didn't even have the courtesy to stop, even tho you very nearly broke two youngsters' hearts! A MOTHER.

PERFECT ISOLATION.

Chicago, June 2.—A Nazi victory in Europe will give the proisolationists of this country perfect isolation. Our foreign trade will be completely shut off. Then, perhaps, we will set up barriers between the states and have our own economic warfare.

I understand that the plot of ground in Kentucky where our gold is buried is going to be dedicated into another national cemetery. MAC D. LASKY.

DEFENDS CENSUS LEADERS.

Chicago, June 7.—I have read "Ex-Enumerator's" letter of June 3 in regard to the activity of census squad leaders and clerks.

I can testify that almost superhuman effort is being made to audit and correct the work of enumerators so that they may receive their pay. Since March 25, when they were employed, the squad leaders of this district have enjoyed one day off, that day being Memorial day. With that exception, we have worked 13 consecutive days and averaged 10 hours a day in an effort to complete a large and difficult job.

"Ex-Enumerator" and many others do not appreciate that they were employed to gather and properly tabulate information and that they are compensated at a specified rate for an acceptable enumeration. Tho the majority did excellent work, some enumerators turned in incomplete information and unreadable work. It is now the squad leaders' duty to see that these enumerations are put in acceptable condition so that the enumerator may be paid. This takes a certain amount of time. In an average book of 1,200 names 76,000 separate answers must be checked. In a district comprised of 378 enumerators this cannot be accomplished quickly.

We may have some "petty politicians" and "deserving Democrats" in our group. As a Republican without political connections, I cannot say. If the job these Democrats are doing is any criterion, they are, indeed, deserving.

SQUAD LEADER.

ALLIES IN URGENT NEED.

MONTREAL, Que., June 6.—The allies are in urgent and immediate need of planes, money, automatic weapons, and mechanized equipment in order to win this war in Europe and thus to preserve democracy in the world. The United States is the only country that can supply these needs immediately and in volume.

It would seem that no one able to see the full consequences of an allied defeat, as such a defeat would affect the people of Canada and the United States, would consider withholding the full resources of the North American continent from the allies at this critical time.

T. M. FAIRBAIRN.

ARE WESTERNERS OSTRICHES?

Chicago, June 6.—As a New Yorker I resent the charge of your paper that we of the east are war mongers. No true American wants to see our youth destroyed. We easterners admit our sympathies are with the allies.

It is stupid to think that whatever goes on in the rest of the world does not concern us. The world is in chaos, but if you want to be ostriches that is your privilege. This is a free country.

EDITH LESLIE.

WORTH THE FRONT PAGE.

Chicago, June 6.—I think your editorial this morning on "A United People" is so important that it ought to be reprinted on the first page of your paper. Many people do not read the editorial page and everybody should read this.

OVERLOOKING DOMESTIC FOES.

Chicago, June 4.—In fighting the phantom of foreign invasion America seems to be forgetting the reality of domestic foes. JAMES E. REMINGTON.

THE PRIZE BUTTINSKIES.

Dubuque, Ia., June 5.—Your editorial suggesting that we increase our navy strength by withdrawing it from being a threat to Japan is sound.

We establish a Monroe Doctrine to keep all other nations out of our world. We are a white race; the Japanese are a yellow.

If we don't like them why do we travel 6,000 miles away from our own problems to "butt into" their affairs? Let the yellow race, a world apart, settle their own Monroe doctrine.

I think we are the prize "buttinskies" of the whole world. We have millions of people slowly starving to death in body, family morale, and business affairs because of the governmental purpose of ruling by establishing hatreds and by destroying chances for personal initiative. I think our altruistic idealism is simply a snobbish egoism of our infallibility.

A REALIST.

NEED A LANE FOR CYCLISTS.

Chicago, June 6.—I call attention to the recent death of a student at Crane Technical High school. Riding a bicycle, he was struck and killed by an automobile. Many other such cases have been noted, especially injuries.

Our school paper has a campaign on to get a five foot bicycle lane for the safety of our cyclists, but this seems to be a hopeless task because our circulation is only thru our school. Therefore, I am appealing to your paper for aid.

Would it be asking too much of our city to reduce this danger by getting such a project under way?

EMANUEL SIEGEL,
Student.

THANKS.

Chicago, June 6.—May I sincerely congratulate THE TRIBUNE on its editorial of this morning regarding Prime Minister Churchill. It inspires me and I thank THE TRIBUNE for the production.

FORMATION OF CIVIC CLUB.

Bellwood, Ill., May 30 [Legal Friend of the People].—Would appreciate any information you can give on the following questions.

We have formed a civic club in our town. Can you tell me please:

1. What are the advantages or disadvantages of being incorporated or not incorporated?
2. What steps should be taken to be incorporated?
3. Under either or to any extent are the president and officers liable for anything that might occur thru the club?
4. Explain please the advantages and disadvantages of getting a charter?
5. How to get a charter—if necessary.

C. S.

1. The chief advantages of incorporation would be limitation of possible personal liability and protection against rival adoption of your name. The chief advantages of not incorporating would be a saving of trouble and expense.
2. Write to the secretary of state, Springfield, for printed forms and instructions.
3. In general, there is more danger of personal liability in absence of incorporation.

MILK CONFEREES TO HOLD FINAL MEETING TODAY

Drivers and Dealers Fail to Agree on Wages.

Representatives of the Milk Wagon Drivers' union and the Associated Milk Dealers, who have been conducting negotiations for a new contract, will hold their final meeting today. Machinery for arbitration will be set in motion if they fail to agree.

The Rev. Dennis Dunne.

It was reported yesterday that the conferees have agreed on a 54 hour week and on seniority rights to be accorded union men in rehiring and layoffs. Both sides admitted being far apart on the wage scale, however.

Under terms on which the union strike was ended May 27 the differences still existing between workers and employers are to be laid before Mayor Kelly and State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney late today. An arbitration board will be set up if they fail within 48 hours to get an agreement.

Pastor to Be Arbitrator.

One of the arbitrators will be the Rev. Dennis J. Dunne, pastor of the Holy Cross church and former chancellor of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago. The strike settlement provided that Archbishop Stritch should choose an impartial arbitrator, and he named Father Dunne. One representative of the dealers and one of the union will complete the board.

In the event the controversy is laid before the arbitrators it is expected they will hold hearings only on disputed points.

The old wage agreement, which expired April 30, gave the drivers a base pay of $48 a week and a small commission. Under this scale most of the drivers earned $50 to $52 a week. The dealers maintained they could not continue to pay this rate and maintain home delivery routes against store competition.

$30 Base Proposed.

Their last proposal was that the drivers receive a base of $30 a week and commissions on all collections exceeding $100 a week—10 per cent for doorstep delivery and 5 per cent for store delivery. The dealers also have offered to guarantee drivers at least $36 a week on this basis.

This decrease has been unacceptable to the union, which insisted from the start on the old scale.

The Inside Dairy Workers' union, with approximately 2,000 members [the drivers have 4,500], also is conducting negotiations with the dealers. So far these discussions have not brought agreement, but there will be no resort to arbitration methods until next Friday at the earliest.

DETROIT STIRRED BY PLAN TO CURB TRIPS TO CANADA

Detroit, Mich., June 9 (AP).—The state department's new order requiring passports for Canadians entering the United States has created a furor here, and a cry for help has gone to Washington.

For long and peaceful years citizens on both sides of the Detroit river, which divides the two nations, have crossed and recrossed between American Detroit and Canadian Windsor as matter-of-factly as visiting the grocer on the next avenue.

But come July 1, Uncle Sam will demand to see a passport.

All the international traffic adds up to considerable commerce, Detroit business men point out. Something, they decided, has to be done about it.

Protesting that the order would affect 2,000,000 shoppers a year, the board of commerce asked Michigan's Senators Arthur H. Vandenberg and Prentiss M. Brown to take it up with Secretary of State Cordell Hull in the interests of "amicable business relations of years' standing."

Secretary Harvey Campbell said the board understands that "every precaution" is desirable, but is ready to show that this can be assured by other means.

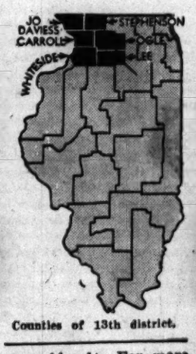
Halt Sale of Army Rifles to Amateur Marksmen

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—The war department has halted the sale of army rifles and ammunition to members of the National Rifle association in order to conserve the supplies, it was learned today. The department's policy had been to make surplus rifles and ammunition available to association members at nominal cost to promote marksmanship.

13th District G. O. P. Delegates

This is the second in a series of sketches of downstate district delegates to the Republican national convention who will share the task of picking the G. O. P. candidate for President. Today's sketches are of delegates from the 13th district.

John O. Graham.



Counties of 13th district.

Harry S. Lowman.

John O. Graham, 31 years old, of Freeport has spent most of his adult life in a political environment.

He was born in Freeport on Dec. 14, 1908, attended the public schools there, and attended Monmouth college and the University of Arizona. He is a court reporter.

His first political post came in 1934, when he was chosen precinct committeeman. Within two years he had become chairman of the Stephenson county Young Republicans, secretary of the county central committee, and a delegate to the Republican and Young Republican state conventions. He was a delegate to the judicial conventions in 1937 and 1939 and to the G. O. P. state conventions again in 1938 and this year. He was elected county chairman two years ago, but was defeated for reëlection this year.

Graham lives with his wife and child at 621 West Homer street, Freeport.

For more than a quarter century Harry S. Lowman, 55 years old, of Lanark has been active in Carroll county politics and in the civic affairs of his home community.

Lowman was born in Lanark Dec. 24, 1884, and attended the public schools there. He has been an employe of the Illinois Bell Telephone company for many years.

He got his political start as alderman of his home city. Later he served 10 years as mayor. He was president of the Lanark school board for six years.

For two years Lowman was secretary of the Carroll county Republican central committee, of which he has been chairman for 10 years.

He has attended the last five Republican state conventions as a regular delegate and also was a delegate to the last three judicial conventions.

Lowman is married and has one daughter.

BRICK ADDS SOUR NOTE TO A NICKEL JUKE BOX'S SONG

Attack Follows Switch to Another Machine.

For a year the nickel phonograph in Harry Greenspan's hamburger place at 209 North Western avenue produced sweet music. But yesterday the crash of a brick against his $100 front window added a discordant note.

By an odd coincidence Greenspan had decided only Thursday to exchange the juke box he had been using, serviced by members of the Electrical Workers' union of the American Federation of Labor, for another one, of identical make but serviced by local 430 of the United Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

Tells Police of Threat.

On Friday, he told police, he was visited by a stranger who asked whether the new machine would be a "union box." Greenspan said he didn't know, and the stranger asked:

"How would you like a picket in front of your place? No milk. No bread. No deliveries."

Greenspan, naturally enough, said he wouldn't like it, and telephoned the man who was to install the new machine. The latter said he had arranged for servicing from the C. I. O. union, and the second juke box was put in Saturday. The company operating the first, meanwhile, had failed to come and get it, as they had been asked to do Thursday.

Box Owner Mystified.

The juke box which Greenspan replaced is owned by the Coöperative Sales company with offices at 5501 North Spaulding avenue. It was serviced by the Newport Music company, 1348 Newport avenue.

Both Jerome Kimmel, a partner in the Coöperative company, and Murray Rosenthal, president of the Newport company, said they could think of no reason why Greenspan should have any trouble. Rosenthal said his maintenance men belong to the Electrical Workers' union.

Rosenthal was told of the threat to picket if Greenspan installed a nonunion machine. His comment, altho it was not clear to whom he referred, was:

"Those guys are suffering from hallucinations of grandeur. They're nuts."

GOOD FUN...But Mighty Bad Business

Puzzles are all right in their place . . . but their place is not in business. So why wander all over the map, trying to find the housewives who buy most of the advertised goods in New York, when there is a straight line that leads right into their homes?

That straight line is traveled by The New York Times every day of the week!

It leads directly into the Profit-Half homes of the New York market—those in the high and medium income neighborhoods—and research by The New York Times, and by the Government, proves that it is these homes that use most of the advertised goods sold here. It is the housewives in these homes, of course, who do the buying.

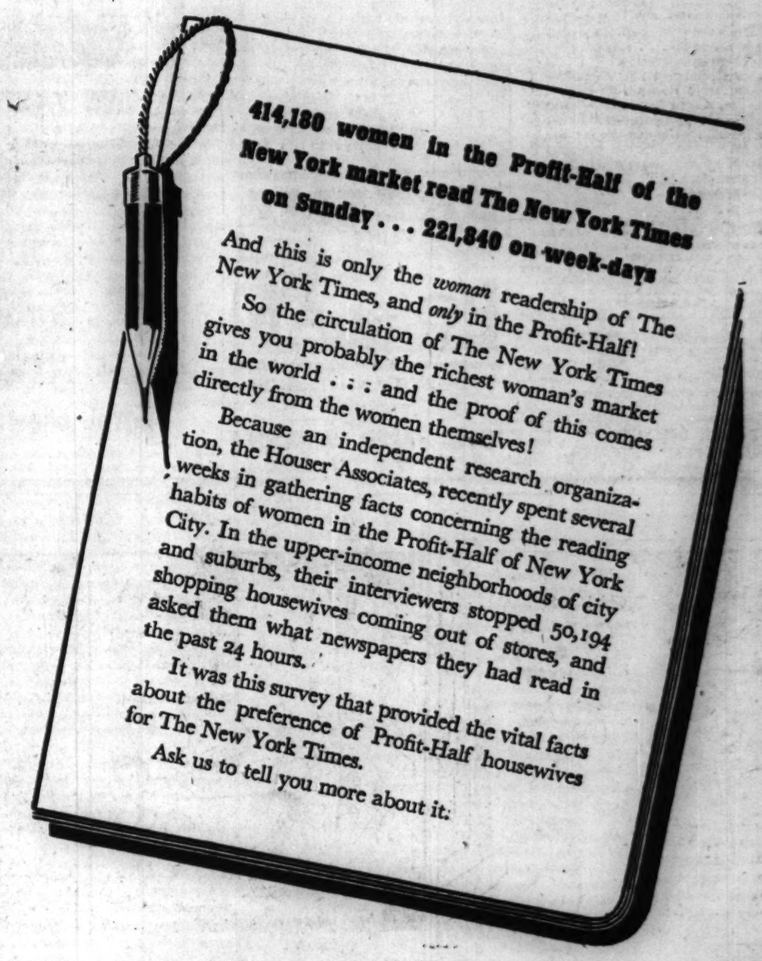
Consequently it is important for advertisers to know that there are 221,840 of these Profit-Half women in New York City who begin each week-day with The New York Times! That's as many housewives as there are in the whole city of Cleveland . . . and daily these women do the buying for as many persons as there are in the combined populations of Delaware and the District of Columbia!

Furthermore, there are 414,180 Profit-Half housewives in New York City who begin each week with The Sunday New York Times!

That's as many housewives as there are in the entire city of Philadelphia . . . and every day of the week these women do the buying for more persons than there are in the State of Maryland!

These women actually spend from 70 to 85 cents of every retail dollar that's spent in the Profit-Half of New York. They buy from 66% to 70% of nearly all classes of advertised merchandise sold in the entire city. They do the buying for an average of over one million persons daily . . . after reading The Times.

The women readers alone of The New York Times comprise one of the richest retail markets in the world!



414,180 women in the Profit-Half of the New York market read The New York Times on Sunday . . . 221,840 on week-days

And this is only the woman readership of The New York Times, and only in the Profit-Half!

So the circulation of The New York Times gives you probably the richest woman's market in the world . . . and the proof of this comes directly from the women themselves!

Because an independent research organization, the Houser Associates, recently spent several weeks in gathering facts concerning the reading habits of women in the Profit-Half of New York City. In the upper-income neighborhoods of city and suburbs, their interviewers stopped 50,194 shopping housewives coming out of stores, and asked them what newspapers they had read in the past 24 hours.

It was this survey that provided the vital facts about the preference of Profit-Half housewives for The New York Times.

Ask us to tell you more about it.

250,000 SUNDAY DRIVERS CAUGHT IN TRAFFIC JAMS

City's Inadequate Auto Gateways Bared.

BY HAL FOUST.

A survey in THE TRIBUNE'S photo truck yesterday found a quarter of a million motorists hampered in their pursuit of Sunday relaxation at the wheel by an inadequacy of Chicago's automobile gateways. Typical scenes:

Place, Jackson park driveway around yacht harbor; time, 4:10 p. m.—

A mile long line of cars, two abreast, bumper to bumper, approaching a T intersection over a small bridge, was jammed. They were stopped, or jogging intermittently in first or second gear, for from 12 to 15 minutes while this intersection was being cleared.

Jammed Three Abreast.

Place, Foster avenue and Sheridan road; time, 5:15 p. m.—

West bound from the outer drive, automobiles were stopped in a pack three abreast awaiting a change of lights in this first signal controled corner after leaving the lake front superhighway. Southbound, a solid blockade extended from Bryn Mawr avenue to Foster, a half mile, en route to the outer drive.

Place, Harlem and North avenues; time, 6:35 p. m.—

Stop and go lights alternately halted a heavy stream of traffic from the north and a heavy stream of traffic from the south. Both movements were too heavy to clear the intersection with a single interval of the lights. Both movements were facing additional similar delays in progressing farther into the city.

Tieup on a Main Route.

In Jackson park the jam was on the main route between the loop and the resort areas of northern Indiana and western Michigan. A winding driveway of horse-and-buggy characteristics tries to serve as a continuation southward of the lake front superhighway that ends at the park.

Engineers have prepared alternate designs for a superhighway thru Jackson park to the Indiana line. One calls for pavements with continuous grade separation on land to be made by filling in the lake. The other would use a landscaped embankment across the park to an elevated highway in Stony Island avenue south from 67th street.

Pavement Space Inadequate.

Foster avenue and Sheridan road is the northern terminal of the lake front superhighway. A continuous and rapid traffic flow, northbound from the loop in four lanes, is halted by the route's first grade crossing after leaving Ohio street, approximately six miles to the south. Most of this throng crowds onto two lanes in Sheridan road to continue north.

South bound in Sheridan road approaching Foster, the two lanes leading to the outer drive aren't enough to accommodate all the autos headed for the outer drive. The jam is a result of simple arithmetic—there are more automobiles than there is pavement for them.

Engineers have made surveys and prepared preliminary plans to extend the outer drive to Bryn Mawr avenue as the first construction stage in an ultimate extension to Evanston. Engineers also have determined that the construction of a northwest superhighway would relieve the north side lake front congestion by furnishing a fast and safe route directly between the loop and the fan of rural highways which radiate from the northwest corner of the city.

West Side Congested.

For the relief of congestion on the west side, civic leaders for more than a decade have advocated construction of a superhighway from the loop, thru the western suburbs, to connect with the several main rural highways approaching the city from this direction.

The west side lacks any main thorofare comparable with the outer drives of the north and south sides. On the west side, the Sunday traffic was scattered over carline streets and narrow boulevards, all crowded and all hazardous. This is the section of the city with the highest accident record and, according to engineering studies, with the most delays in its street travel.

CERMAK SISTER KILLED IN AUTO CRASH; 7 HURT

Husband Also Is Injured in Collision.

Mrs. Antoinette Stepanek, 56 years old, a sister of the late Mayor Anton J. Cermak, was killed and seven others were injured yesterday in an automobile collision at River road and Lawrence avenue in Leyden township.

Mrs. Stepanek and her husband, Joseph, 58, were driving north in River road when, according to police, the other car shot past a stop signal and crashed into their machine. Mrs. Stepanek was dead upon reaching Northwestern hospital, Des Plaines. Stepanek, who operates a milk depot, returned to his home at 1539 South 61st avenue, Cicero, after being treated for minor injuries.

Surviving Mrs. Stepanek are two brothers, Joseph Cermak of Cicero, and James Cermak of Westmont, and a sister, Mrs. Emma Kalal of Gage Lake.

Six Injured in Other Car.

Six persons, all of whom were injured, were in the other car. They are Paul H. Harris, 56, of 5417 Kenmore avenue, and his wife, Rhea, 49; Clinton Anderson, 5326 Magnolia avenue, and his wife, Dorothy, and their two daughters, Dorothy, 7, and Priscilla, 5. The adults were taken to the Westlake hospital in Melrose Park and the children were taken to the Franklin Boulevard hospital.

Adolph Cook, 27, of 1619 Hudson avenue, a wire scraper, was fatally injured when his car overturned as it collided with another at Belmont and Cicero avenues.

Two Others Injured.

Four passengers with Cook were unhurt, but Wesley Solberg, 32, of 3804 North St. Louis avenue, driver of the other car, and his wife, Lillian, 32, were injured. Cook was returning from a wedding celebration.

Albert Anklin Jr., 22 years old, a weaver, was killed and an unidentified girl was seriously injured last night when their motorcycle struck the side of a moving North Western railroad freight train on Route 173, about three miles west of Zion, Lake county. The girl was taken to St. Therese hospital, Waukegan. Anklin lived at 3014 Emmaus avenue, Zion.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 369 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 289 died in Chicago, where 9,581 were injured during the same period.

UNABLE TO FIND LOOT, BURGLARS WRECK 3 OFFICES

Burglars who found nothing of value when they broke into three business places in the Warren avenue district yesterday became enraged and wrecked the offices before fleeing.

At the Egyptian Lacquer Manufacturing company, 3052 Carroll avenue, they disarranged desks, sprayed the contents of the fire extinguishers around the office, and dumped lacquer over the furniture.

At the Globe Duplicating Supply company, 2849-51 Lake street, the thieves turned on all the faucets they could find and left the fire hoses running full force.

They also entered the McGuire Wrecking company offices at 225 North Francisco avenue, tore a phone box from the wall and spilled paint over everything.

BLOOD DONORS SOUGHT TO SAVE YOUNG MOTHER

An appeal was made last night for blood donors in the hope of saving the life of a young mother, Mrs. Anne Harnstrom, 24 years old, who is suffering from a disease of the blood known as staphylococcus septicemia. She is in the Lutheran Deaconess hospital.

According to her physician, Dr. H. C. Coblens, 703 North Kedzie avenue, who made the appeal, only the blood of those who have recovered from the same disease is suitable for use. Recovery generally is rare. Mrs. Harnstrom, the wife of Le Roy Harnstrom, a machinist, lives at 652 North Albany avenue. She became ill two weeks ago shortly after she gave birth to a girl baby thru a Cæsarian operation.

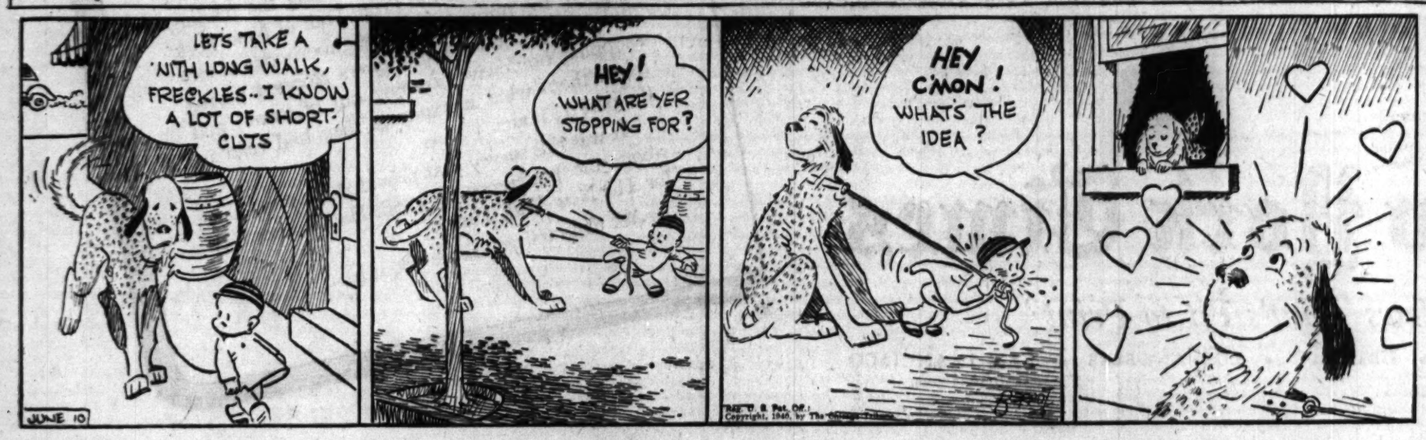
SMITTY—LOVE COMES TO FRECKLES



Shop Is Opened Catering Only to Small Fry

BY REA SEEGER.

Masculine vanity should be pampered properly and begun early! When protesting bellows of the small male shake the household it's usually over the clothes problem. The horror of being considered a sissy, of looking different from the rest of the gang is a daily worry, easily crushing youthful spirits. Small fry can now hustle to town and pick out their own particular clothes in a shop within a shop dedicated to the adornment of young America.

There isn't a sissy idea in the place . . . all the clothes have been selected by a grownup man and the finds are causing no little excitement with the youngsters as well as the more than slightly bewildered feminine contingency that goes along to pay the bills. Sizes range from 4 to 17, the wardrobe items displayed are enough to shake the smugness out of any big sister.

For instance, the matter of sports coats. From the engaging small affairs cut for a 4 years old to the splendid plaids and checks for the young man about town of 17, they're the very last word in eye appeal.

Such coats are ready for the fun of contrasting, mixing and matching, for that sport is no longer reserved for the ladies alone. Slacks and shorts in beige, blue, brown, and gray, come in plain solid colors, with a tailored precision to seams, pockets, and streamline that would cause a Bond street tailor to take a bow.

Palm beach suits also keep the exacting small shoppers happy. These come in snowy white, in beige and gray, have that sleek tailored smartness found in the grownup sizes and are cool all summer long.

These models are extremely low in price and even the boys who formerly fled from the trials of dress up occasions will succumb to the white ones without a murmur. Swim shorts, the swankiest of tailored shirts, boy [illegible], and eye catching colored ties, socks, and the rest of the necessary extras to outfit a lad for a summer at home or on vacation are all within the walls of this newly opened shop.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific

Hollywood, Cal., June 9.—Mrs. Basil Rathbone expects to raise $50,000 in a single week for the allied war charities, when Hollywood movie stars act out Noel Coward's "Cavalcade" on the Los Angeles Auditorium stage the last week of July. Louis Hayward, unable to perform in the all-star cast, sent his check for $1,250 to pay the week's theater rent. Frank Lloyd, who directed the Coward classic for pictures, will be an assistant stage director.

Bette Davis may play one of the leads, and the greatest names in the movie colony will appear as extras in the crowd scenes.

"The Mortal Storm," "All This and Heaven Too," and "New Moon," all down for previewing this week. . . . Andrea Leeds will be a mother in December.

Joe Mankiewiczes [Rose Stradner] expect Sir Stork. . . . Dorothy Lamour and Greg Bautzer [he was Lana Turner's honey] are talking elopement.

To help Universal Prexy Nate Blumberg carry out his promise not to release a single employé of the 4,800 in his employ, Deanna Durbin was asked if she'd work an extra hour a day. On a 60 day shooting schedule and the saving effected would go into thousands of dollars. "I certainly will," said the kid star, "and two hours extra a day if it will help."

Sonja Henie leaves this week for Chicago, on a two week trip. Dan Topping probably will bob up in Chicago with her, despite all rumors . . . Margaret Lindsay and Bill Lundigan are preacher minded . . . Ruth Terry being squired by Pat Di Cicco . . . Patricia Morrison and Fred Brisson acting romantic. . . . Simone Simon dating with Bob Oliver. . . . Nancy Kelly and Ken Murray in two-four time. . . . Ellen Drew with Arnold Kunody.

Laurence Olivier's marriage to Vivien Leigh may be postponed by war. . . . M.-G.-M.'s Sam Katz reacted to the Ilona Massey-Alan Curtis romance by eloping with Belle Potash. . . . Adolphe Menjou will take over the part in "Road Show," which was left vacant by the death of Louis Wolheim.

Add to the list of bobbed noses itemed here recently: Ginny Simms, who vocalizes soothingly for Hubby Kay Kyser, and Mary Hanrahan, the Celtic right hand gal of Edgar Bergen . . . Van Heflin and Elaine Shephard still carrying on . . . Peggy Moran and Joe Pasternak have kissed and made up.

Walter Hampden probably has won himself a term contract at Warner's as a result of his make believing in the Bette Davis-C. Boyer flicker . . . Barry Trivers making passes at Elizabeth Earle . . . Jo Ann Sayres with Bob Lundigan.

Of 48 features which Warner's will release next season, only 11 will be original stories. The rest are novels and plays.

Georgie Jessel up and around again and feeling chipper . . . Fred Allen should have arrived here by the time you read this . . . Paramount is shelving directors and producers as soon as their options come up . . . Cubby Broccoli a stage widower because his Gloria Blondell is play acting at San Francisco.

Front Views and Profiles

Actions and Reactions.

A Winnetka woman is taking nine children from countries at war into her home, if they can get passage to America, five English children and four French. This generous offer is symbolic of the new spirit that animates Chicago—and undoubtedly the entire country. Women in Chicago and the suburbs who normally at this time of year are concentrating on their families, their gardens, new slip covers, their wardrobes, and their social activities are giving days to Red Cross service, either making bandages or raising money. They are denying themselves luxuries in order to send checks for allied relief work, and they knit furiously in their leisure moments.

There are few parties, for there is little heart for social festivities with the war pall over the world. The woman proprietor of a dress shop has had poor business lately. She doesn't try very hard to sell clothes to her customers, but she does push the sale of the attractive tricolored metal clip the American Friends of France are sponsoring, from which she gets no profit at all. Thus, while Nazi might attempts to blot out democracy from the world, the feeling of brotherhood that is the true spirit of democracy is strengthened and revivified.

Robert Lederer recently heard of a termite with a case of jitters—he Dreamt He Dwelt in Marble Halls.

Grim Gag.

Then there is the story of the large automobile manufacturing company that received an order from Hitler for 5,000 airplanes. When the company cabled him for shipping orders he answered, "We will pick them up."

Who Yehudi Is.

Maggi McNellis is first with the real answer to who's Yehudi. She says he is the little fellow inside your electric refrigerator who turns out the light after you close the door.

Hot Day Incident.

The telephone of the Tribune's etiquet department rang and, as the etiquet editor was away from her desk, the fancy work department editor answered. A young woman on the wire wanted to know the correct attire for a man for a 4 o'clock wedding.

"Cutaway trousers and a striped coat," answered the pinch hitter.

Fog and Lights Add Beauty to Park Concert

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Walter H. Steindel orchestra played in Grant park last night in the midst of a fog which blotted out the Michigan avenue skyline and surrounded the audience area in front of the band shell with shifting gray walls.

So, besides the music to listen to the crowd had an uncannily beautiful spectacle to watch. The gray walls turned blue as night came on, and the street lights along the Outer drive began to look like the row of ghostly moons that a demented architect might devise for the decoration of so strange a structure. That was an effective moment at 9 o'clock when the bells at Michigan and Jackson boomed thru the fog in the best London manner.

But this is the music column, alas! Mr. Steindel presented such music as the second suite from Bizet's "L'Arlesienne," two intermezzos, and the Camorrists' dance from Wolf-Ferrari's "The Jewels of the Madonna," and Wood's southern rhapsody, "Virginia." This would have made a nice program for a carefree, popcorn eating summer evening, but was hardly appropriate to the sinister environment in which it was actually played.

But Mr. Steindel can take any piece, be it ever so trifling, and make something of it. He seems to work his miracle by using a great deal of nuance—but nuance of so subtle a kind and so completely appropriate to the music that there is never an impression that "effects" are being dragged in for their own sake. The music simplicity and flow remain, but it becomes live and rich instead of dead and gray.

The conductor's feeling for exquisite color contrasts is especially keen. He will quite bring you out of your chair by the variety and beauty of timbre which he will use even within the confines of a single phrase, but after you have sunk back again you admit that it was the sheer expressiveness of the phrase which did the trick, and that the thought of color contrast [as the device which accounted for the expressiveness] came a split second later.

He has a wonderful way with meter, too, giving a cadence a phenomenal expressiveness by means of a slight lingering which can hardly be called lingering at all, but which seems more like the natural flexibility which is one of the distinguishing characteristics of all meaningful discourse—be it musical or verbal.

The concert at 8 o'clock this evening will be given by the Chicago Woman's Concert band, conducted by Lillian Poenisch, and the Austin High School Girls' band, conducted by Louis Condy.

The Fate of the Darmenys

By Elizabeth York Miller

[Copyright: 1940: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

SYNOPSIS.

Knowing she has but a few months to live, Madge Darmeny gathers her family about her to select an heir, unbeknown to them. She tells them she has to retrench financially, and suggests they move into her house, which is too large for her and Amelia Pennyfeather, a distant and dependent relative, who has lived with Madge for some time. Madge has no children of her own, and her nearest kin is her niece, Leda, who is married to her husband's nephew, Frank, who has an 8 year old daughter, Betsy, by his first wife. Madge has Shirley Westall, her secretary, act as governess for Betsy. Geoffry, another nephew of her husband, is really her favorite. Geoffry wins his aunt thru his charming manners and his continuous playing up to her and she overlooks his escapades, but she becomes suspicious of him when Alfred Barnes, her solicitor, tells her Geoffry has written a bad check for an expensive bracelet, and Leda shows up wearing a diamond bracelet, claiming a girl friend gave it to her. Frank is an old friend of Shirley's father, and one day while visiting Mr. Westall, he sees Shirley and realizes she reminds him of his first wife and that he loves her. On the way home Betsy tells her father that her stepmother and Geoffry are in love and that it was Geoffry who gave Leda the diamond bracelet. Frank trails Leda to a friend's house where he finds her and Geoffry in the midst of a drunken party. Frank orders Leda to come with him. She refuses, and Geoffry starts a fight. Frank takes Leda home and puts her to bed. Madge wants to know what happened. When Geoffry comes in she lectures him and tells him she wishes he would marry Shirley and settle down.

INSTALMENT XIII.

BROKEN DATE.

Leda Darmeny never suffered from hangovers. She was far too resilient.

She woke a little later than usual, but almost fresh, and by the time she had had her bath and her orange juice and coffee she was quite ready to meet the day on whatever terms it offered.

She put on a light tweed tailored costume, for this morning she was going to the Point-to-Point races over at Ashmartin.

True, she had had some misgivings when she awakened to find herself in bed in her camiknickers with one stocking on and her clothes thrown about the room, and only the haziest recollection as to how she got home from Marta Shotts' party. But she remembered Frank's unwelcome arrival there, and the row.

And of course there would be the father and mother of a row with Aunt Madge over yesterday. Leda made a grimace, wondering how Geoffry had fared. She suspected that he might be wearing some sort of facial decoration.

She was at the dressing table fussing with the lotion bottles when a sharp rap gave her warning of Frank's intrusion. She saw his face in the mirror, and it told her that he was in no melting mood. Little did she care what mood he was in. Thank heaven for one thing, tho—lately he had made none of those overtures of affection she had been dreading. At least he wasn't too dense to take a hint.

"Leda, I'd like a few words with you."

"Say on," she replied. "But make it snappy. I've got a date with Geoff to go over to the Point-to-Points this morning."

"O, no, you haven't."

There was a glad note of anger in Frank's voice.

"What do you mean, exactly?" Leda half turned and faced him, a tiny vial of her expensive French perfume held delicately to her nostrils.

"Well, for one thing—Geoffry's already left for the Point-to-Points. He's taken Shirley Westall. I believe they've got their lunch with them."

Leda tipped the vial against her finger and applied it to the back of her ear. She had a pretty average poker face when there was a necessity for showing one.

"Then you can take me," she said, clearing her throat huskily. "That is—if you haven't a previous engagement."

"I have. I promised to take Betsy fishing."

"Really! How's Aunt Madge going to get along without us all?"

"Aunt Madge has gone up to London. She went by an early train before I was down. . . . Leda, we're going to leave Beechbourne."

"Who is?"

"You and I and Betsy."

"Good heavens, are you crazy?"

"Not quite—but almost."

"Where are we going—or where is it you are proposing we are to go?"

"I'm not particular. The seaside, perhaps. Betsy would like that."

"Thank you, you may count me out. I think I told you last night how I feel about you—or if I didn't, I meant to. Take your precious child and go where you please, but don't expect me to drag around after you just because you and Geoffry have had a fight. It isn't the first time you've come to blows, is it?"

"That's neither here nor there. As long as you're my wife——"

"And I wish I wasn't as much as you do. I decline to move one inch from Beechbourne, and you can darned well do what you like about it."

Frank blew out a long breath.

"Then you don't mind running your neck into trouble, I take it?" he said.

"My neck loves trouble," Leda said airily.

She reached out for her hat and settled it carefully on her sleek dark head.

"Your neck will get wrung one of these days," Frank said between gritted teeth.

She put up a hand and caressed her throat gently. It was firm and beautifully molded. Her lips parted in a soft smile.

"Frank, do we need to get so furiously with each other even in private? Please, darling, take me to the races. Betsy can come, too. She's crazy about horses. She'd like it much more than going fishing alone with you."

He knew that seductive note so well, and until recently it had had power over him. It could fairly rush him off his feet.

No one was more surprised than Leda when it failed to do so now.

"No——" he said. "No—we're going fishing."

He turned quickly and left the room, not because he feared Leda's power to wheedle and weaken him, but because he was desperately unhappy.

Insanely he was being dragged toward the Point-to-Points in his own desires, just because Shirley Westall would be there. Shirley and Geoffry. The memory of that scene in the library last night seared him as with fire.

All he had seen of Shirley that morning was the back of her head in Geoffry's car.

"They're off to the races," Amelia Pennyfeather had told them. "Madge ordered a lunch packed for them."

Amelia was a bundle of misery this morning. Again she had been foiled in her attempt to find out what it was that took Madge Darmeny up to London so mysteriously. Madge had been much too early for her.

And by now Amelia's secret hatred of Shirley Westall had mounted to such a pitch that it was almost unbearable. Madge was making a fool of the girl, in Amelia's opinion, and before long Shirley—who was only a paid employé after all—would be giving herself insufferable airs.

Indeed Amelia had already noted with the strongest disapproval Shirley's enhanced beauty and gayety of late.

Miss Pennyfeather was resentfully doing the flowers when Leda, who had left time for the air to clear, came down with a light coat over her arm and a pair of field glasses in one hand swinging negligently with her racing handbag.

She looked as composed as the serene summer day, but her heart was savage.

It didn't seem possible that Geoffry could have forgotten their appointment. Marta and some of her crowd were coming, too. The Ashmartin Point-to-Points was one of those free-for-all events that promise good fun and sport, altho most of the attendance, like the entries, was local. Geoffry usually competed, but not this year, for Madge Darmeny had begun her retrenching by selling the hunters. They needed a lot of exercise, and of late there was seldom anybody but the groom and stable boy to put them over the sticks.

Leda sounded Amelia. Frank and Betsy were out of the way. Yes, they had gone off on their fishing excursion, and taken their lunch, too.

"I don't think Geoffry expected you'd feel like getting up this morning," said Amelia with an acid sort of sniff. "The way you went on yesterday, and Frank having to fetch you back and carry you upstairs and all, I never thought to see such goings-on at Beechbourne Park."

"O, you've got a peeve, too, have you!"

"I'm sure it's no concern of mine," whined Miss Pennyfeather. "But don't you imagine you've got it all your own way with Geoffry. And you're a married woman, Leda, altho you don't seem to remember it very well. That Westall hussy is hard after him, and you never know about men. I think Madge is favoring it, if you ask me."

"You're just a fool, Amelia," Leda said hotly.

"I've been called that before. Wait and see who's the fool."

Leda wandered out onto the terrace with an effect of unconcern. Her problem was how to get over to Ashmartin in such a manner as not to lose face.

Aunt Madge's only car was an old fashioned family affair, with a fat, gray haired ex-coachman for chauffeur. No doubt he had to meet a train for Aunt Madge and couldn't be spared for all day. Leda wouldn't have cared to drive in solitary state to the race meeting, anyway. Geoffry would know at once that she had come merely to keep tabs on him.

Universal day—Don't talk too much. Avoid gossip.

Year ahead—Those born today should try to concentrate their efforts on improving their own talents all this year.

Names—The letters H, Q or Z are not found in the majority of names. It is just as well that they are not, because 8 is a difficult number to handle in a name. Those who have it [as represented by any one of the letters given] have to watch their money. If it is a key letter, as in Harold, then one may either make a great deal of money or have financial difficulties, depending upon what other numbers are found and how this very strong emphasis on wealth is handled. The absence of these letters in a name gives the possessor a free hand in regard to money matters. Many 8s are the sign post of a career leading to fame and fortune.

If You Look Ugly in Slacks Don't Don 'Em

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"How to turn a date into a diamond" was the intriguing title given to a recent fashion showing for the benefit of Washington, D. C., women. The clothes were frankly recommended as "get-your-man" numbers, and there wasn't a single pair of slacks or shorts, or a bathing suit in the picture. Which is the point of mentioning the fashion showing in this column.

Women will wear slacks and they'll wear shorts, and they'll keep on turning their dates into diamonds in the usual hearty manner. And we know of no other costume for water wear than the bathing suit, so it will have to be donned, and will be willingly donned, by our water nymphs, to say nothing of our beach loungers.

However, we see a definite trend in active sports things, exclusive of bathing suits, toward a feminized appeal, even for the tennis player, skirts with more fullness in them, studied carefully for effect on the lookers-on at games.

We have talked already about that horror of summertime streets, the woman who shouldn't wear tight fitting slacks and does. We were told, in support of our apparent Puritanism regarding these ugly street sights, that the women who shouldn't wear them have nearly ruined the feminine slacks business. Certainly no woman in a pair of ill fitting slacks ever turned a date into a diamond, unless the man were blind in one eye and the other eye wasn't working too brightly.

We are all for the girl who, in her sports togs, can still look feminine and glamorously so. Unlike the fashion promoters referred to above, we wouldn't rule out active sportswear things, but we would, as women who'd like to be thought glamorous, try our darndest to inject a bit of glamor into the outdoor raiment. It can be done. It certainly is done in the charming, gay, and festive gardening outfits with which the market is flooded this year. As said, it can be done with the tennis and the golf costume and, it being a pretty worried world at the present time, with women expected to keep up the morale, we just plead for glamor emphasis in every appearance.

A rather hearty salad, hot rolls or biscuits with butter and jam, milk or tea, and a fruity dessert compose many a summertime luncheon for family or company. Such a meal is easy to get, requires few cooking and eating utensils, and may be presented in an attractive manner at the table.

These main dish salads are nice enough for guests, hearty enough to satisfy an ordinary appetite, and pretty enough to make a picture.

Ham Salad in Tomato Cups.

[Six Servings.]

6 firm ripe tomatoes, peeled and hollowed
2 cups chopped baked ham
1 cup chopped celery
1 dozen stuffed olives, chopped
⅓ cup French dressing
Mayonnaise
Lettuce or other greens

Turn hollowed tomatoes upside down to drain, and chill them. Combine ham, celery, and olives. Marinate and chill in the French dressing for an hour or so. Drain off excess French dressing and blend ham mixture with enough mayonnaise to moisten. Fill tomato cups and serve on lettuce with a garnish of a little more mayonnaise. Cheese sticks or cheese biscuits are an excellent accompaniment for this dish.

Salami and Macaroni Salad.

[Serves Six.

2 cups chilled cooked macaroni
½ cup diced celery
2 cups diced salami
1 tomato, cut in small pieces
½ cup chopped sweet pickles
Thousand Island dressing
Chopped spinach, dandelion greens, or lettuce
Radishes and green onions.

Combine macaroni, cut in short pieces, celery, salami, pickles, and tomato, and add enough dressing to moisten. Serve on chopped greens and garnish with radishes and green onions.

Cold, leftover, roast beef, veal, or other meat may be used in place of the salami. In this case, add a tablespoon of minced onion to the recipe, or slice a few onion tops into the combination.

Egg and Tomato Salad.

[Serves Four.]

4 hard cooked eggs
2 teaspoons finely chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chili sauce
1 tablespoon deviled ham
Salt, pepper, paprika
4 small tomatoes, quartered
Cream or cottage cheese
Chives
Leaf lettuce

Cut eggs in halves lengthwise and remove yolks. Mash yolks and add green pepper, chili sauce, deviled ham, and a sprinkling of seasonings. Refill whites and chill. Mix chives with cream or cottage cheese. For each salad arrange two stuffed eggs on leaf luttuce and garnish with four peeled quarter tomatoes, spread thickly on one side with the cheese-chives mixture.

Picnic Salad.

[Serves Six.]

1½ cups diced cooked meat
1 cup diced, freshly cooked potatoes
½ cup chopped celery
¾ cup chopped pickle
2 cups mixed cooked vegetables (peas, carrots, etc.)
2 tablespoons chopped green onions, tops included
Salt, paprika, celery salt
Chili sauce-sour cream dressing
Lettuce

Leftover roast meat, chicken, frankfurters, or cold cuts may be used for the meat. Canned mixed vegetables may be used for the vegetable ingredient, if desired. Combine ingredients with enough dressing to moisten thoroly and season to taste with the condiments. Chill and serve on lettuce.

To make the dressing, combine mayonnaise, sour cream, and chili sauce in equal parts.

On the House

Of course, we have all of us always believed that shade trees around a house kept it cooler in hot weather. . . . Now this age old belief is confirmed by heating and ventilating engineers who rate shade trees as having definite value as an aid to summer coolness inside a house. . . . Gracious, spreading trees now have their worth measured in terms of the difference between roofs and walls on which the sun beats without protection, and those which are protected by masses of leaves and branches. "Checker Board" Rug

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A crocheted "checker board" rug is fun to create, since it is made in small patches and sewed together when completed. This type of rug may be crocheted from boilproof carpet warp in any number of clever color combinations. Black and white is effective for one choice, and blue and red is an ideal selection for rugs to be used in front of a door. Greens, yellows, blues, and reds may be combined with ecru or white and the range of colors allows for any combination.

For instructions in crocheting the "checker board" rug, No. X-431, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Right Will Win in War, U. of I. Grads Assured

Urbana, Ill., June 9 [Special]. — Terming the present European war a joined battle to decide whether civilization shall live or die, the Rt. Rev. Robert Nelson Spencer, Kansas City, Mo., bishop of the Episcopal diocese of west Missouri, told University of Illinois seniors this afternoon: "Right will win, and truth will live on, and humanity will triumph over brutehood." He spoke at the annual baccalaureate services held in George Huff gymnasium.

The sixty-ninth annual commencement exercises will be held tomorrow morning, starting at 9 o'clock. Dr. Herman G. James, president of Ohio university, Athens, will deliver the commencement address. He is a son of the late Edmund Janes James, former president of the University of Illinois, and a graduate of Illinois in the class of 1906. Dr. Arthur Cutts Willard, president of Illinois, will confer the degrees.

A total of 2,404 degrees will be conferred tomorrow. This number constitutes the largest graduating class in the history of the institution. The graduate school will furnish 394 graduates; liberal arts and sciences, 540; commerce, 303; agriculture, 281; engineering, 277; education, 241; fine and applied arts, 107; library, 88; journalism, 70; physical education, 53, and law 50.

At commencement exercises for the Chicago departments of the university—the colleges of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy—held Friday, 375 degrees were conferred, making a grand total of 2,779 June graduates.

Lays Woes to Ignoring God.

DE PAUL TO GRADUATE 429

Four hundred twenty-nine candidates for degrees at De Paul university attended the 42d annual baccalaureate mass and sermon of the university yesterday morning in St. Vincent's church, Sheffield and Webster avenues. Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch, chancellor of De Paul, presided.

The Rev. Thomas V. Navin was celebrant of the mass in honor of his silver anniversary in the order of the Congregation of the Mission. The Rev. James M. Thompson and the Rev. Howard J. Ahern, both of the same order, assisted as deacon and subdeacon, respectively. The Rev. James A. Magner, founder and director of the Charles Carroll Forum, delivered the baccalaureate sermon.

Convocation exercises will be held for the candidates at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Auditorium theater. The Rev. M. J. O'Connell, president of De Paul, will deliver the address and confer the degrees.

The 70th annual commencement exercises of Loyola university will be held Wednesday evening in the university stadium, 6525 Sheridan road. The Rev. Samuel Knox Wilson, S. J., president of the institution, will confer 761 degrees. The only honorary degree to be given will go to Archbishop Stritch. He also will deliver the commencement address.

A banquet in honor of the 57th graduating class of the Chicago College of Dental Surgery, the Loyola university dental school, will be held tomorrow evening in the Lake Shore Athletic club. Dean William H. G. Logan will present the C. N. Johnson and Omicron Kappa Upsilon awards to the two seniors with highest honors.

Two Grand Pajama Styles

WOMAN'S AND MISS' PAJAMAS.

If you're wise your vacation luggage will carry a large supply of pajamas, so that you won't have the laundry problem to cut in on your precious time. This pattern makes two styles of handsome pajamas, and the cost to you will be negligible. One version is dressy, with sleeve caps, lace trimming, beading and ribbon, and makes up beautifully in flowered cotton sheers. You'll love the pockets!

The other style is strictly tailored. It has short puffed sleeves, a Peter Pan collar, and plain shoulder yoke under which is voluminous shirring for the loose-hanging jacket. The tailored trousers, trimmed with buttons like those on the jacket, are utterly plain. Any cotton is "tops" for this costume.

Style No. 3303 is designed for sizes 12, 14, and 16, and 36, 38, and 40 inch bust measurements. Size 16 requires 4⅛ yards of 39 inch material for pajama with sleeve caps, with 3 yards of beading and 3½ yards of lace edging; 4⅝ yards for pajama with short sleeves.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the summer Chicago Tribune book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to the New York address above.

Farm Woman, Lonely and Ill, Requests Some Books to While Time

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

The following letter comes from a tiny town in Tennessee:

"Dear Miss Brown: While I know your help applies to people in your home city, I wondered if you ever helped people at a distance.

"My health is bad and I am confined to the house much of the time. I live on a farm several miles from town, and the days are long and lonely to me. No one is here most of the day and sewing and making quilts has become tiresome company. I would like to have books to read. I don't ask for new ones, just something to help me pass the time, because I haven't the money to buy any.

"If you can't do anything, forget it and I thank you just the same. Mrs. S. S."

This woman has a cardiac condition and a severe type of rheumatism. We will be glad to supply her address to any reader interested in mailing reading matter.

The Housewife

There are several variations to the Venetian blind spring song these days. One of the prettiest ones is a flowered affair, a shade the slats of which are made of an attractive printed material that is waterproof. We saw it being demonstrated under a continual heavy stream of water, like an imitation cloudburst! It was not in the least affected. It comes in two color combinations in a flower print—red and white with red tapes and blue and white—and in 12 plain colors. This new type of Venetian blind is reasonably priced, too.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1940: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: When the bidding goes North one spade, South three spades, I know that South's three spade bid is forcing to game and shows a certain number of honor tricks, but if South had previously passed, wouldn't four spades be showing a bigger hand than three spades, since North is not forced to go on in the face of a partner who had previously passed? In short, when you have previously passed, doesn't the bigger your raise mean the stronger your hand?

"South had passed and his partner bid one spade. South, holding five spades headed by the king and two and a half honors in all and a 5-3-3-2 distribution, jumped partner to four spades.

"North took it as a limit and shutout bid. South argued otherwise. Who was correct?

"The complete deal was:
South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

"This situation arises often when players who have previously passed raise partner from 'one to three' and insist it is a stronger bid than from one to four. I. F., Alabama."

It is strange that this particular situation [the precise meaning of, and differences between, double and triple raises] gives so much trouble to so many thousands of players. Actually, the meanings of each bid under varying circumstances are based much more on logic than on arbitrary conventions. A double raise under normal circumstances [such as North one spade, South three spades] is a strong bid, forcing to game, whereas a triple raise [such as North one spade, South four spades] is a preemptive raise, its main purpose being to shut out the opponents. But when the raiser has passed originally it is inevitable, for the sake of logic, that these meanings should be drastically changed. In the above case South passed originally and North opened with one spade. [It is quite true that South should not have passed originally, that he should have bid one spade, but this is beside the point.] When North's spade bid reaches South the latter must make certain that his partnership arrives at game, no matter how light North's bid may have been. The only way South can effect this end is to jump to game himself, because after his pass, with which he denied the holding of any substantial number of honor tricks, there is no completely forcing bid available to him. Suppose he had bid three spades under the misapprehension that he was forcing. If North had a weak hand, one that he had been on the fence about opening at all, he would be thoroly justified in passing, saying to himself, "Well, there simply can't be a game in this hand since South couldn't open the bidding." In other words, it is South who is in a position to realize that even with the weakest sort of spade bid on North's part there must be an excellent play for game. In that knowledge South actually should bid the game.

From the above reasoning it follows that a player who passes originally and then jumps from one spade to four spades is showing a better hand than if he had raised to only three spades. In the stated case, North should not have considered South's raise as a "limit or shutout bid."

Barbara Barry to Be Bride of Roger Barrett

Evanston yesterday Mr. and Mrs. George Olmsted announced the engagement of their daughter, Frances, to John B. Lanigan, son of Mrs. John B. Lanigan, also of Evanston. Miss Olmsted is a graduate of the Roycemore school and of Vassar college. Her fiancé attended the University of Wisconsin. The wedding will take place next fall.

Louise Bowen to Be Bride of John Rodman Wanamaker.

Another interesting announcement was made last Thursday in New York where Mrs. Elizabeth Winthrop Smith entertained at tea to reveal the engagement of her daughter, Miss Louise de Koven Bowen, and John Rodman Wanamaker of Philadelphia and New York. Miss Bowen is a daughter of the late John de Koven Bowen, and a granddaughter of Mrs. Joseph Tilton Bowen of Chicago. Her mother is the former Mrs. Jack Q. H. Smith.

Mr. Wanamaker, a great-grandson of John Wanamaker, founder of the department store, is the son of Mrs. Pauline Disston Wanamaker and of the late John Wanamaker. He and Miss Bowen will be married on June 24 at St. James' church, in New York, with a reception following at the Colony club.

Ann Elizabeth Hall Weds Lewis C. Davis Today.

When Miss Ann Elizabeth Hall becomes the bride of Lewis C. Davis this afternoon, she will be wearing a veil of Chantilly lace and a diamond necklace, both 180 years old, which belong to her grandmother, Mrs. John Burton Foley. The ceremony will take place at 4:30 o'clock at St. James' church, the Rev. Duncan H. Browne officiating, with a small reception following at the home of the bride's father, Gilbert P. Hall, and Mrs. Hall.

Charles Davis will be his brother's best man. They are sons of Mrs. William Jewett Davis of Jackson, O. The ushers will be Ernest Eversz, Burton Foley, Edward Chapman, and Robert Manly.

The maid of honor will be Miss Jane Zimmerman. The bridesmaids are Miss Barbara Behrens, Miss Mary Louise Corley, Miss Denyse Root, and Miss Nancy Stirton.

On their return from a wedding trip Mr. Davis and his bride will spend two months at the Rookwood apartments in Evanston and afterward will live in town.

Dr. and Mrs. Theodore Stanley Proxmire have issued invitations to the wedding reception of their daughter, Adele, and John Ezra Baker Jr. on Saturday, June 29, at 9 o'clock in the evening at the Onwentsia club. The wedding will take place a half hour earlier at the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest.

Mary Boyden's Illness Delays Her Marriage.

The marriage of Miss Mary Ayer Boyden and Everett Lee Jones of Bethlehem, Pa., that was to have taken place next Saturday at the home of Miss Boyden's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, in Lake Forest, has been postponed for several weeks because of the bride's illness. Miss Boyden is in Chicago Memorial hospital and will remain at least two weeks.

Mrs. Alexander H. Revell has returned to Lake Forest from New York, where she went for the commencement exercises at Dobbs Ferry, where Joan Revell was a member of the graduating class. Joan has remained in the east to take college board examinations, altho she is not going to college next fall. Instead she will enter the Juilliard School of Music in New York in order to continue her piano studies.

Miss Revell will make her debut at a small tea at the home of her parents on Sept. 4. She will go to New York about Oct. 1 and when she returns to Lake Forest for the Christmas vacation her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph O. Watkins, will entertain for her, probably with a dance. Alexander H. Revell III. has returned from his first year at the Hill school.

Chicago Junior League Annual Meeting Today.

The annual meeting of the Friends of China will be held at a luncheon at 12:30 o'clock today at the Palmer House, with Arch T. Steele as speaker. An election of officers will be held.

Give Child a Chance to Let Off "Steam"

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

By hook or crook, if necessary, by trips to beach or country, by taking a cottage somewhere or sending your children to visit relatives or to camp, see that your children of the age that precedes adolescence get a chance this summer to have hours of strenuous outdoor activity.

Boys usually have, if they are normal and in good health, an abounding vitality. But especially in the city, and sometimes in the country, too, the routine of their lives does not give them a fraction of the outlet for that vitality that they need. And when they live in apartments without yards or gardens, or in some restricted way, it really becomes necessary for a mother to set herself, quite deliberately, to the task of providing some way for her boy, or boys, to "let off steam." What that is, her own case will have to determine, depending upon what is available in the way of yard, park, gym, companions, and time.

It is right that children should lead peaceful, well ordered lives, with plenty of sleep and good food, but vigorous physical activity is good for the disposition. If you don't believe it, try it on your own children. The need of a boy to work off his excess energy, to have an outlet for his abundant vitality, lies back of all the new psychology. Or to put it another way, back of any truly wise management of children.

To let off steam, to get things out of your system, whether you're a child or a grownup, is a real need, and not just a physical need, either. It's a psychological one.

The thing to do is to let the impulses, the energy, flow freely, but in channels which give satisfaction to the children. This really is the secret of managing them.

Just how to do it in detail you will have to discover by yourself, but it is not hard. For instance, because you cannot let your small child climb on the piano, or the wobbly antique chair, doesn't mean you can't let him climb on anything. Because you can't let him touch your fragile possessions doesn't mean that he can't touch any of them. You may expect your big girl or boy to be quiet at the table and at school, but that doesn't mean that they can't yell and shout and cut loose in a ball game, or hide and seek outdoors, or overflow at times with animal spirits indoors.

LITTLE DEFEATS SARAZEN FOR OPEN CROWN

LANE TECH CREWS KEEP TRIBUNE REGATTA TITLES

SENIORS WHIP AMUNDSEN BY HALF A LENGTH

Juniors Win Final from Waller.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Schoolboy rowing in Chicago is a lane that knows no turning—the lane being formed by the boys from Lane Tech. As the fog swooped down over the Lincoln park lagoon yesterday the Techmen drove their sleek shells to victory in the senior and junior divisions of the second annual Chicago Interscholastic regatta, just as they did in 1939.

They did it to the accompaniment of the cheers from thousands who lined the east and west banks of the lagoon from Diversey beach on past the bathhouse to Webster avenue. Their triumphs, each gained after bitter opposition, climaxed a program of 22 events that were presented in rapid fire style.

Amundsen a Real Foe.

The seniors from Lane, with only two veterans of the crew that won last year, met unexpected opposition from a sturdy band of Vikings from Amundsen High school. The Amundsen boys, from previous performances, weren't expected to be in there at the finish, but they gained the finals in an upset triumph over Lake View's oarsmen.

As their outlines appeared out of the soupy atmosphere, Announcer Dave Zimmerman almost swooned when his binoculars showed the lads from Amundsen were in the lead. They were still ahead at the halfway mark in the half mile sprint.

Then the Techmen started upping their stroke and gradually drew into the lead. They were a boat length in front as they cut thru the waters under the Fullerton avenue bridge. Then the Vikings, pulling their sweeps in concert, rallied and were actually making up distance at the finish line, but the champions saved half a length advantage. Their time was 2 minutes 49 seconds.

Juniors Earn Their Title.

The juniors from Lane really earned their title, being called on to win three races. They triumphed over the Schurz athletes in the first heat by a length in 3:37.6, then won by four and a half lengths over the Amundsen lads in 3:09.2 to enter the finals against the Waller representatives, who had routed Lake View's entry by eight lengths in 3:32.4.

The junior champions had no walkaway against the boys from Waller in the title race. They took the lead shortly after each made a fast start, were slightly more than a length ahead as they entered the Fullerton bridge, then increased it to two at the finish line. The time was 2:56.6.

The Lane seniors entered the finals by scoring over the newcomers from Schurz in the opening event of the program. Their margin was a length and a third and the time was 3:41. The difference of almost a minute in comparison to Lane's time in the finals was ascribed to an easing of the current and cross winds. The current became favorable as the races progressed. Walter Hollatz coached both winning crews.

Gain Second Leg on Trophy.

By winning, the crews from Lane gained a second leg on The Chicago Tribune gold trophies. The Techmen now need only one more triumph for permanent possession. The trophies were returned to Lane's custody in a presentation ceremony after the regatta over which George T. Donoghue, superintendent of the Chicago Park district, presided. They were accepted by Charles Lang, principal of Lane Tech. Members of the winning crews also received individual gold medals, while silver awards went to the runners-up.

Members of Lane's senior crew were Martin Gallagher, coxswain; Fred Holzman Jr., stroke; Chester Gonsiorek, No. 7; Robert Osmondson, No. 6; Ervin Koerner, No. 5; Raymond Bischoffer, No. 4; Calvert Dodge [captain], No. 3; Hans Opfer, No. 2, and Frank Adamczyk, bow.

In the Amundsen boat were Harvey Deright, coxswain; Capt. Wally Hanson, stroke; Bill Haldewang, No. 7; Warren Donewald, No. 6; Dick Preves, No. 5; Bob May, No. 4; Herbert Nielsen, No. 3; Harry J. Morris, No. 2, and William Johnson, bow.

The regatta was sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, in coöperation with the Lincoln Park Boat club and the Chicago Park district. A number of water sports enthusiasts from various cities of the middle west were in attendance.

When the schoolboy shells weren't sweeping down the smooth water of the lagoon, other events were keeping the spectators on edge. Three races between ponderous Sea Scout cutters, a striking contrast to the skinny shells, developed stiff competition.

From Rowing Association.

Earlier in the day the Central States Schoolboy Rowing association was formed at a meeting in the Illinois Athletic club. The new organization's goal is an annual re-

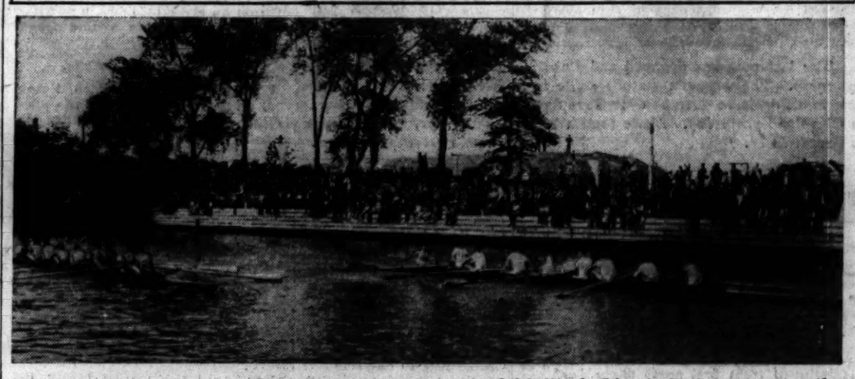
The End of a Perfect Day for Lane Tech Crews



The senior crew of Lane Tech boys driving across the finish line in Lincoln Park lagoon yesterday half a length in front of Amundsen's huskies. The victory gave the Tech oarsmen their second successive Chicago interscholastic championship.

Winning Crews Give Coxswains a Cold Ducking

Martin Gallagher, Lane seniors' coxswain, and Jack Morris, who piloted the victorious juniors in the interscholastic regatta, were dunked in the chilly lagoon waters after the regatta. Then, getting in the spirit of the thing, other members of the winning crews took headers into the water. It is a rowing custom for the winning crew to toss its coxswain overboard.

Thanks to efficient work by Ray Hudson, Don Donahue, Louis Ruelius, Art Skrabel, and Walter Hollatz, the program went off almost to the minute as scheduled.

The University of Washington crew, en route to the Poughkeepsie regatta, will arrive in Chicago at 9:40 a. m. today on the Empire Builder at the Union station. The Huskies will work out early this afternoon on the Lincoln park lagoon. Their coach, Al Ulbrickson, has invited Chicago schoolboy oarsmen to witness their training spins.

Capt. Henry Michiels aided the park district life guards in keeping the course clear of motor boats and yachts, with his harbor launch Margaret K. With him was Capt. John Anderson, retired commander of the Old Chicago coast guard station.

Lost in the fog at the north end of the course was Judy G., Vice Commodore Fred Garner's motor yacht. Anchored near the starting line, its short wave transmitter manned by Sea Scout radiomen, the cruiser provided radio communication, without which it would have been impossible to know the goings-on at the starting line.

Sox Beat Senators, 4-3, in 11th; Rigney Rescues Lyons in 9th

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—The White Sox this afternoon beat the Washington Senators, 4 to 3, in eleven innings, but not until after they had done a heap of suffering from the last of the ninth to the payoff.

Going into the last of the ninth Ted Lyons was breezing along to his second successive shutout. The Sox had made three runs and the Senators had made three scattered hits. Ted hadn't walked anybody and seemed in complete control. Then the sorrowful period set in.

George Case opened the home ninth by beating out a bunt for the fourth Washington hit. Buddy Lewis stepped up and banged a homer over the right field sign board, scoring behind Case. The score still was 3 to 2, of course, and Ted's admirers thought he was ready to bear down and ring up his fifth victory of the season. It didn't turn out that way. Jimmy Welaj, third man up, socked a double.

Rigney to the Rescue.

In came Johnny Rigney. John hadn't had much time to warm up but the temperature was in the 90s, so there was no delay about resuming the game. Gee Walker, who has driven in more runs this year than anybody except Jimmy Foxx, whiffed on three pitches. Zeke Bonura had no such faintness, however. He lined a single to left and Welaj raced home with the tying run. Cecil Travis fouled to Joe Kuhel, but Jimmy Bloodworth singled to center, Bonura stopping at second. Jake Early then forced Bloodworth on a nice pickup by Eric McNair.

Willis Hudlin pitched the tenth. With one out Kennedy knocked his third single and went to third on Kuhel's single. Then Mike Kreevich tapped into a double play.

Rigney was warmed up by now. In the home tenth Buddy Myer, batting for Hudlin, fouled to Mike Tresh. Case flied to Larry Rosenthal. Lewis didn't have another home run ready. Instead he whiffed.

Walker's Error Helps.

With one out in the eleventh and Joe Haynes pitching, Luke Appling singled to center. Rosenthal sent him to third with a single to right. McNair sent a high fly to left. Whether Walker was pondering is ridiculous appearance or tried to throw the ball before it came down, is a question. At any rate the ball almost hit Gee on the head as it plunked to earth without nipping his glove. Appling scored the winning run, as he would have even if Walker had caught the ball. McNair couldn't take advantage of Walker's startling error. He hit into a double play.

It was three up and three down for the Senators in the 11th. Welaj and Walker lifted easy flies. Bonura, who had been waving his arms wildly while the tide was surging for the Senators, came up full of determination. He ended the game with a whiff.

So instead of Lyons hanging up his fifth victory, Rigney registered his fifth.

Sox Waste Chances.

The Sox' disappointments weren't confined to the late innings. They had several before they scored the first run of the game in the fifth inning. In the third inning they had runners on third and first as a result of a walk to Tresh and Kennedy's first hit, but couldn't score. With one out in the fifth, Taft Wright tripled and Appling walked

CUBS WHIP BEES, 7 TO 1 AND 15-8, FOR 7TH IN ROW

Big Innings Decide Both Contests.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs, partly because of the graciousness of their guests, Boston's eighth place Bees, yesterday extended their winning streak to seven games. In the first half of a double header, the Hartnett Boy Scouts and associates conducted themselves with merit, triumphing 7 to 1, without exerting themselves. But baseball was forgotten in the second contest and a good portion of the 17,714 in attendance walked out before a titanic exhibition of errors was concluded with the Chicagoans on the profitable end of a 15 to 8 score.

The orderly fashion in which the first game was conducted can be credited to Larry French, assisted by a third inning in which the Cubs put him on easy street with a five run blast against Bill Posedel. However, the big working margin had no influence on the veteran southpaw. He went right thru to the last putout laboring as if one run could have ruined him, the result being a six hitter for his seventh triumph of the season. Two of the half dozen hits were bunched, preventing him from achieving a shutout.

Baseball? Well, Now——

The second game turned into a mêlée as early as the second inning, the Cubs, with the aid of an error, scoring six times. But that wasn't enough for old Charley Root. An error helped to carry away a good piece of his lead in the third and in the fourth he vanished under the pressure of hits, leaving the vacancy for Ken Raffensberger, who by the time he reached the end of the inning, was in a daze as the result of the fielding inaccuracies of his mates. The blunders put the Bees in front, 8 to 6. But it all ended happily, the Bees doing a lot of comical fielding between base hits and handing the decision back to their hosts in a seven run seventh inning.

FIRST GAME

The Cubs started on Posedel gently in the second inning. Dallessandro, Collins, and French singled, the former scoring. The same gentleness wasn't evident in the third. Five runs scored. This foray was launched by Cavarretta's double past first base. Gleeson scored him with a single to

MANY writers around the American league circuit are taking pen in hand to mold the character of Ted Williams, Red Sox outfielder, who, according to some reports, suddenly has become sour, profane, morose, vindictive, lazy, and according to his own statement, eager at 21 to quit "the crummy racket," if he can get a job in a nice modern fire barn. . . . LAWSON CARDS 70 IN PLAYOFF; GENE SHOOTS 73

Victor Comes Thru Under Pressure.

Tears and a Smile

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CLEVELAND, O., June 9.—Tears glistened in Gene Sarazen's eyes today when he was called forward at the Canterbury Golf club after the presentation ceremony in which the winner's trophies in the National Open were awarded to Lawson Little. But there was a smile on the little Italian's face as he placed his hand on the championship cup and said:

"I had dates with this graceful lady in 1922 and in 1932 and I had hoped to keep another one with her today. She led me on for three days, but today she said, 'I'm sorry, Gene, but I'm going to go home with Mr. Little. He's younger than you are.'"

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., June 9.—Lawson Little, a good big man, today defeated Gene Sarazen, a good little man, 70 strokes to 73, in their playoff for the 44th National Open golf championship at the Canterbury club. The 18 holes they wrestled thru were as exciting as might have been expected in a man-to-man duel between two of the greatest match players who ever lived.

In retrospect, there was no argument in the minds of any of the gallery of 4,000 who trudged over the steaming Canterbury acreage about who played the better golf. Sarazen was the first to admit that the husky California boy who teed off against him this morning outdid him all the way around. Yet the up-and-down character of this 15th Open playoff was such that the sweating throng never was certain that the little Italian who was making his third try for an Open in 21 years of effort might not come on and tie.

Always Up After First.

Little never trailed at any time during the 18 holes. He was 1 up after the first, 2 to the good after the second, and 4 plus after the fifth. His out nine of 34, two under par, sent him into the last nine 3 up on Sarazen's 37. Both matched par of 36 thru that portion of the round, but twice—at the 12th and 14th—Sarazen was within a single stroke of catching his rival.

The cards for the playoff:

Par—Out	443	445	345—36
Little—Out	433	435	345—34
Sarazen—Out	543	453	445—37
Par—In	434	544	534—36—72
Little—In	435	543	444—36—70
Sarazen—In	434	634	544—36—73

Little, who won his last United States major championship at the Country Club of Cleveland, five miles from Canterbury, by taking the 1935 National Amateur, proved once again that he is still one of the game's longest hitters. His drive and brassie to the 615 yard 16th green for a birdie was evidence enough of that. More important, however, was the former amateur champion's putting under pressure such as seldom has been hurled at a fellow trying to win the big show of golf.

That pressure consisted of three chip shots from off the greens by Sarazen. Twice the champion of 1922 and 1932 set the gallery roaring by dropping 50 foot tries from the fringes of the sixth and 11th. At the 14th, Gene ran down a 20 footer from the edge with a wedge.

13th and 14th Tell Story.

The real story of the playoff is contained in the 483 yard 13th and 403 yard 14th holes. On the 13th tee, Sarazen was only one shot away from a tie. His drive therefrom, like Little's, landed in the rough to the right. Many wondered why the little man took a 4 iron instead of a wood to escape but he later said that a bad lie didn't call for a wood. His hands turned over on the re-

2 TRAINERS TIED FOR VICTORIES AT LINCOLN FIELDS

Wyatt, Troutt Saddle 7 During Meeting.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Euall Wyatt, the young Californian who turned his talents from the show ring to the race track with immediate success, is engaged in a struggle with Clyde Troutt, veteran Illinois horseman, for training honors at Lincoln Fields. As the meeting passed its half way mark Saturday, these two were tied for the lead with seven winners each. Wyatt trains for Mrs. J. F. Waters of San Francisco and Troutt supervises his own stable.

Howard Wells, who handles horses for quite a few owners, is close behind with six winners to his credit. Lonnie Copenhaver has five and Ben Jones and Jack Lowenstein each have four.

This is the first time the Waters horses have raced on Illinois tracks. Wyatt plans to conduct quite a campaign in the Chicago area, his schedule calling for a move to Arlington Park as soon as the Lincoln Fields meeting closes.

He's Only 32.

Wyatt, who is 32 years old, spent many seasons training horses for the show ring. He has exhibited his charges all over the country. Much of his time was spent in the employ of Mrs. Waters and when, in the fall of 1937, she turned her interest from show horses to racing thorobreds, she invited him to take over the new job after rejecting applications of many experienced trainers.

In 1938 his first full year in this field, Wyatt landed sixth place in the national ranking with respect to number of winners—63. The stable collected purses totaling $49,615 that season. Last year he dropped to 19th with 44 winners, ending up in a tie with Troutt, who is at present his strongest rival at Lincoln Fields.

Troutt Has a System.

Troutt, whose farm is located at Benton, Ill., is an exceptionally astute horseman, and may be expected to give young Mr. Wyatt very strong opposition before the meeting is over. Troutt usually campaigns his horses thru the winter at New Orleans, then brings them back to the farm to freshen up for the Chicago season. When Illinois racing ends in the fall, he moves them back to Benton for another rest before going to New Orleans again. He has come to know this circuit so well he can pick winning spots with regularity.

Waters and Troutt began their duel in the third race on the opening day of the Lincoln Fields meeting. Waters saddled Torch Gleam for this event and Troutt sent out Valdina. At the head of the stretch, these two began running neck and neck in pursuit of the pace setter, Honey Seat. Waters' horse got up to win by half a length, while Troutt's representative was third in a blanket finish.

They're Neck and Neck.

On the second day of the meeting Troutt won with Barbara S., and neither has been able to get very far ahead of the other since then. Subsequently Waters scored again with Torch Gleam, twice with Noble Count, and once each with English Harry, Sweep Royal, and Valdina Boy. Troutt followed up the victory of Barbara S. by getting two successful efforts from Jerry-Rae and one each from Prefer Transit, Sir Mowlee, Valdina, and Lady Federal.

Wells' most conspicuous victories were scored with Tom Taggart's Yale O' Nine and R. W. McIlvain's Chi. His other winners were his own Equifox, Dixie McKinley's Miss Co-ed, G. H. Knapp's Preceptress, and David Strauss' Flying Silver. Preceptress was a long shot, paying $45 in the $2 mutuels.

Pallatin and Bennett Will Meet Tonight

Tommy Pallatin, member of the 1937 international Golden Gloves team, will be after revenge in a 10 round return bout against Leonard Bennett, Detroit welterweight, in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight. Bennett defeated Tom in a previous meeting held in Detroit last year. Pallatin has won his last five matches, Young Kid McCoy, Bobby Britton, and Milo Theodorescu being among his victims. Tommy also holds decisions over Bobby McIntyre and Indian Billy Lee.

Bennett has not been defeated since losing a decision in six rounds to Theodorescu in Cleveland last Dec. 11. Since then Len has scored four victories in five appearances. After losing a hard 10 round fight to Tony Cianciola, Wisconsin middleweight champion, in Milwaukee New Year's afternoon, Bennett knocked out Tito Taylor and Billy Lee, and defeated Ralph Guajardo and Tony Motisi.

Lee Oma, light heavyweight, also of Detroit, will meet Eddie Camp of the west side in an eight round secondary feature. Joey Chizar, South Bend lightweight, who has not boxed since fighting four rounds to a draw with Gene Spencer in Chicago Stadium more than two years ago, will start a comeback in a four round preliminary match as Joey Chase. His opponent will be Frankie Agnes. Additional contests of four rounds will bring together Kelly Kohn, Peoria junior welterweight, and Bobby Ryan, and Johnny Hackett, Detroit middleweight, and Harry Fredricksen. Fredricksen upset George Amorine of Newark, N. J., last Monday.

SAVOLD, WHITERS REMATCHED.

Des Moines, Iowa, June 9 (AP).—Lee Savold, Des Moines heavyweight, has been signed for a return with Johnny Whiters of Pontiac, Mich., here June 17. Whiters beat Savold before.

BIG 9½ MAY LOSE ROY COCHRAN IN HURDLES EVENT

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Roy Cochran, Indiana university junior who in 1939 won the Western conference 220 yard hurdle championship, defeated his rivals from the Pacific coast conference in the dual meet between that organization and the Big 9½, may not compete in this event a week from tonight in Dyche stadium when the boys from the Pacific coast seek their fourth consecutive victory over the Western conference.

Cochran was added to the list of Western conference athletes, as was Capt. Ralph Schwarzkopf of Michigan, on the basis of his 1939 low hurdle title which he could not defend because of injury received in the finals of the 100 yard dash. Schwarzkopf, ill since the Drake relays in April with a throat infection, was unable to defend his Big 9½ two mile championship. He also won in the dual meet against the stars of the Pacific coast last year.

May Drop Low Hurdles Race.

Friday night in Milwaukee after his brief workout which started with entry in the central collegiate half mile trials in which he dropped out on the second lap, Cochran indicated he might forsake the low hurdle race forever. His injured leg steadily is improving and he sees no reason why he cannot run in the Pacific coast meet and the national collegiates June 21 and 22 in Minneapolis. But Cochran is inclined to concentrate on the quarter mile and he may not run the low hurdles at all next year.

The hurdles naturally will place a greater strain on his leg than a running event which is primary reason for the possible switch in events. Warren Breidenbach, Michigan's quarter mile champion; Jack Leutritz, Michigan, and Wilmur McCown, Illinois, have been nominated for the quarter mile in the dual meet between the conferences.

On the basis of his American indoor record in the quarter mile, Cochran not only might receive a nomination in this event, but it may be the race on which he will concentrate next year.

"I won't give up the 440 yard run," Cochran said in Milwaukee. "This race fits the distance at which I believe I am best."

Seek Crowd of 10,000.

The Western conference athletes are scheduled to report Friday in Evanston to complete training for the meet Monday. The twilight starting time of the meet, which was held here for the first time in 1938, was accidental since it was scheduled for Saturday afternoon and postponed because of rain. Ten thousand gathered in Dyche stadium and this is the attendance goal of the officials this year.

The two conferences dominate national collegiate competition. Last year in the national collegiates, teams from the Coast conference and the Big 9½ took seven of the first 10 places in the team championship and ran consecutively from the title won by Southern California thru five positions. Thirteen teams from the two conferences nearly doubled the point score of the other 72 team entries.

FEATHERS SIGNS WITH GREEN BAY; 3D LEAGUE TEAM

Green Bay, Wis., June 9 (Special).—Beattie Feathers, former University of Tennessee triple threat half back and holder of the National Football league ground gaining record, was added to the roster of the world's champion Green Bay Packers today.

Feathers, a free agent, will join the Packers in August to play in the Chicago Tribune All-Star game in which he was a starting half in 1934, the first year of the Chicago spectacle. He also starred as a member of the Chicago Bears in the 1935 All-Star game.

Feathers set the National league record of 1,004 yards for one season in 1934, his first with the Chicago Bears. Later he was traded to the Brooklyn Dodgers. A severe head injury in 1938 prevented him from reaching his customary heights for the Dodgers. He was a member of the Paterson, N. J., team in the American association last fall. Feathers also plays professional baseball.

This Is How It Feels to Win the Open

The last putt has dropped and Lawson Little is the national open champion. The winner's victory smile is as broad as his drives were long in his decisive triumph over Gene Sarazen on the Canterbury course in Cleveland yesterday. Little took a 70, two under par, in the playoff to Sarazen's 73.

Little Is Victor Over Sarazen for Open Title

covery, the heavy grass catching the club on the backswing.

The ball wound up in a clump of trees to the right and it appeared the Connecticut farmer would spend the rest of the week there. A magnificent 3 iron shot left him about 70 yards in front of the green, but there he committed his biggest error. He took a pitching iron and the shot ran far past the cup, so far that he eventually took a 6.

On the 14th, Gene was just off the right edge of the green with his second, and there flipped his wedge shot into the cup for a 3. The heat then also was directed at Little, who still had a six foot downhill putt left for a par 4. He stepped up to the ball with great calm and charged it into the hole.

Little Hits 15 Greens.

Just to prove that there was no fluke about that, Lawson smacked a niblick second up to the green of the 371 yard 15th, the ball biting into the grass five feet short of the cup. Sarazen was off to the left and again used the wedge, making another great try as the ball slid by the hole by a foot. Again the pressure was on Little and again he holed out.

That left him 2 up, and he increased that to 3 with the aforesaid terrific brace of woods to the long 16th. Both were in trouble on the 230 yard 17th, Sarazen missing the green in the rough and Little going over into the sand. Lawson got out and took two putts, but Gene blew a seven foot putt that would have left him two down going to the 18th. There, Gene was on, while Little was just making the lower right hand corner and both were down in 2 for par fours.

Little used 31 putts, while Sarazen was charged with 32, including the two chip shots with the putter at the sixth and 11th. Sarazen hit only ten greens, while Lawson connected with 15, missing the 12th, where he was bunkered, and the 17th and 18th.

Victory Is Worth $1,000.

Little received $1,000 for his work today, while Sarazen was soothed with $800. Lawson, by the way, led the whole country in the qualifying rounds for the open with his spectacular 134 at Olympia Fields.

Little's performance completed a Chicago picture started by young Wilford Wehrle of Tam O'Shanter, who won the amateur prize by finishing the regulation 72 holes yesterday with a 297. Lawson, who will be 30 years old on June 23, is married to the former Dorothy Hurd, the pretty young Chicagoan who followed him thruout today's heat. He was not the best iron hitter in the world until he visited Chicago's Tom Armour after the 1933 national amateur in Cincinnati.

In the next two years, Lawson reached the greatest competitive height any amateur has attained since Bobby Jones. He won the 1934 and 1935 American and British amateur championships. In the spring of 1936 the former Stanford university star turned professional, and in that same year won the Canadian open with a record score.

As a match player, the game has seen few men like him. His greatest performance came in the 1934 British amateur, where he defeated Jim Wallace, the Scotch carpenter, 14 and 13. He scampered over Prestwick in a first round of 66 and took only 83 strokes for the 23 holes. He is now professional at the swank Mount Washington club in Brettonwoods, N. H.

MATCH TEAM WINS.

The Match Corporation of America defeated Sterling, Ill., 9 to 1, for their fifth straight softball victory at Parieby stadium last night. Al Dwoinen held Sterling to two hits.

He Gave Them a Tree.

He gave them a tree on their wedding day
To be planted just to one side
Of the little front door of the little white house
To which she came as a bride.

The others brought silver and spode and glass,
And murmured: "Now wouldn't it be Exactly like him to be different
And give them that young elm tree?"

Young and straight and tall and fair
As their hopes on their wedding morn,
And in his mind as he chose this gift,
So many thoughts were born.

He thought of them resting from labors done,
There in its friendly shade;
He thought of it sheltering them from storms
By the wind-break that it made.

He thought of them standing some summer's night,
Perhaps in a far-off June,
Arm in arm in the doorway,
In the light of a slim young moon;
And as silently they'd glance toward the stars
Thru those leafy boughs above,
He felt at long last they would come to know
The breadth and the depth of his love!

We'll Speak to Him.

Listen, Arch, you can carry a joke just so far and it ceases to be funny. For a couple of years now I've been reading the Wake and every day I see that silly little poem that goes something like this—"The Wake Depends Upon Its Friends"—or some such stuff. The guy who sends it in every day doesn't even sign his name, so he must be a relative. Even so, why doesn't he send something new? It's easy to write a poem. Why, I wrote this one in five minutes:

If you really want to be famous,
Send something into the Wake.
Wouldn't you like a big namous
Like Jazbo and Eddie Drake?

BUBBLING OVER FINISHES FIRST IN YACHT RACE

Bubbling Over, Bert Williams' entry, defeated Harry Nye Jr.'s Gale yesterday in the closest three race series for Star class yachts the Jackson Park Yacht club has recorded. Each yacht was awarded a total of 47 points, but Bubbling Over won because it had twice led Gale at the finish.

The second race, sailed yesterday morning, was won by Gemini, John T. Pirie II.'s Sheridan Shore Yacht club sloop. Bubbling Over finished second, and Gale was third. In the third and final race, Delight, sailed by Russell Moon and his crew, Commodore Ed Schnabel Jr., was the winner, followed by Bubbling Over and Gale. The Chicago Yacht club's first Commodore's cup race was postponed due to the fog.

GIANTS WIN TWO FROM CARDINALS, 11 TO 9 AND 7 TO 4

Opener Goes 11 Innings; Rally Saves Second.

St. Louis, Mo., June 9 (AP).—The New York Giants swept another double header with the Cardinals today, 11 to 9 and 7 to 4, the first game going 11 innings. Johnny Mize tied the score of the opener for St. Louis with a homer with two on bases in the ninth, but in the 11th Babe Young scored on Stuart Martin's wild throw of Harry Danning's grounder and Billy Jurges singled across a second run for good measure.

The Cardinals led, 4 to 2, at the end of seven innings of the second game. In the Giants' eighth singles by Mel Ott, Jurges, Nickey Witek, and Danning, an error by Terry Moore, and a walk to Joe Moore were climaxed by Frank Demaree's double, five runs scoring. Scores:

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 9 (AP).—Mace Brown resumed his rescue rôle here today and pitched shutout ball for three innings as the Pittsburgh Pirates won the eight innings second game of a double header from the Philadelphia Phillies, 11 to 5. The Phils won the opener, 6 to 1. Brown's teammates battered Ike Pearson and Cy Blanton for 13 hits.

In the seventh inning of the first game, Joe Marty beat out a bunt, Bob Bragan walked, and Rookie Catcher Ben Warren hit a homer to score both and give Hugh Mulcahy his sixth victory. Scores:

Hoosier Driver Killed in Trial for Stock Car Race

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 9 (AP).—Stuart Huffman, 21 years old, of New Castle, was killed today as he warmed up his automobile for a stock car race. Huffman lost control of his car and it hurdled a fence. He was thrown out and the car then rolled over him. Frank Wright of Peru won the 15 lap race.

YANKEES BEAT INDIANS, 4-3, ON TRIO OF HOMERS

New York, June 9 (AP).—Cleveland's Al Smith, who twice before beat the Yankees, bowed to the champions' long range power today. The Yankees got only six hits, but three were homers—by Babe Dahlgren, Joe Di Maggio, and George Selkirk—as they defeated the Indians, 4 to 3, and prevented the visitors from taking first place in the American league from the idle Boston Red Sox. DiMaggio's circuit smash scored Charley Keller in the sixth and Selkirk's in the same inning, his eighth of the season, was the winning margin. Score:

REX MAYS SETS WORLD RECORD AT MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., June 9 (AP).—Rex Mays of Glendale, Cal., lowered the world's one mile dirt track record and won the 10 mile and 30 mile feature events on an automobile race program at the State Fair park today.

Mays covered the mile in 37.78 seconds in a time trial, eclipsing the 38.15 record set by George Connors of Springfield, Ill., in 1938.

The feature race was a duel between Mays and Emil Andres of Chicago. Mays' time of 20.04 was worth $550.

Andres won a special five mile race and finished third in the 10 mile event. Harry McQuinn of Indianapolis, took the other 10-miler.

Cubs Hammer Posedel for Sixth Straight center. Nicholson dropped a fly ball single in short right and both runners advanced on Herman's bunt, after which Dallessandro was purposely passed, filling the bases. The three dashed home on Mattick's double to right center and Mattick registered the fifth run on Hack's single.

After Posedel's unhappy experience, Callahan served to the Cubs for four innings and, except in one spot, they didn't take many liberties with his pitching. The exception was the fifth, in which Herman, after singling, scored on hits by Dallessandro and Collins. But the last hit also led to a double play ball. Dallessandro, trapped between third and second, tried to jockey long enough to let Collins reach second. But the Bees passed up Dallessandro momentarily, tagging Collins as he slid into second, then nipped Dallessandro before he could reach a haven.

The Bees scored their lone run off French in the seventh when Ross singled, went to third on Cuccinello's double and home on Masi's fly.

SECOND GAME

The Bees started off the second game with a run which was more or less of a gift from Mattick, who fumbled Hassett's grounder. After Moore had popped out, Rowell singled Hassett to third and Buddy completed his journey on West's healthy fly to Dallessandro.

Todd opened the second inning with a popup to Miller and Barnicle then plunged into the difficulties from which he had to be rescued. Mattick, Root, and Hack walked. Mattick scored on a single by Cavarretta. Gleeson doubled, two more went home, and Barnicle went into seclusion. His successor, Javery, then intentionally walked Nicholson. Herman poked a double play ball at Rowell, but the latter fumbled, Cavarretta scoring. The last two of the half dozen runs scored on a single by Dallessandro.

Root Gets Jolt.

Root's three run jostling in the third was built around a pass to Javery, who led off. Cavarretta fumbled Hassett's easy roller. Moore and Rowell slashed singles into right to account for two runs and Moore carried home the third while West was being thrown out.

All the Bees did in the fourth before two were out was to draw a pass off Root, the recipient being Miller. Business became brisk immediately thereafter. Hassett and Moore singled, Miller scoring. Root resigned in favor of Raffensberger and by way of greeting Lefty the Cubs turned giddy. Sisti batted for Rowell and grounded to Hack. Hack fumbled the ball, Hassett scoring, and Hack threw the ball into the dugout, Moore taking third and Sisti second. A passed ball permitted Moore to score. West then tripled thru Nicholson's hands and Sisti counted to give the Bees an 8 to 6 lead.

Now It's Cubs' Turn.

The seventh didn't turn daffy until after Herman had singled, Dallessandro had doubled and Galan, batting for Todd, had walked. This filled the bases with none out. Russell batted for Mattick and was plunked by a pitched ball, Herman scoring. Out went Javery. Rogell batted for Raffensberger and Hassett fumbled, Dallessandro scoring the tying run. Hack bounced to Sisti, who threw to the plate, but Masi dropped the ball, Galan scoring. The rest of the damage was done by singles delivered by Cavarretta and Nicholson.

47 HIGH SCHOOL LEADERS TO SEE CITY IN AIR LINER

Pupils Appear Wednesday on W-G-N Program.

The 47 outstanding high school pupils of Chicagoland, who will take part in the Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast over W-G-N Wednesday evening, will see Chicago from the air during their stay here.

As guests of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE the young school and community leaders will be taken on half hour flights in a T. W. A. Skyclub plane over the city and lake front and north over Evanston. The 21 passenger plane will make three trips to accommodate the pupils and members of the Citizens of Tomorrow radio cast.

Airport to be Inspected.

Chartered Gray line buses will take the party to Chicago airport where they will make a tour of inspection. Then they will board the plane. At the controls will be Capt. Ted Ashford, one of T. W. A's million mile pilots, assisted by First Officer J. I. Schunaubelt.

The plane will soar over the Chicago industrial areas, the University of Chicago, Soldiers' field, the loop, Tribune Tower and along the lake shore to Northwestern university's Evanston campus. On the trip the Citizens of Tomorrow will meet Marjorie Gallmeier, T. W. A. hostess, who has flown more than half a million miles since joining the airline nearly three years ago. Miss Gallmeier was herself an honor student at North Side High school in Fort Wayne, Ind.

Broadcast Is Last of Series.

Members of the radio cast on the trip will include Dorothy Gregory, Ed Sprague, Pierre André, W-G-N announcer, and Philip Maxwell of THE TRIBUNE staff. The broadcast Wednesday will be from 7 to 7:30 p. m. and will be the last of the first series of 11 broadcasts dedicated to the youth of America. Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will speak to the group in the main W-G-N studio. Also present will be 600 other guests, students from Wright Junior college.

At noon Wednesday the honor group will be guests at a luncheon of the Junior Association of Commerce in the Red room of the La Salle hotel. At 5 p. m. they will be guests of the Chicago Woman's club at a supper tea in the clubrooms at 72 East 11th street.

804 CCC YOUTHS OBTAIN PRIVATE JOBS IN 3 MONTHS

Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, announced yesterday that 804 young men who were assigned to Civilian Conservation corps projects from Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, left the CCC for private employment in the first three months of 1940.

Those who enter the CCC agree to work on conservation projects for six months but may leave at any time if they find private jobs, Lyons said. He said many obtain jobs in which they utilize skill learned on the projects.

Applications from Chicago residents who wish to join during the July enrollment period are being taken at 2547 Archer avenue.

WINS DIPLOMA DESPITE BULLET LODGED IN HEAD

A bullet lodged in her head didn't deter Catherine Dressel, 13 years old, from graduating with her class from Our Lady of Sorrows school last evening in Our Lady of Sorrows church, Jackson boulevard and Albany avenue.

Catherine was wounded 14 months ago by a stray shot which came thru the kitchen window of her home at 2949 Congress street. The bullet lodged in the center of her brain and physicians were unable to remove it.

Despite a partial paralysis of her right side, Catherine only lost six weeks of school. She learned to write with her left hand and earned good grades in all her studies. She intends to enter Lucy Flower High school next fall.

1,300 Outgoing Passengers Set Record at Airport

Another record was set at Chicago airport yesterday when air lines carried more than 1,300 outgoing passengers. The previous record was established May 29, when 1,104 outgoing passengers left. Twenty-five extra sections were added to usual schedules yesterday. United Air Lines officials, who drew attention to the figures, said the routine aspects of aviation in war news probably is a factor in increasing travel by air.

WHY FALSE TEETH WEARERS HAVE BAD BREATH
Millions Suffer Without Knowing!
You can't notice any odor from your plate or bridge—but others may! Dentists call this odor "denture breath" and it's serious. It comes from a mucin-scum that collects on plates and bridges. This scum is almost invisible—but it can make your breath so bad that friends shudder. It can breed decay-bacteria that infect your other teeth, actually hurt your health and spoil your pleasure.
Ordinary brushing often can't get this scum off plate or bridge—can't protect you against "denture breath." But just try Polident! Polident not only cleans—it actually purifies plates and bridges without brushing. It gets every bit of scum, tarnish, stain and odor—dissolves it away and leaves your plate sweet and clean as new.
Your breath will be fresher, your mouth feel cleaner—and your plate last longer and look better. Polident is approved by dental authorities, Good Housekeeping and tens of thousands of delighted users. Long-lasting can costs only 30¢ at any drug store.

DAY by DAY on the FARM — by HOMER CHEISZ

Haytime Is Here.

June 9, 1940.

MOWERS, hay loaders, and the hay chopper at the Du Page county farm were examined thoroly last week to make sure they were ready for the hay harvest, which probably will start within a few days. Some of the alfalfa already is in bloom. Since the first crop of alfalfa is to be made into silage, it can be cut earlier than if harvested for hay.

The first cutting of alfalfa should make fine silage. There are but few weeds in the meadows this year except in some fields where the alfalfa was seeded in the spring instead of fall, the usual seeding time for alfalfa at the farm.

First Cutting Weedy

Often the first cutting either is weedy or the alfalfa plants are too rank and coarse to make best quality silage or hay. Farmers have found that they cannot make good silage from any kind of grasses or legumes that will not make good hay if cured. Running coarse alfalfa thru a hay chopper makes the cured roughage more palatable to live stock. This would indicate that making such hay into silage would make it even more palatable because the chopped up stems would not be so hard as if cured for hay.

Some of the beef steers are being fed first cutting alfalfa that was chopped before it was blown into the barn loft last summer. The steers clean it up, stems and all.

Altho hay silage is being made in increasing amounts each year, few farmers have yet had enough experience with it to form definite conclusions as to its feeding value or to feel sure that it is safe to quit making corn silage and depend entirely on silage from grasses and legumes. Some farmers say they get better results from dairy cows by feeding some corn silage along with hay silage. Others contend that no corn silage is needed, that hay silage can safely take the place of all the corn silage and part of the cured hay in dairy rations without injury to the cows or loss of milk.

Old Barns May Vanish

Some think corn silage gradually will disappear until eventually all silos will be filled with hay. If this happens the conventional type of barn also may disappear from American farmsteads, since there would be little need for the massive hay lofts now used chiefly for storing cured hay.

Silo construction already is changing. Many new silos are built especially strong to withstand the pressure of hay silage. When silos are filled with hay the outward pressure on the walls is nearly twice as great as when they are filled with corn silage.

Making hay silage is hard work. Ordinary hay making machinery is not well suited to handling the heavy green plants, and manufacturers are making various kinds of special equipment for the purpose. A specially built hay loader was bought at the farm last summer for picking up the green hay in the fields and loading it on wagons.

WAR PROFIT TAX BILL IS PLANNED BY LA FOLLETTE

Program Opposed by Some Senators.

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—Senator Robert M. La Follette [Prog., Wis.] said today that he was preparing legislation to tax excess profits from the manufacture of war supplies.

Senator La Follette.

La Follette told reporters that he had asked the treasury for information concerning the amount of revenue that might be raised by varying percentages of taxes. If he received it in time, he said, he would submit it to the senate finance committee when it takes up the administration's $1,006,000,000 defense tax bill approved by the house ways and means committee yesterday.

May Pass House This Week.

The house is expected to pass the measure this week. It will go then to the senate committee.

In approving the bill, the house committee ordered a study of excess profits taxation with a view to enactment of restrictive legislation at the next session of congress. It said in a statement that there should not be an opportunity for the creation of new war millionaires, or the further substantial enrichment of already wealthy persons because of the rearmament program.

La Follette said he did not see "what objection a business concern could have, if it appears that it is going to make an unusual profit from a defense contract, to turning back at least a portion of that profit to the government."

Support "Reasonable" Proposals.

Senate Republicans were understood to have agreed to back any "reasonable" proposals to return to the government a share of abnormal profits by concerns filling contracts for airplanes, machine tools, and other armament equipment needed for the defense program.

The La Follette proposal encountered opposition, however, from Senator Harrison [D., Miss.], chairman of the finance committee, Senator George [D., Ga.], another committee member, and Senator Adams [D., Colo.].

"We are not in war yet, and I see no need for a 'war profits' tax now," Harrison said.

George commented that there was "no sense in crucifying business just because we think that somebody is going to attack us some time in the future and are preparing for such an attack as fast as possible."

Opposes New Business Taxes.

Adams said he was opposed to levying any additional taxes on business, above the 1 per cent corporation impost and the 10 per cent "supertax" proposed in the house bill for both individual and corporation incomes.

Harrison said he expected the finance committee would hold brief hearings on the tax bill, and predicted that final senate action could be obtained in time for congressional adjournment June 22, if no major controversies developed.

Grain Board Loses Value for Hedging

The Chicago Board of Trade and the other grain exchanges have become almost useless as hedging vehicles—one of their most important functions, grain observers said yesterday.

Hedging is a form of insurance adopted by millers and other buyers of large quantities of cash grain. The cash grain buyer sells an equal amount of futures short on a grain exchange. This protects him from possible drops in price.

Thru the last week prices ranged narrowly at, or near, the minimums set by the Board of Trade. The market has been thoroly liquidated, it was said. Similar conditions existed on the other grain exchanges.

Harvests Are Under Way.

Harvests in the southwest are under way and are moving steadily northward. Within a few weeks a large volume of cash wheat will be offered for sale and, under present market conditions, few buyers can be found, according to grain experts.

With a thin market and established minimum prices any sale of future contracts such as in a hedging transaction would drop the price to the minimums and it would be difficult to sell additional futures, it was said.

According to traders, the only solution to the problem is the removal of the established minimums. Some traders said the clearing corporation of the Board of Trade made the first step toward such a maneuver when it voted to double the margin requirements on long positions of oats, rye and soy beans.

OUTPUT OF STEEL NEARS CAPACITY AS BUYING GAINS

Cleveland, O., June 9 (AP).—The steel industry "believes it is on the threshold of practically capacity production" because of probable increased demand from the allies "and certain large requirements for domestic preparedness," the Magazine Steel said today.

Operations responded to increased demand last week, continuing the upward curve which started at the beginning of May, and the magazine's index rose three points to 81½ per cent of capacity.

"In an effort to protect against shortage for ordinary uses, steel consumers are beginning to buy more freely for future delivery, some seeking contracts into the fourth quarter," the review said.

Scrap prices continued to strengthen, altho consumers were buying little. The composite price of steelmaking grades advanced 29 cents to $18.67 a ton, highest since the last week of November.

BRANIFF AIRWAYS REPORTS TRAFFIC SETS HIGH MARK

Passenger traffic on Braniff Airways reached a new all-time high mark in May for the third consecutive month, Gail Urban, district traffic manager, announced yesterday. Increases over May of last year in revenue, passengers carried, and revenue passenger miles flown were all in excess of 100 per cent, Urban said. Braniff carried 10,562 passengers during the month, a gain of 106.98 per cent.

Additional schedules between Chicago and Texas, and the use of new 21 passenger Douglas equipment were largely responsible for these gains, Urban said.

He announced that in celebration of Braniff's 12th anniversary this month, an additional fleet of new 1940 model 21 passenger Douglas liners will be added to the present fleet of Super B-Liners operating between the Great Lakes and the Gulf of Mexico.

WAR PROFITS TAX.

Several weeks ago I read that Clement Attlee of the British war cabinet told the house of commons that the excess profits tax would be raised to 100 per cent. Does this mean that all profits are wiped out and that Great Britain has abandoned the private profit system? Would the United States adopt such a tax in the event of war?—A. G.

Answer: The British excess profits tax which was instituted last September after the start of the war required British corporations to pay a tax of 60 per cent of the increase in their current profits over the level earned in a prewar "normal" year.

The tax was not directed against profits which would have been earned in the ordinary course of business, or which would have increased as the result of normal expansion. As an arbitrary means of distinguishing between ordinary and war profits, the British treasury selected certain prewar years and ruled that profits earned in those years would be used as standards of peacetime earnings.

British corporations are permitted to select one of several prewar years as their standard year. For example, they may choose 1935, 1936, the average of 1935 and 1937, or the average of 1936 and 1937. Any profits earned in excess of the level in the selected year are subject to the war tax.

When the British cabinet raised the excess profits tax to 100 per cent from the earlier 60 per cent, the effect was to prevent British companies from retaining any profits whatever over the prewar standard. The expropriation by the government of all war profits earned by private industry, however, did not eliminate the profit system. Companies can continue to earn profits up to peacetime levels.

The problem of removing the profit from war and of assessing an equitable tax on excess war profits is complicated by the difficulty of deciding at what point normal earnings stop and war profits begin. Selection of a standard peacetime year may prove satisfactory for industries which had a good return on invested capital that year, but may be unduly restrictive for industries which had poor results.

United States treasury officials are reported studying the possible provisions and effects of a war profits tax which would be imposed if earnings of war industries soar far above peacetime levels or if this country goes to war. The President has indicated that he will take measures to prevent the growth of "war millionaires."

MUNITION FLOW TO GROW, SAY 'ALLIES' BUYERS

New York, June 9 (AP).—The Anglo-French purchasing board announced today that the "flow of munitions of all kinds shipped from America will be immediately augmented" as a result of recent federal action releasing surplus government equipment and material.

The board said it had been informed that "certain important quantities of war materials—old, but all in fully serviceable condition—have been or are being declared surplus by the United States army and navy."

"This, coming on the top of deliveries against orders already placed," the board said, "will enable the board to continue its future activities on a constantly widening basis."

Economic Mission, Headed by General, Starts for Japan

New York, June 9 [Special].—Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan left New York airport tonight for San Francisco en route to Japan on an economic mission. Events since the abrogation of the trade treaty between Japan and the United States "makes necessary the immediate solution of the strained relations between the two great powers," it was said.

FEDERAL TRUST PROBE EXTENDED TO DRUG FIELD

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—The justice department, announcing the extension of its antitrust investigation to the drug and surgical equipment industries, said today that the principal manufacturers of these products had been ordered to submit their records to a grand jury in Washington on July 9 and 10.

The announcement said that more than 125 subpenas had been issued by the federal district court of the District of Columbia. Those subpenaed, the department said, include 12 of the principal trade and professional associations connected with the industries.

"The issuance of these subpenas," the department asserted, "constitutes the initial step in a comprehensive investigation of alleged violations of the antitrust laws involved in the manufacture, distribution, and sale, both at wholesale and retail, of drugs, medical preparations, surgical equipment, and medicinal and surgical supplies of all kinds."

SOUND FINANCE DEMANDED FOR ARMS PROGRAM

Lack of Plan Decried by Economy Group.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—The National Economy league today declared that it was "too late to lament over the billions that have been spent under the deficit policy," but that it was high time to place federal finances on a basis solid enough to stand the strain of the defense program.

Dr. Harley L. Lutz, economist, aids in defense plan study.

In releasing a special study on the defense program, prepared by Willard D. Arant, research director, with the concurrence of Dr. Harley L. Lutz, consulting economist, the league chairman, Ernest Angell said:

"We think the American people are entitled to sound measures of defense costs rather than continuance of costly amateur experiments in finance with other peoples' money.

Policies Breed Doubt.

"The administration appears to lack plan, forthrightness in statement, readiness to rectify error. These characteristics in times of crisis induce doubt, not enthusiasm—doubt which may breed grave mistrust and serious confusion."

The first step in directing the nation's financial resources to the best use, the study asserted, must be the wise and careful expenditure of the defense funds themselves.

The league said that the program has scarcely gone beyond the voting of huge appropriations, and this despite the fact that the essentials of a defense program are: [1] A clear concept of defense policy; [2] a plan of the technical means, military and naval, of carrying out this policy; [3] determination of present deficiencies and [4] arrangement for procurement.

Declares Plan Is Lacking.

From recent utterances of many prominent citizens and government officials, it is apparent that no clear defense policy exists, the league said.

It declared that petty jealousies between the army, navy, and marine corps must be thrust aside and costly duplication eliminated. The league reiterated demands for savings of 1 billion 745 million dollars in other governmental spending categories. It urged congress to begin a study of the whole federal tax structure with the view to obtaining substantially more revenue.

Rules Employes to Be Paid for "Short" Rest Periods

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—The wage-hour administration ruled today that employés coming under the labor standards act must be paid for "short" rest periods. The administration laid down the general rule that a rest period "up to and including 20 minutes" shall be counted as hours worked, but added: "When rest periods are longer, final decision on whether the employé will be paid for it will rest with the regional director."

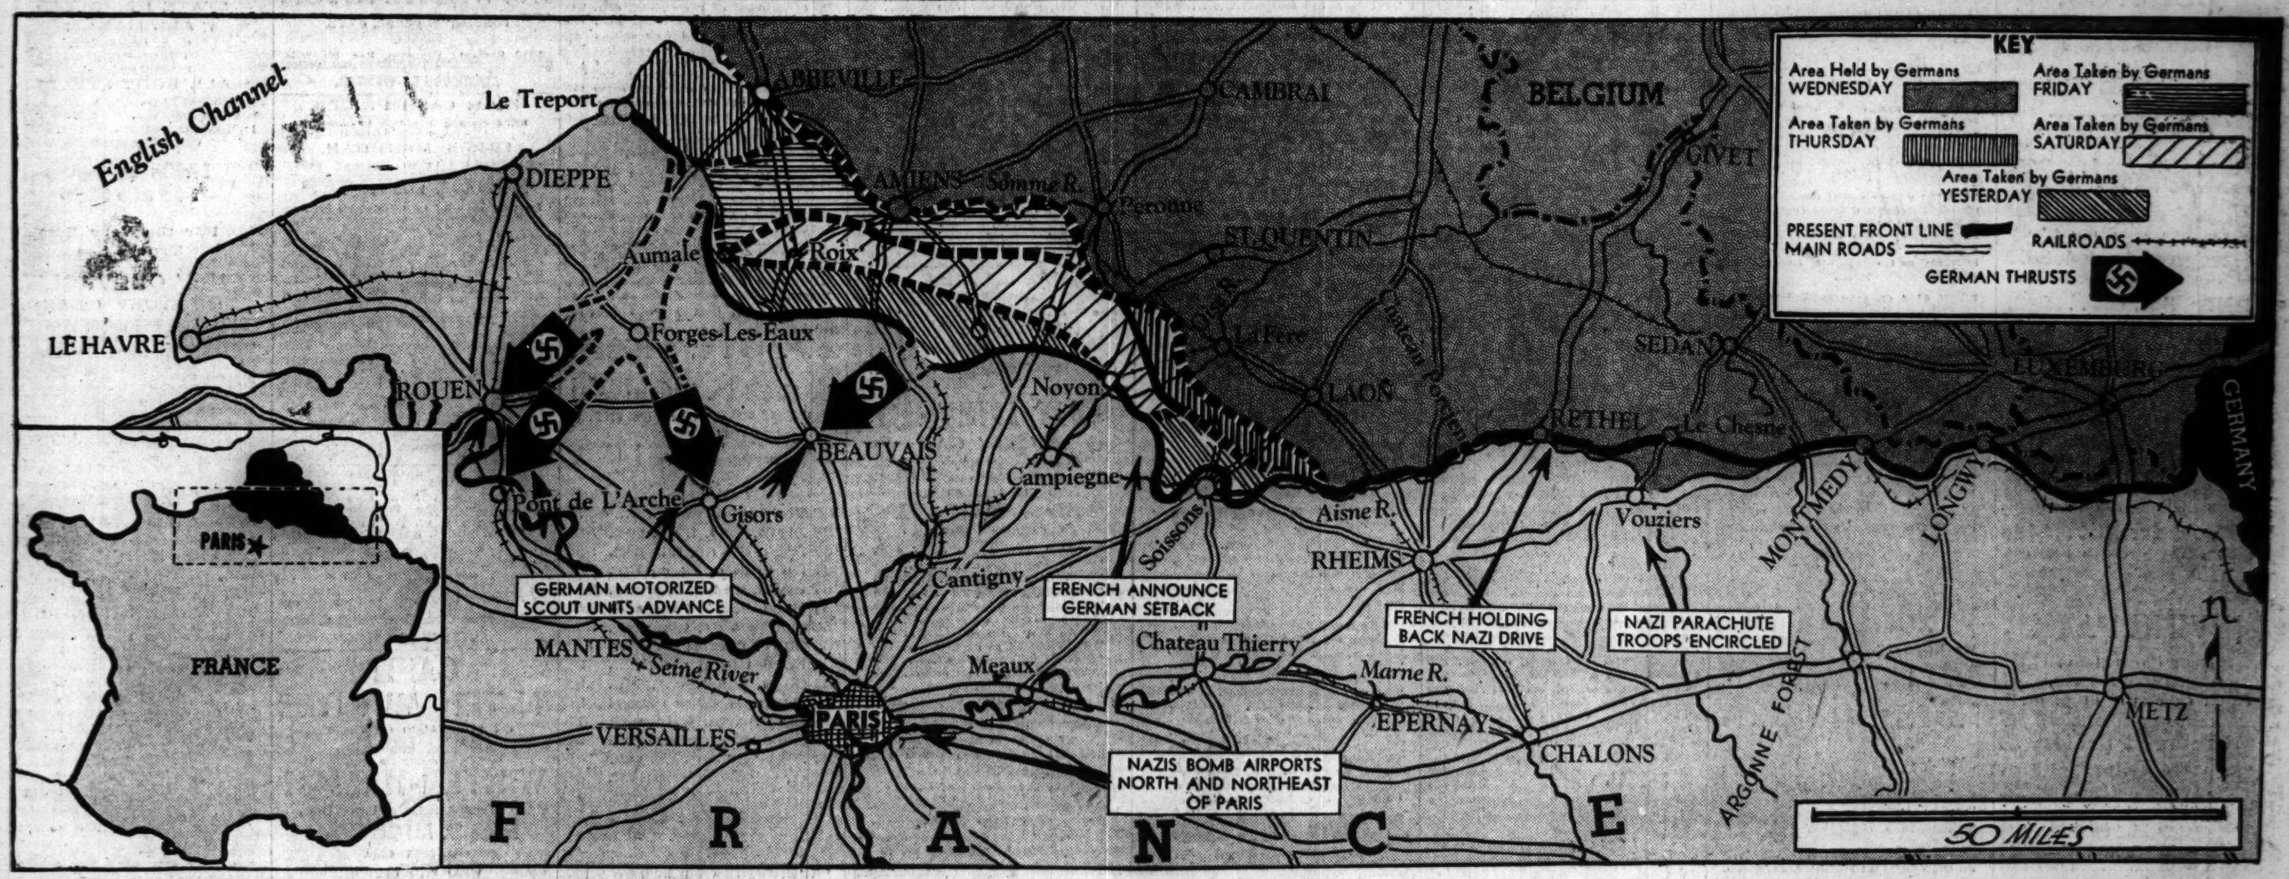
France Fights for Life as Germans Get Within 35 Miles of Paris—Illinois National Guard Displays Prowess



Yesterday's war developments are shown above as France battled 1,800,000 German invaders whose advance units were within 35 miles of Paris. French claimed advance was being stemmed on 160 mile front from Argonne forest to sea. Inset map (at lower left) shows how much of France Nazis now hold (black) and the relative size of big map above as compared with France as a whole (dotted lines).

The guardsmen pour out of scout cars to take up positions for combat. The demonstration, north of Springfield, was a preview of the National Guard's military show to be held in Chicago on June 29 and 30.

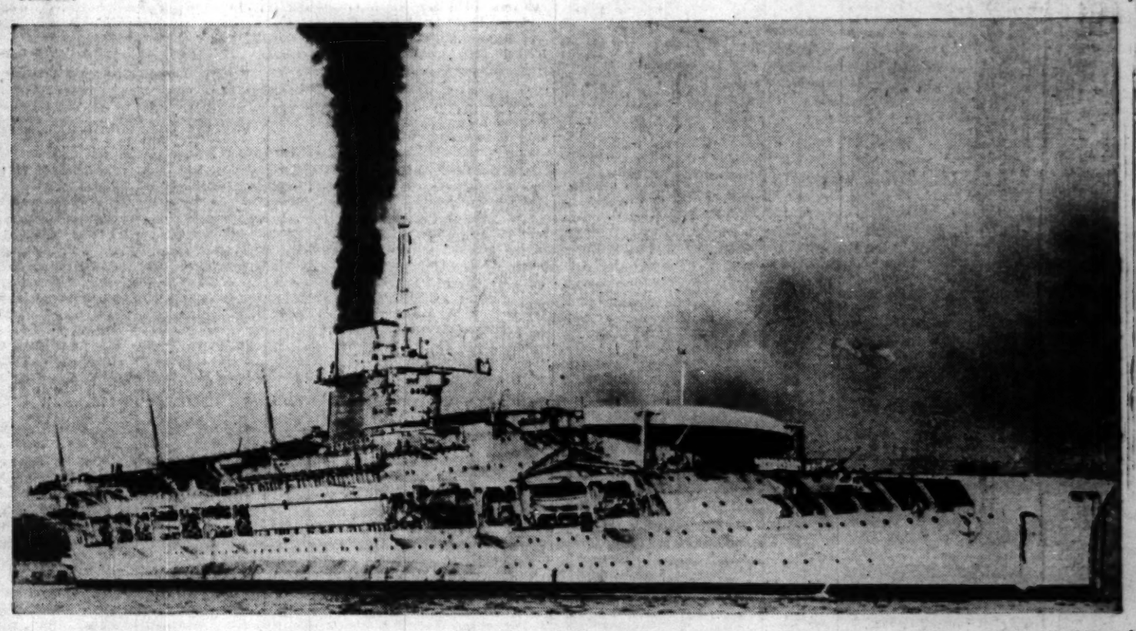
Emergency bridge erected across the Meuse river by German army engineers as Nazi tanks drove a tank spearhead against allied forces which later were bottled up in Flanders and forced to flee across English channel, according to German censor.



British aircraft carrier Glorious, which Germans claimed to have driven aground during naval battle near Narvik, Norway. All fighting in Norway was ordered ended last night by King Haakon.
